In college, you are in the midst of resorting your values, questioning them all, learning to discriminate, reevaluating what you have been taught as "right."

Unless, somewhere in your studies, you face squarely the need to define for yourself the worth and value of what you want, you will likely have to ask yourself eventually, "What's it all for?"

Each person lives in a continuously changing world of experience of which he is the center; each person reacts to experience as he sees it or judges it to be.

The arts of communicating take a long time to learn even in an elementary fashion; indeed, a lifetime is not long enough to learn them fully.

In whatever college setting—classroom, club meeting, party, athletic contest—the educative realities are the ebb and flow of feelings, the rub and lift of others' ideas, the infection of enthusiasm or the depression of boredom, the meshing of your own personality with other personalities.

Your leisure will mean the most to you if it is a real and creative contribution to your own sense of joy and fun of living.

Roger H. Garrison

What wonderful, congenial friends were made here! . . . Here there is an atmosphere . . . a unique mixture of gravity and seriousness combined with a confident, smiling serenity that does not exclude gaiety—and the mixture lives side by side. . .

Thornton Wilder

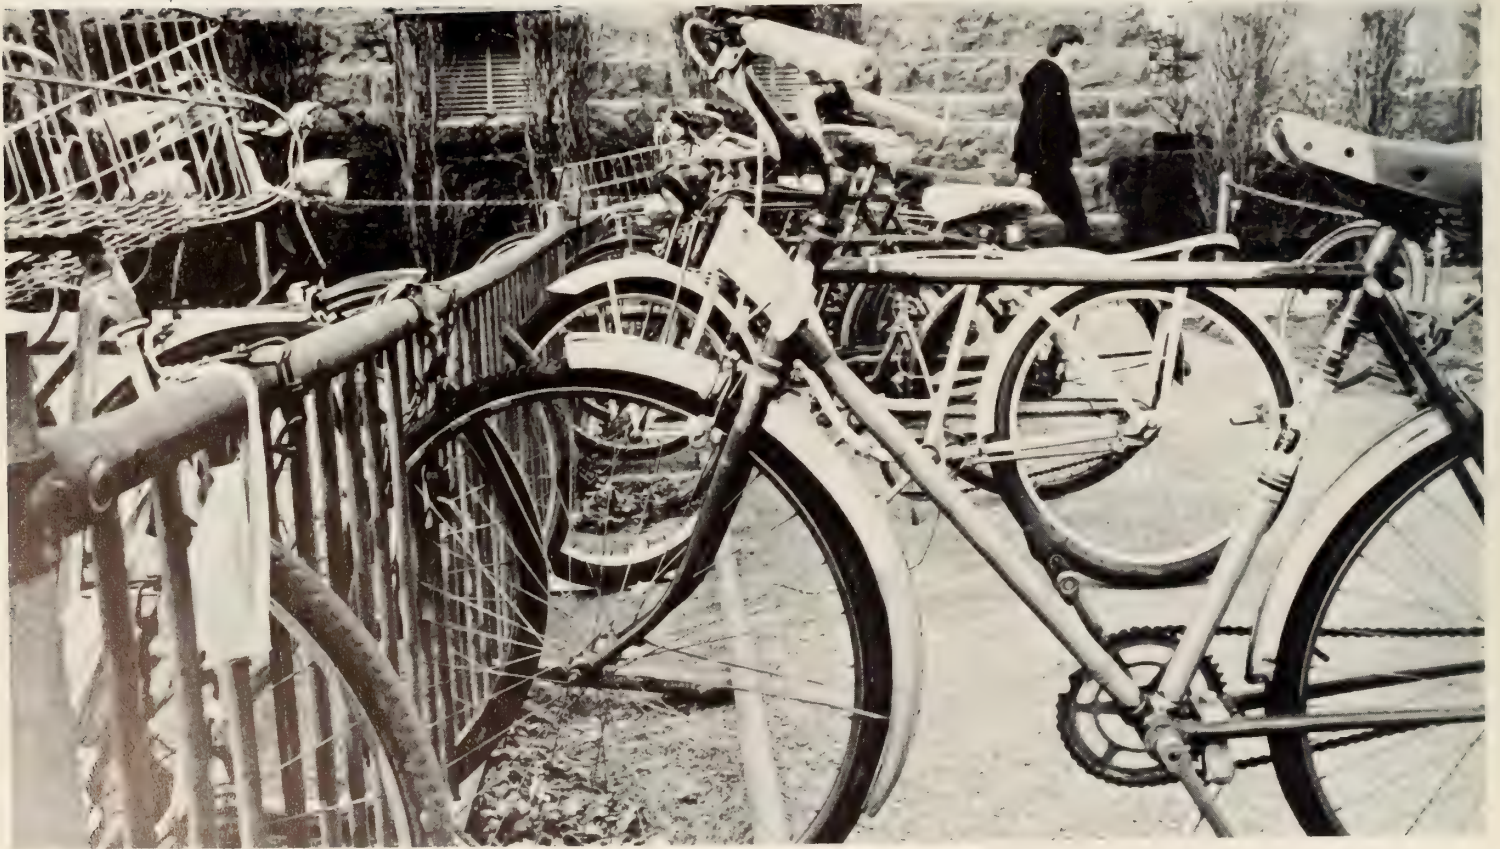

One is never a prisoner of oneself when he learns to meet himself alone—and enjoy the company. In college you can find time, perhaps more time than you will ever have again, to become acquainted with yourself.

Roger H. Garrison

Grow more to realize that in all last essential things there is loneliness, and that loneliness is what you build on and are not frightened by. And do it yourself.

Thornton Wilder

Student Life

Our University presents students with boundless avenues for discovery and expression, as each progresses on his way to the attainment of his distinctive identity.

Awareness of the problems of others can be achieved through student to student contact or by merely strolling through the quad any day of the year.

Academic opportunity varies as much as the diversified curricula and the thousands of courses covering all areas of study.

Physical expression continues at an accelerated pace with seemingly undying energy and desire for competition.

More of an understanding of self is generated through contact with others in both formal and informal situations.

Relaxation and entertainment allow for the release of tension and broaden the scope of daily routine to more than a strict diet of text books.

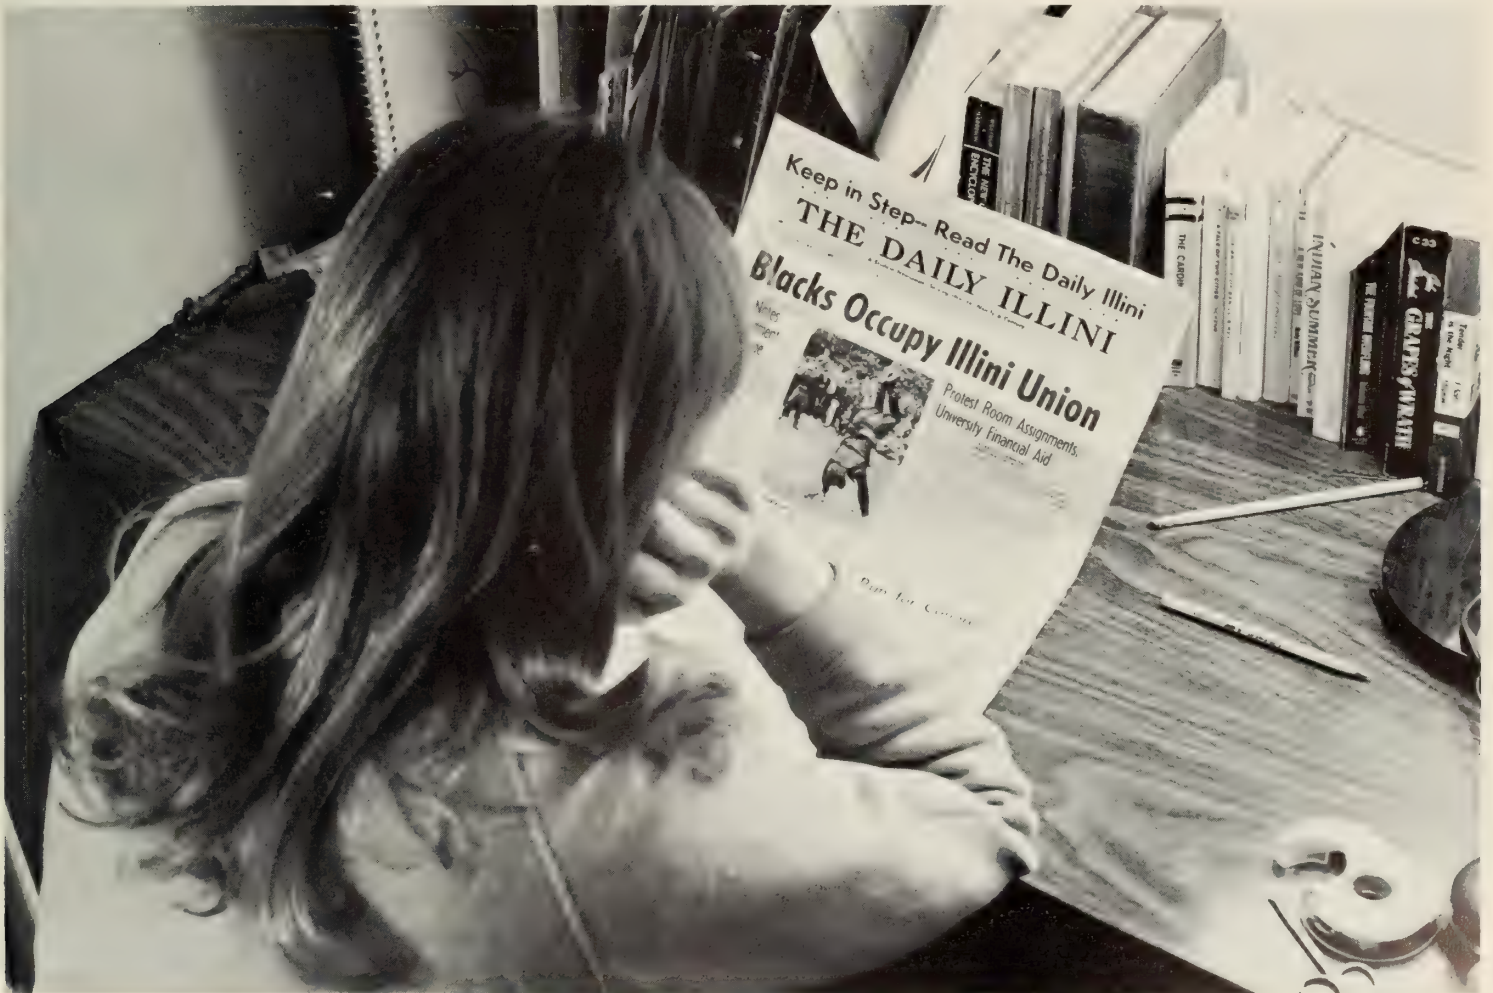

Campus activities offer the place to become more than just one digit in an ever-increasing computation of student population.

The "Search for Identity" never ceases as we move through each day looking for our own little niche in the overpowering complexity of our modern world.

Academic life at the University of Illinois, to quote a cliché, "can be what you make it." Routine life centered around classes and books but there was so much available if you only looked below the surface. Classes could even be considered somewhat diversified—it isn't really that normal to take a flower arranging final or a field trip to the Smokies to observe rock formations.

Besides classes, students exercised their brain cells demonstrating against the establishment, initiating the new Student Congress, and now even forming their own "199" classes. Interested people made their voices heard to the faculty at "teach-ins" and at the "Chancellor Chats" where timely problems were discussed.

A high level of scholastic achievement received recognition through Bronze Tablet, the highest award for students in each college. Yet a great majority of students just continued to plug along at their normal pace—cutting a class every now and then, doing papers at the last minute, and putting in their share of all-nighters. But it's all worth it at graduation.

Fun during the semester fades away as all face the reality of finals.

A Student Can Accept a Routine

Smiling faces are not common at registration, that awful ordeal where students stand in line to stand in line.

A student who looks finds curious and useful information in varied places.

Year or Search for Singularity

A traditional scene of the beginning school year, convocation presents faculty and speaker in their finest.

Students demonstrate to protest the Viet Nam War, a major issue of the year.

Learning Process Continues

When groups of students gather on the quad to talk, the resulting discussion is usually very enlightening.

"Chancellor Chats," innovated this year, are informal sessions held weekly.

Through Student Communication

Campus disputes, few solutions, and too much talk are brought out by Student Senate elections in the spring.

A student wishing to express his views easily gathers a crowd to listen.

Speakers Provide Interested

Richard Ogilvie, on campaign tour, stopped to talk to Illinois students on pertinent issues facing the state.

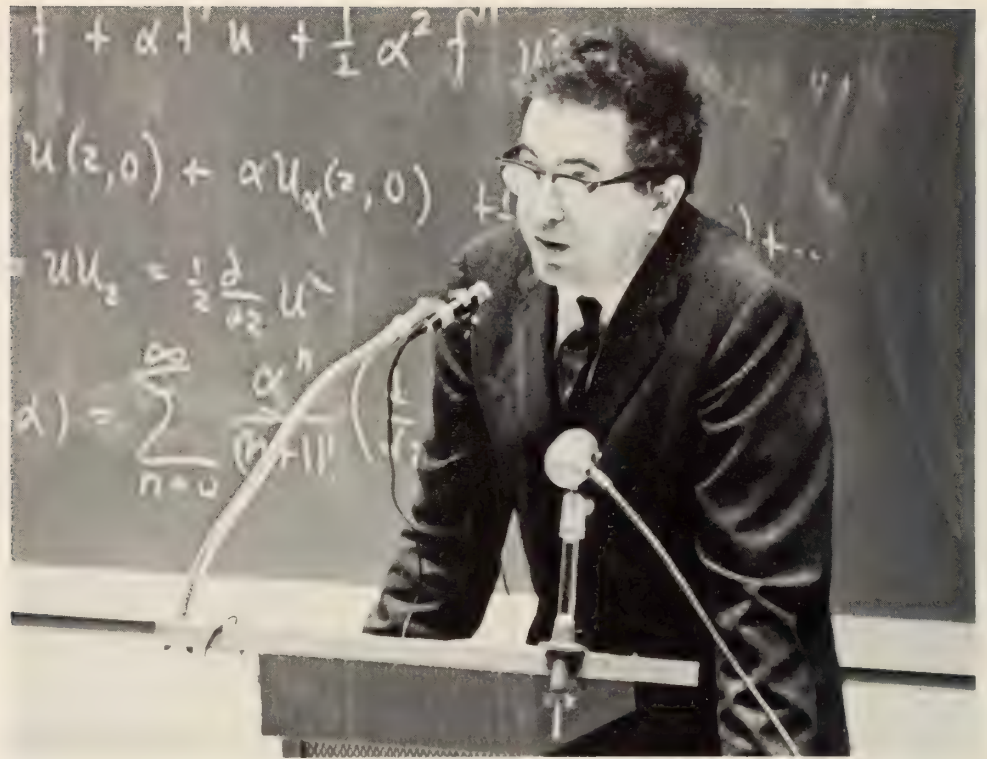

Republicans and Democrats were busily seeking support for their candidates.

Student Body Food for Thought

Mayor Lindsay enlightens Midwest students on the problems and issues facing New York City at this time.

Students sometimes are only more confused by the lecturers detailed examples.

Students Spend Majority of Their

Laboratory courses, from chemistry to microbiology, take a lot of extra class time for life science students.

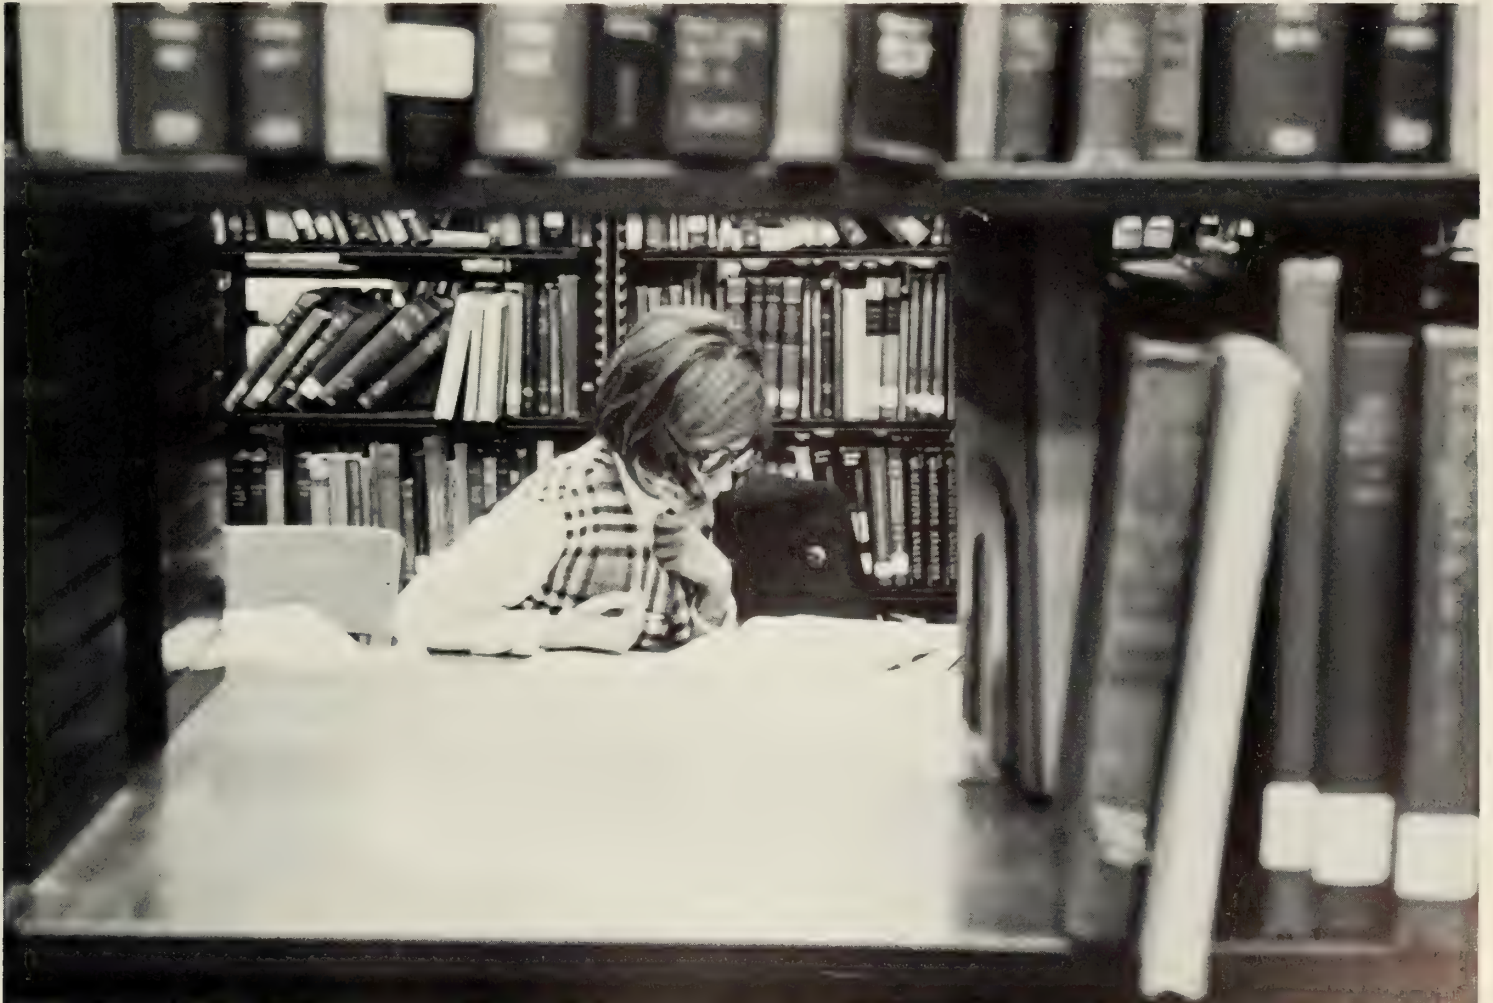

Bronze tablets in the library honor top 3 per cent of each graduating class.

Time in Classes or Studying

Students seeking a more peaceful atmosphere than their rooms often study in the library or an empty classroom.

Campus activity centered around classes, but for many there was much more to being a well-rounded student. Life from day to day would have been dry and dull if everyone hadn't taken out a little time every so often for a little physical activity.

Guys could not have survived without their fall football games, winter intramural basketball, or springtime tennis games. Many times girls did not exert themselves as strenuously as their male counterparts, but no one can say that it did not take a lot of stamina to withstand the heat of three straight hours in the sun in search of a tan. Both sexes were found using a lot of their extra energy at Chances R, the Red Lion, or any place they could find a space on the dance floor.

Who can dispute that it took some type of physical strength to last out the cold, wet, blistery weather found in Champaign-Urbana? Last but not least, anyone who survived more than one IC train ride deserved a medal for accomplishing something.

Dancing releases the tension built up by a week of classes and exams.

Weird Campus Weather Calls

Weather is a big factor in the lives of many students who have only their feet to rely on for transportation.

Intramural sports combine hearty physical activity with keen competition.

For the “Survival of the Fittest”

No matter what the date, rush weekend is always accompanied by some of the most miserable weather of the year.

The traumas of an IC ride are sometimes too much to pay for a short vacation.

Typical Life at University Level

In the fall and spring, students are seldom found without umbrellas as they trudge through campus monsoons

Latest dances require physical fitness to endure a night of "soul-rocking".

Requires Student Endurance

Obtaining precision in the halftime drills of the Pom Pom Squad necessitates practice and more practice.

For some, physical fitness requires certain specialized therapeutic training.

Excess Energy Finds Many

Routine work for University employees includes clearing the bicycle paths.

A little drenched, students trudge on through the daily routine of class.

Bowling provides physical exercise whether as a class or on a Friday date.

Outlets in Campus Activities

While skating through a maze of experts, beginners attempt to perfect their skills and remain on two feet.

During this year, students searched for identity through cultural outlets on campus. First among these was Convocation where new students got their first glimpse of President Henry and were treated to the strains of the concert choir.

The Assembly Hall hosted everything from Barnum and Bailey's circus to violin and mandolin concerts. Book fairs, fine arts fairs, and other exhibits were found in the Union. University theater groups provided amateur actors with their first big chance to be in the lime-light while the Depot was more mod with its psychedelic costumes and lack of scenery.

But at the same time, it wasn't hard to find a little culture in many different places on campus. Many enjoyed the Twilight concerts of the University bands or stopped to check out the ever-changing art exhibits in the Union while meandering through to class.

An insight to life in other countries is the theme of International Fair.

Cultural Opportunities Abound

A warm spring day finds many enthralled in the exhibits of a sidewalk art fair on the Illini Union patio.

Student directors get practical experiences by directing Armory Theater plays.

if Only Students Discover Them

Long hair and lighthearted music have their distinctive flavors but add their part to a cultural experience.

Learning About Other Cultures

An Afro-American style show exhibits one of the new distinctive cultures.

"Through the Looking Glass" presents both realistic and idealistic Alice.

Broadens the Student Outlook

Krannert Art center is the showing grounds of imagination and creativity.

Paperback books draw the attention of these students who manage to find time in their busy schedules to read.

Student Talent Finds Outlets

Blankets become comfortable seats for enjoying the spring Twilight concerts.

University Theater productions offer drama students their chance to perform.

in Amateur Campus Productions

Many art students show off their original creations on Mom's Day Weekend.

A minimum of scenery aids in creating the special atmosphere of the Depot.

Dancers with adept skills soon make the audience forget they are on ice.

Assembly Hall Crowds Enjoy

One of the Sandpipers slows the pace to set a romantic mood for his song.

Salted peanuts and loud barkers are missing when the circus invades campus.

Many thrilling stunts and skills add to the excitement of the Ice Capades.

Many Types of Entertainment

Performing elephants bring back many memories of everyone's first circus.

New Orleans blues resound through the Assembly Hall as Al Hirt plays.

Being a special pal draws students closer to a child's world of wonder.

Students Find That Giving a Little of Themselves

Upon hearing the word philanthropic, many students cringed at the involvement it suggested to them. But after a little thought it held slightly more meaning.

Many coeds had found time in their busy schedules to give a little of themselves for others. Through Volunteer Illini Projects many took time to work with underprivileged children as tutors, friends, or special "pals". Campus collections were not very numerous with ten agencies covered in the campaign for Campus Chest. Pledges aided in door to door canvassing for area Heart and Cancer Funds.

Even though many coeds did not actively work for any certain philanthropic organization, they did patronize charity dances and movies and contributed in their own way to those who they found to be slightly less fortunate.

to Others Helps in Understanding Their Attitudes

Many houses spend the holidays entertaining children by playing games with them and just sharing good times.

Rewarding Experiences Found

Good-bye dull winter-hello bright spring say fashion conscious girls.

Kaleidoscopic Mom's Weekend Ends In Complete Exhaustion

Teamwork is necessary for the intricate designs of the Terrapin Club.

It would be impossible to decide whether the moms or their sons and daughters were more exhausted after the kaleidoscopic Mom's Day Weekend. Campus moms were treated to the rigors of university life, by cramming into two days every conceivable activity that goes on throughout the year. Moms got a taste of everything from flower shows to the keen competition in the Atius-Sachem sing. These were only a few of the events which made Mom feel like an extra special person that weekend.

"If only Mom could see me now" was turned into a reality, but moms were no doubt thankful this weekend comes only once a year, by the time they kissed their hosts goodbye and began the long drive home.

Besides staying afloat, Terrapin swimmer adds grace and form to her routine.

Illioskee is captured in a blur of forms and light which flashed past this couple, gazing from the Scrambler.

Illioskee Becomes a Spring Thing of Festivity

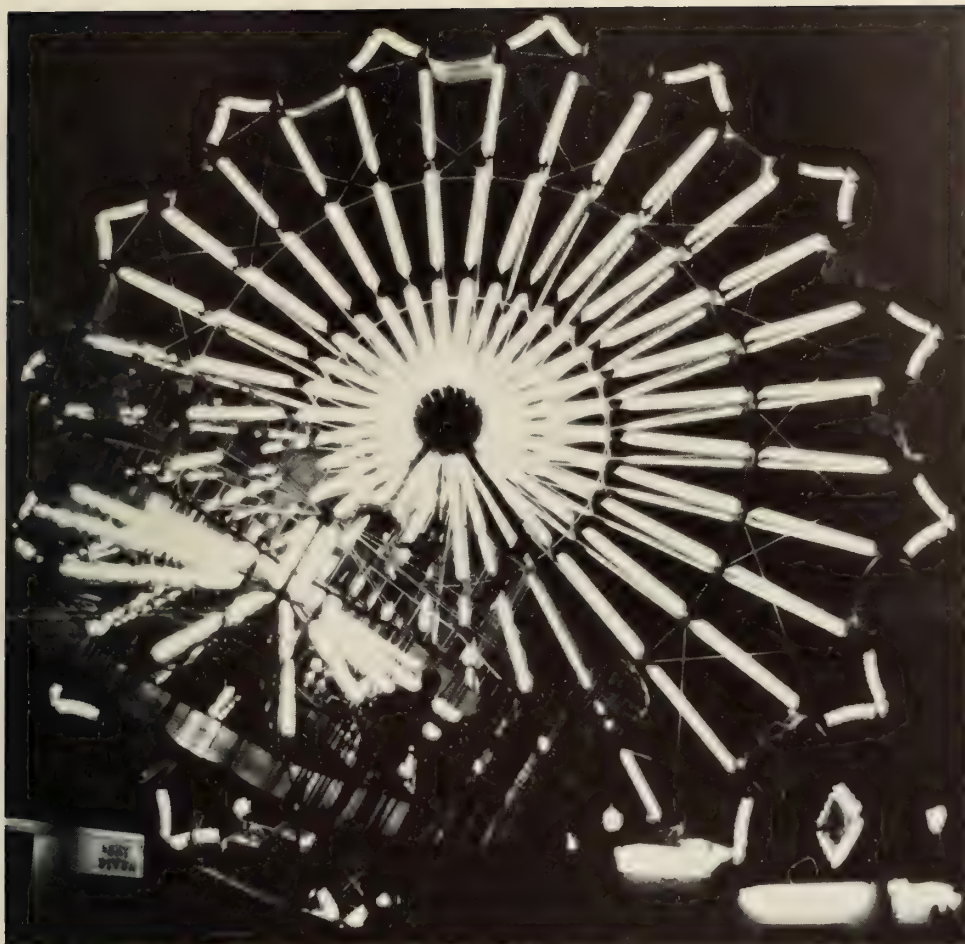

Billed the "Little State Fair," Illioskee proved to be just that. For three days, the Stock Pavillion and the band practice field were transformed into a "Spring Thing" of whirling carnival rides, challenging skill games, and loud rocking music.

"Illi-Alley," the theme within the Stock Pavillion, was based upon Piper's Alley in Old Town. "Test your sex appeal" was tried by many boys, but they had to be strong in order to ring the bell. Getting married was a favorite with many couples at the marriage booth. A political darts game provided an outlet for pent-up hostility and a paint-the-bod mod booth for pent-up artistic talent.

Outside the Pavillon, excitement reigned as students ventured into the grasps of rides, rifle ranges, a mung machine and a pig pen designed to amuse those who enjoyed watching someone else getting splattered with mud. Illioskee, with its new theme, proved to be a real "Spring Thing."

Paint-the-bod-mod provides students with an outlet for psychedelic talents.

The round-up and the ferris wheel lights blend into a carnival of motion.

A lucky pitch sends mung sloshing on the heads of unhappy volunteers.

Excitement registers on the faces of windblown girls whirling through space trying to save their stomachs.

"Orange and Blue U," this year's theme for Homecoming turned the campus into a mass of colors, house decs, and floats. With students grumbling about not getting out of classes on Friday afternoon, the annual Homecoming parade was held in the evening so that there could be more campus-wide participation. The streets were lined with Illini anticipating a torch-lit parade, only to find a few floats interspersed with some local traffic and high school bands.

As the parade disbanded at the IM fields, everyone gathered for the pep rally and queen crowning. A bitter wind blew as the rally began and our first bonfire was lit, hardly large enough to keep one person warm. Finally the long awaited announcement came—Lynn Newman was chosen as Miss Ohio State and Jennifer Haight received the blue and orange cape of Miss Illinois.

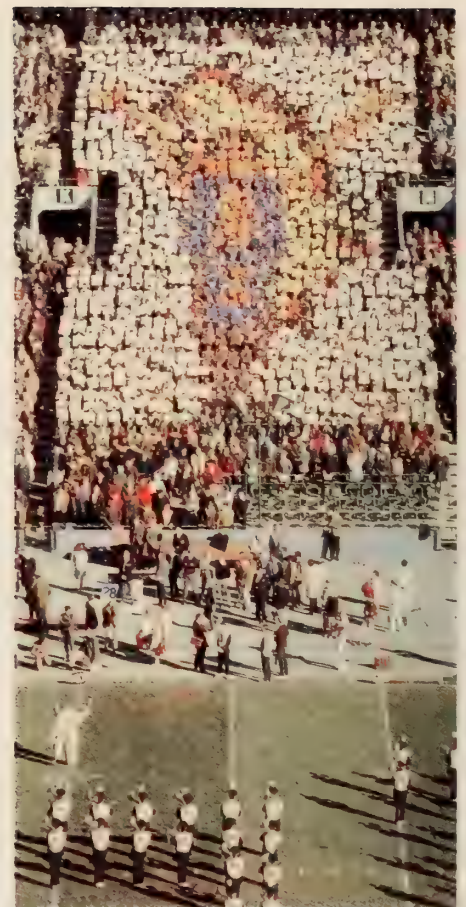

Saturday dawned sunny but brisk and traffic was snarled as alumni poured into Champaign-Urbana for the game. Greetings to returning alumni caused an even larger tie-up as they all tried to get back to their respective houses or to get to see their sons and daughters before the game.

The stands were a mass of colorful mums and Homecoming buttons as people settled down for the pre-game events. Following the introduction of the Homecoming court, Vicki Auer League, last year's queen, officially crowned Jennifer. As the queen and her court left the field, a fired-up Illini team came out determined to live down their rating. Many were happily surprised as the Fighting Illini pulled from behind to a tie with Ohio State. However, the Buckeyes rallied late in the fourth quarter to pull ahead and stay there.

Campus bustled with activity late into the night as freshmen took advantage of their first two o'clock night. Many danced to the music of either the New Colony Six or Skitch Henderson. As Sunday rolled around, the end of the Homecoming festivities left everyone just that much more unwilling to face Monday morning classes and settle back into the usual routine of exams.

Competition proved to be the stiffest ever as the 1968 Stunt Show unfolded on Homecoming Weekend. Eight skits made it to the finals following pairings last spring, a hectic New Student Week, tryouts, and over a month of practicing. "The Roar of the Brimstone, the Smell of the Fire," Alpha Chi and ZBT's show, came away with top honors, proof that God is not dead.

Finishing second, Tri Delt and Theta Chi's "Marvelous Mission" was searching for the perfect candidate for this election year — the joke of 1968. Iota and AEPi used a circus theme to portray the United States and the confusion often felt in this country, and they finished with a third-place trophy.

Last but far from least were the shaggers between acts with their Uncle Sam Rag. They kept the show rolling with blackouts and eased the tension as the audience sat tensely awaiting the judges' decision Saturday night.

Casino Entertains Dads with

Whether it be the Regiment at the Red Lion, the Lox and Bagel Brunch at Hillel, the free crested beer mug at Chances R, or any of the dozen other spectacular events and happenings of the Dad's Day weekend at the U of I, there is no question that the Illini dads had the time of their lives.

As though just in honor of them, the Illinois football team won their first and only victory over the Northwestern Wildcats. To add to the excitement, the maiden performance of the Illinettes, the University's newly formed pom pom squad, took place; and what healthy red-blooded father wouldn't appreciate a show of legs.

For the more culturally minded, there was the Varsity Men's Glee Club performance, and for all dads alike, the Casino, with its poker, craps, and roulette. Between hands of poker and the campus night spots, a few dads managed to catch a little shut-eye, no doubt glad that the end of the weekend was near and they would be able to recuperate. After Sunday dinner, dads started the long drive home.

Roulette, Craps, and Poker

The crowning of King Dad highlights the weekend, especially for his daughter.

The popularity of gambling with dads is evidenced by this confused scene at the Casino in the Illini Union.

Taking an army physical isn't all that fun if you happen to be over thirty.

Independents Entertain Dads

Breaking all tradition, DROOL or "Dad's Really Out On a Limb" was presented by WISA, MIA, and MRHA, and its four quality acts entertained everyone.

An army drafted dad was the theme of Evans' and Newman's "Bye Bye Daddy." "Once Upon a Time" was a biting commentary on the trend of television game shows. It followed a couple from their births, through their marriage, to their divorce; all events were televised in the modern tradition. America's most beloved child star, Little Miss Curly Dimple, reminiscent of old style musicals, was the theme of "You Mustn't be Discouraged" by Indeco and Weston. ISR walked away with the trophy for their "Hail to Thee, our Mad Hatter," a comical slam on Illinois red tape, as Alice was refused because of the lack of an I.D. number. This show also hit other timely subjects like marijuana users and student alienation through using regulations. The independents put on a great show that satirized college life.

College Life Offers Opportunities

After the Acacia Scramble, sororities perform to redeem their composites.

to Pursue Diversified Activities

Among Homecoming festivities, float building requires hours of preparation.

A campus "Little Sisters Conference" brings together representatives from many houses for interesting talks.

Some people have said that there is nothing to do in the social realm in Champaign-Urbana. But in looking back over the past year, it is easy to see that this is not exactly true. Things happened whenever students put forth a little effort to enjoy themselves.

Kam's, Stan's, Treno's, and all the local hangouts were never at a loss for customers on Friday afternoons as students gathered for a TGIF beer. Dates later that night or Saturday varied from the 50¢ movie to dinner, a show, and Chances R. The less affluent spent many exhausting hours at open houses or Union dances attempting to master the "four corners" or continuing with the outmoded "funky."

Bridge never lost its lure and many hours were spent in front of the "tube." No matter what day, socializing wasn't far away.

Campus and world problems are often the topic whenever students congregate.

Making the Most of all Campus Locations at any

The constant changes in dance steps necessitate a lot of energy and practice to keep up with the newest fad.

Students welcome relaxation which makes quite a difference after a little dancing to the popular songs.

Opportunity, Students Gather for Fun and Frolic

Spring and warm weather offer a little variety to the normal daily routine as bands move out on the quad.

The ADPi-ATO monopoly tournament provides an outlet for money-making skills.

Meeting and Talking with Others

Whenever enough instruments are found, amateur musicians take advantage of a chance to practice together.

Following the theme, costumes add a special touch to a house pledge dance.

Can Enrich a Student's Outlook

No matter what the occasion, students always congregate where they can have a drink and play a hand of cards.

A protective attitude is assumed when competition for attention challenges.

A Typical Date May Consist

Barely being able to move on the dance floor hardly ever keeps anyone from rocking to his favorite song.

Campus dances vary from the loud informal to the more quiet romantic type.

of Doing Just About Anything

A friendly discussion over a beer affords students a chance to become alert to others' viewpoints and ideas.

Study breaks always seem to be centered around the nearest campus hangout.

Daily Routine Becomes a Drag

Many a Friday afternoon finds coeds with a beer and a handful of cards as they celebrate the end of the week.

Rush parties put the ability to socialize on trial for many scared rushees.

Without Welcome Study Breaks

No matter where you are, students always seem to congregate around a guitar for a song fest of favorite oldies.

The pinball machines succeed in snatching dimes from many coeds on campus.

Social Life Aids in Creating

Chances R, with its famous "Old Town" atmosphere, is a favorite of many as a place for getting together for fun.

Some of the more inexpensive dates consist of just talking or playing bridge.

a More Complete Personality

To some, socializing means anything from a big night out to just getting together to discuss shared problems.

Cheerleaders Work to Generate Enthusiasm

Despite unpredictable performances by the Illinois football team, a determined Illini cheerleading squad proved that spirit still existed at Zuppke Field. In trying to keep up this spirit, the squad renovated many of their traditional programs and initiated several new cheering techniques. One new highlight of the football season was snappy flag routines, synchronized to the quick moving marches of the band. Flashy pom pom routines further emphasized their bouncy, spirited pace. Pyramid formations and acrobatics were two more important techniques which displayed their agility. The new "mini tramp" aided the squad in executing their gymnastic skills.

With the basketball season, spirit was still the key, although not as hard to excite. For the first time in several years, male members of the squad cheered at the basketball games. The squad was able to rotate different cheerleaders in the upper block. As a result, more sideline cheers were started by fans in the upper sections.

Spring Practice Paints Promising Picture

Despite the efforts of Randy Rodgers, Doug Dieken (82) pulls down a pass.

Varsity football coach Jim Valek and his team of Fighting Illini entered the spring practice session with their work cut out for them. Primary among their problems was the loss of several key players during the winter. While the offensive line was particularly hard hit, both the defensive line and the offensive backfield looked promising.

As expected, several switches in the line-up were made during the session. Doug Dieken changed from tight end to split end, and Bob Bess looked very impressive after a move from substitute quarterback to halfback. Starting quarterback Bob Naponic, having recovered from the injuries of his junior year, progressed well, and by the end of the period, Valek was able to say, "He's improved 1,000 per cent."

The four week session ended optimistically as the first string beat the second string 61-12 in an intrasquad scrimmage. Although it was readily admitted that the second string didn't offer nearly the competition the Illini would be facing in the fall, everyone was pleased. Valek had stated that the three aims of the session were to develop hustle, enthusiasm, and discipline, and after the scrimmage he added, "I think we accomplished all these objectives."

Second stringer Bob Wintermute (87) trips up halfback Dave Jackson (25).

Gridders Tackle Big Eight Champions in Opener

The 1968 Fighting Illini finished in a disappointing tie for eighth place in the Big Ten because of injuries to key players, bad breaks, and a murderous schedule which included five of the best teams in the country. Although team morale slipped a little after the first few setbacks, it picked up at midseason and the Illini played some outstanding football. Evidence of this reawakening of Illini spirit was a victory over Northwestern, and a near upset of the number one team in the nation, Ohio State.

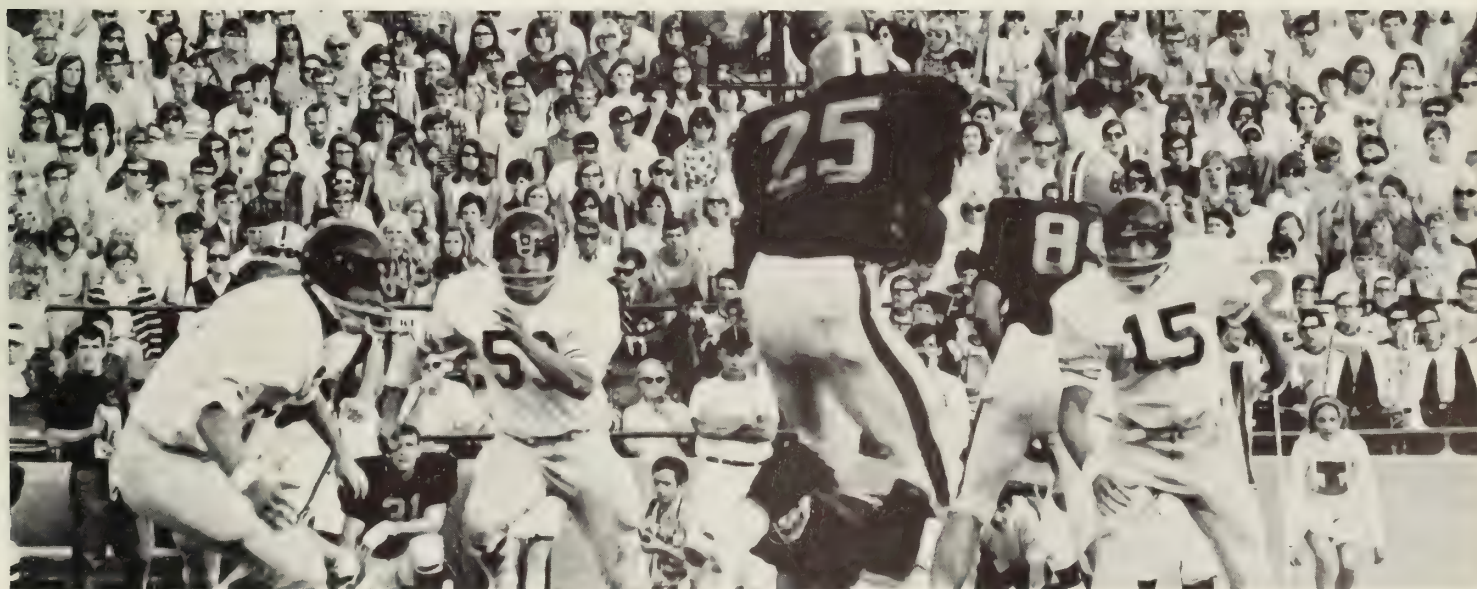

In the opening game of the season, Illinois lost to the University of Kansas 47-7. The game was a poor match as Kansas, a Big Eight title contender, completely dominated the action. The humiliating loss was hard to swallow, but Illini problems were just beginning. A few days later, first string halfback Dave Jackson contracted hepatitis, and defensive guard Herschel Johnson sustained a rib injury. Both men were lost for the season.

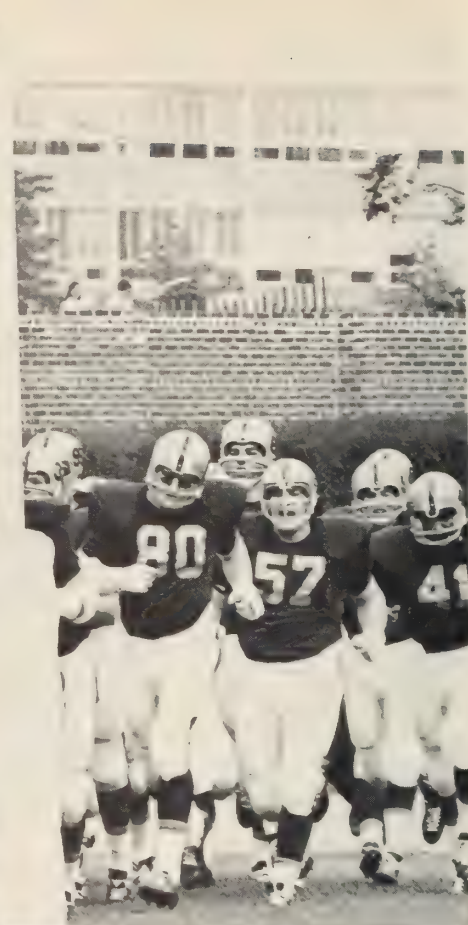

A week after the Kansas game, Illinois faced nationally ranked Missouri. This match resulted in a shut out at the hands of the talented Tigers. Injuries were suffered by Tony Pleviak, Carson Brooks, Bruce Erb, and Jeff Trigger.

Injuries, Bad Breaks Plague Football Season

In their Big Ten opener, the Illini dropped a 28-14 contest to the Hoosiers. Sub-par blocking and tackling along with fumbles deep in Indiana territory killed any hopes Illinois may have had for a victory.

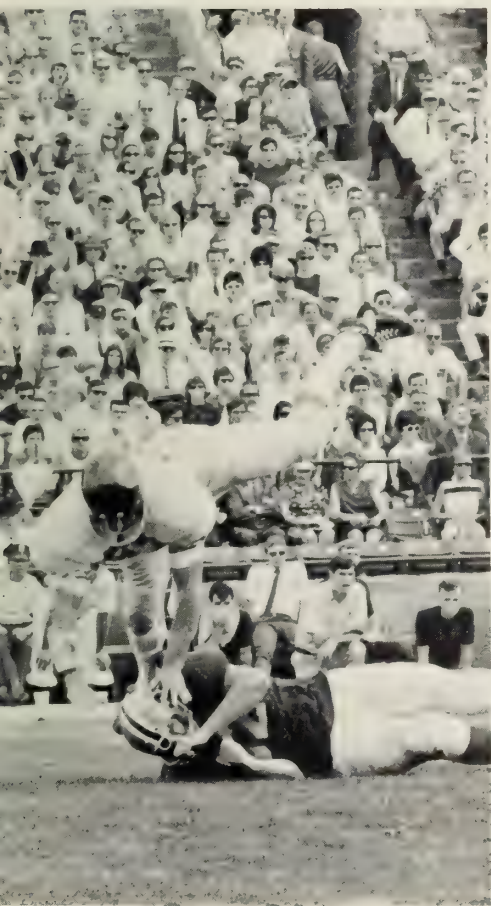

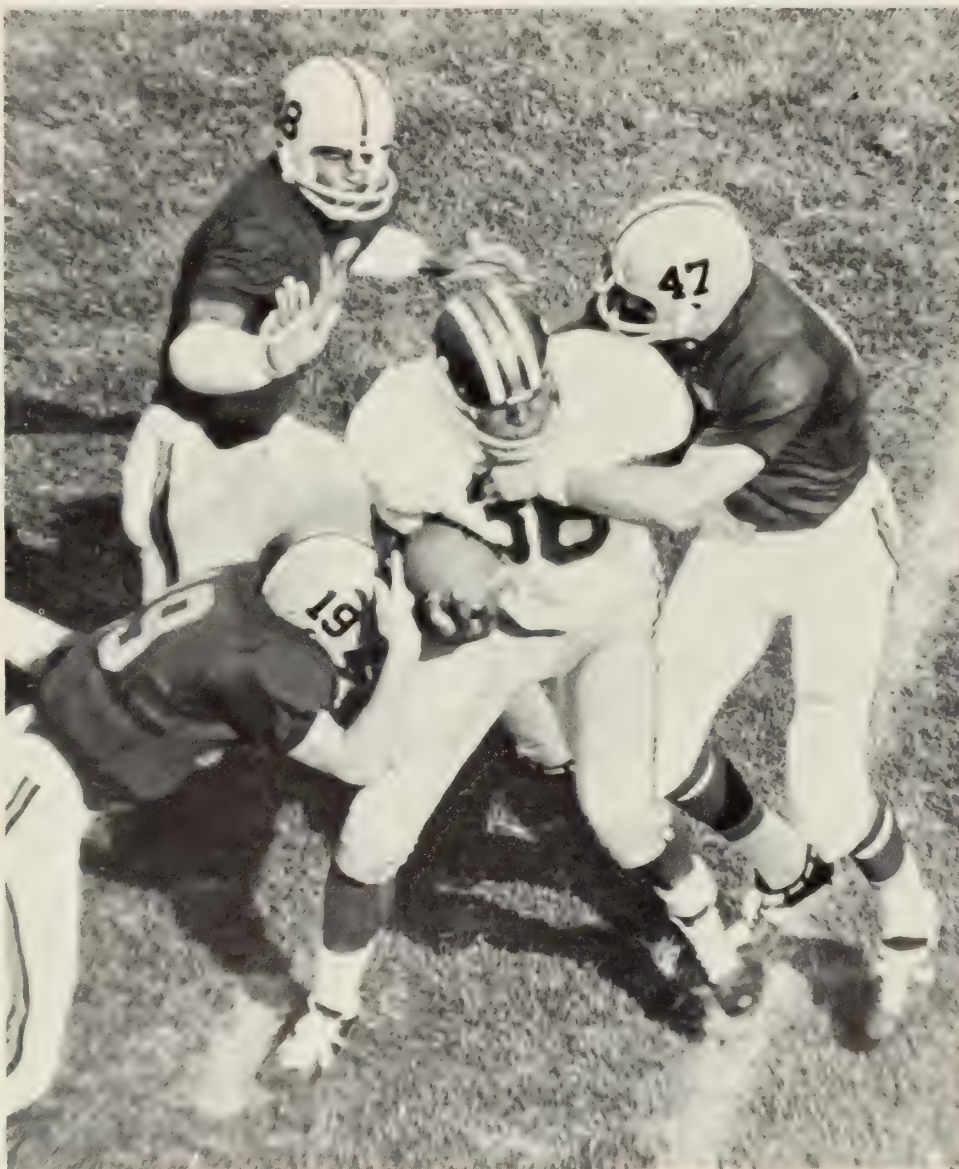

Unable to launch a passing attack, the Illini lost a ground battle to powerful Minnesota by a score of 17-10. Rich Johnson had an outstanding game as he rushed for 117 yards. Jeff Trigger was the standout on defense, making eight solo tackles and assisting on ten others.

By the time they played the sixth-ranked team in the nation, the University of Notre Dame, Illinois was short five regular players due to injuries. The Illini proved to be no match for the tough Irish defense nor for the superb passing combination of Terry Hanratty to Jim Seymour. Notre Dame romped over the outmanned Illini 58-8 before their own Homecoming crowd.

Illini Comeback Gives Ohio State Big Scare on Homecoming

After the disaster at Notre Dame, Illinois football fortune took a turn for the better. On October 26, a wildly enthusiastic Homecoming crowd of 56,000 saw mighty OSU fight for its life to gain a 31-24 victory over the Illini. Trailing 24-0 at half-time, the fired-up Illini came back with three touchdowns and three two-point conversions to tie the Buckeyes 24-24 with only 4:30 left to play. An upset seemed imminent when Ohio State's star quarterback Rex Kern was taken out by an injury with only 1:30 remaining. However, reserve quarterback Ron Maciejowski came off the bench and threw a 44 yard pass that put OSU on the Illinois 4 yard line. Two plays later, the Buckeyes scored the final touchdown. The Illini returned the kick-off to their own 42 yard line. Bob Naponic's passes moved them to the OSU 44. With 30 seconds left, a Naponic aerial was intercepted deep in OSU territory, ending the season's most phenomenal comeback.

Bad breaks were a major factor in giving the Illini their seventh loss at Purdue. Two bad punts in the first half turned the ball over to Purdue deep in Illini territory, and the Boilermakers scored two easy touchdowns. Although the Illini held All-American Leroy Keyes to only three yards rushing in the second half, it was too late to repair the first half damage.

Rather than risk an interception, Bob Naponic decides to eat the pigskin.

Michigan's powerful offense and tough defense were too much for the Illini to handle and they were miserably shut out 36-0 at Ann Arbor. The Wolverines were able to stop the Illini passing attack almost completely, allowing only five completions for 35 yards in 16 attempts besides making two interceptions. On the ground, the Illini were more successful as they gained 225 yards with 121 of those coming from full-back Rich Johnson.

The Illini gained their only victory of the 1968 season by shutting out Northwestern 14-0. A rainsoaked Dad's Day crowd of 42,000 saw Charlie Bareither set up the first Illinois score with a key pass interception in the second quarter. Bob Naponic completed the play by scoring a touchdown from the four-yard line. Rich Johnson scored the second Illinois touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the final period. A tough Illinois defense, led by Tony Pleviak and Bill Nowak, stopped the Wildcat passing attack, allowing them only eight completions in twenty-six attempts. The Illini were also able to contain the Wildcats on the ground, holding their leading rusher to only 26 yards. Coach Valek had much praise for Pleviak and Nowak who had nine tackles a piece. Rich Johnson was the offensive star as he rushed for 119 yards.

In the final game of the season, a talented young Iowa team handed the Illini their ninth loss by walking over them 37-13. Four Hawkeye touchdowns in the second half killed any hopes of a Illinois win. Once again, Rich Johnson was the offensive standout as he gained 117 yards and scored one touchdown.

Despite the poor Big Ten finish, there were some outstanding individual performances by Illini which brightened up a disappointing season. Rich Johnson finished third in Big Ten rushing with 759 yards, and also became the fourth leading rusher in Illinois football history. His career total of 2,058 yards put him in the exclusive company of such Illinois greats as Jim Grabowski, "Red" Grange, and Alex Karras. In Big Ten play, Bruce Erb ranked fifth in tackles, and Charlie Bareither ranked fifth in pass interceptions. At the annual Football Awards Banquet, Rich Johnson was the recipient of the team's Most Valuable Player Award, and Doug Redmann and Bruce Erb were named co-captains for the 1969 season.

Scholz Captures AOY Award For Cage Performance In '68

The Fighting Illini's leading basketball scorer, Dave Scholz, was selected Athlete of the Year by a campus-wide vote after his second season of varsity play. Dave's 529 points scored during his junior season plus the 471 earned during his sophomore year gave him 1,000 points and an excellent chance to break Don Freeman's 1449 point U of I record and to win two AOY nominations.

Chosen the most valuable player and captain of the 1967-'68 basketball team, Dave led the Illini in scoring and ranked fifth in the Big Ten with his 22 points per game average. One of Dave's most outstanding games was against intra-state rival Northwestern. He scored 42 points against the Wildcats to set an Assembly Hall scoring record and post the second highest game mark in Illini cage history.

Following the 1968 season, Dave was named to the Helm's Foundation All-American Team and to the COSIDA Academic All-American Team. The Big Ten named him to the All-Conference Squad and to the All-Academic Squad. To add to his list of honors, the NCAA invited Dave to join the basketball tryout squad for the 1968 Olympics in Mexico.

Well on his way to a record-breaking 42 point game, Scholz goes up for two.

Positive Thinking Emphasized In Cross Country Preparation

Coach Gary Wieneke prepared the varsity cross country squad for the 1968 season with a rigorous program that stressed the conditioning of the runner's mind. The key to the new coaching philosophy was positive thinking. Mental preparation involved having the team run in practice sessions as a unit, rather than as individuals in order to eliminate all possible negative feelings. A grueling summer training session initiated the new program with each team member required to run up to 1,000 miles of long distances. The program was a success as the Illini improved over the last place finish of 1967 by finishing sixth in the Big Ten.

One of the highlights of the season for the Illini was the Illinois Intercollegiate Cross Country Meet. The team breezed past all the twelve other participating colleges and universities to capture an impressive first place by having five runners within a 64 second spread. The harriers accumulated 59 points against 90 for second place Eastern Illinois University. The final meet of the season resulted in a 22-35 upset over the previously undefeated University of Michigan. Despite adverse weather conditions, the team recorded their best times of the season. Ken Howse finished the five mile course in 25:22.0 to snatch first place, 13 seconds ahead of the top Wolverine. Howse's outstanding performance earned him a title of most valuable player, and Greg Dykstra was voted the new captain.

Although soccer was not new at Illinois, this was the first year that every player had previously had game experience in high school, making the potential of this year's squad greater than ever before. In order to develop this potential as much as possible, Coach Al Palmi-otto implemented his strategy of "total offense and total defense." He required each player to learn a defensive and an offensive position in addition to the man's normal assignment. The effectiveness of this strategy was exemplified in victories against Western Illinois, Indiana State, Chicago, and Northwestern, as Illinois scored 29 points to the opposition's 4.

Under the capable leadership of team captain Johann Devilliers, the squad battled to a five win, four loss, and one tie record in the Midwest Rugby Union. The highlight of the year was the club's second place finish at the Chicago Tournament. Posting tournament victories over Indiana and the Chicago Lions, the Illini met their only loss at the hands of a tough Wisconsin squad in the final round of play. Prospects for 1969 look good, according to club president Bernie Zant. This prediction was based on an increased turnout for the spring practice.

This year U of I athletic fans witnessed the debut of the newly organized pompon squad, dubbed the Illinettes. The squad was formed to boost enthusiasm at Illinois athletic events. Inspiration for the squad came from two Illinois coeds, Mary Ann Drysch and Susan Stratton. Attempts to organize a squad had been made several times in the past, but all failed due to a lack of organization. This year hard work and general enthusiasm made the U of I pompon squad a reality.

Squad members were chosen after a series of clinics and tryouts on the basis of poise, pep, personality, and skill. Four hundred anxious coeds turned out for the preliminary tryout. Only twenty finalists and two alternates were tapped.

Under the direction of John Adams of IUSA, the girls raised money for uniforms through contributions and the sale of shakers at the games. The Illinettes made their first appearance at major Homecoming events and continued to dance their way into the hearts of the Illini. Working with the band department, the Illinettes provided halftime entertainment at both football and basketball games. Hours of strenuous practice resulted in an increased repertoire of synchronized and colorful dance routines.

The Fighting Illini score again, and Butler's hopes continue to sink.

Speed, hustle, determination, and a lot of team effort was the formula of success for the 1968-69 Illinois basketball team. Under the able leadership of Coach Harv Schmidt the Illini had one of their best seasons in recent years, closing out the campaign with a 19-5 won-lost record. In Big Ten competition, the Illini, along with Ohio State, took a back seat to first place finisher Purdue while winning nine games against five losses.

One of the biggest highlights of the season was Captain Dave Scholz's record-breaking performance against Michigan State in the Assembly Hall on March 4, 1969. With twenty-one seconds left in the game, Scholz made a lay-up and became the highest scoring basketball player in the history of Illinois, breaking Don Freeman's career scoring record of 1,449 points. Scholz finished the year with 1,459 career points to his credit.

The varsity cagers started the long season with nine non-conference contests before facing their first Big Ten foe. Winning all nine tilts the Illini quickly earned national recognition as one of the top ten collegiate squads. Opening their season in the Assembly Hall, the Illini easily massacred their visitors from Butler 105-66. This was followed by a hard-fought battle against Creighton, who the Illini barely edged out 69-66. Back in Champaign, the Illini put four wins under their belt, giving them six wins and no losses. By crushing Houston and capturing first place in the Hurricane Classic in Miami, the Illini ushered in the new year with a perfect record of 9-0.

Cagers Remain Undefeated in Assembly Hall

Back in Champaign, the Illini had little trouble in defeating Ohio State and turned around to topple Michigan. The Iowa game proved to be disastrous for the Illini, pinning a fifth conference defeat on Illinois. Purdue had sewn up the Big Ten title, and for the Illini it turned into a battle for second place with Ohio State. A victory at Indiana broke a four-game losing streak for road contests. At home, the cagers capped the season with wins over MSU and Northwestern and their twelfth home victory.

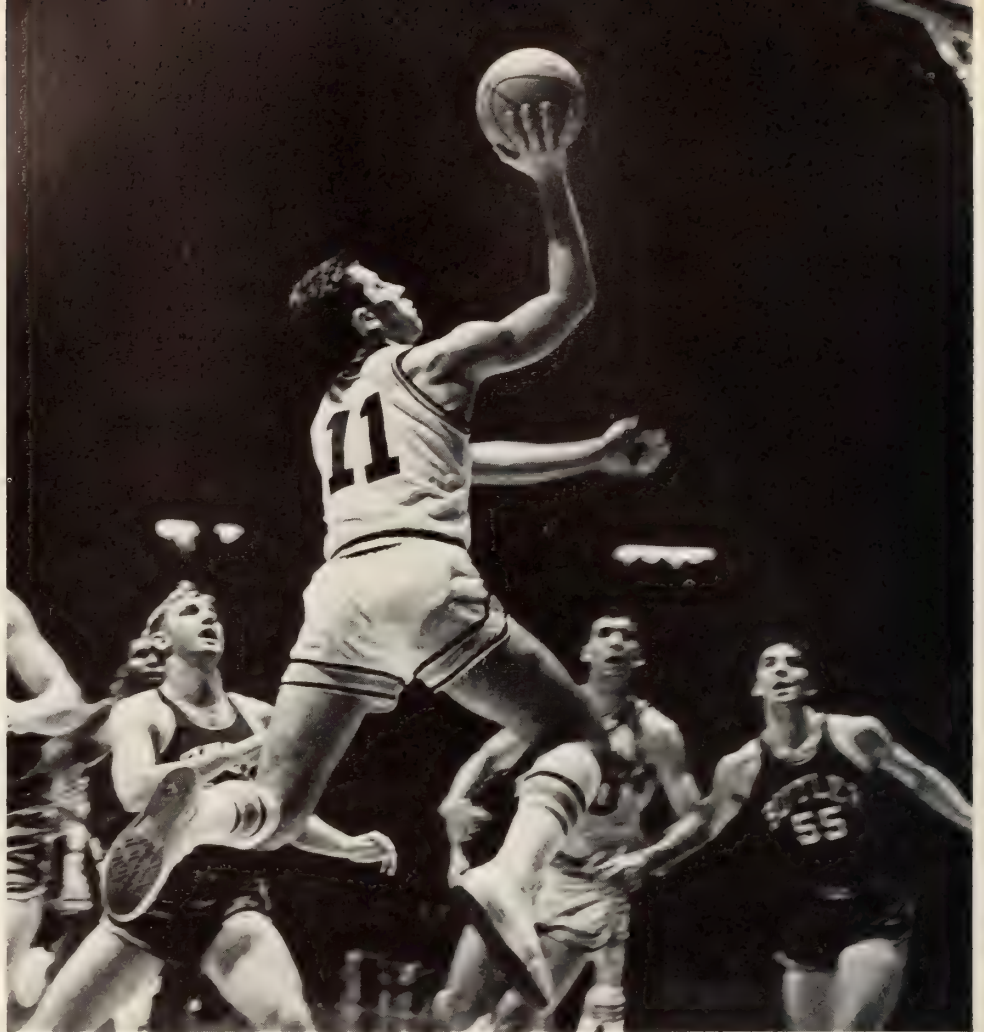

Statistically, Scholz led the team with 181 baskets, 97 free throws, 209 rebounds, an 8.7 rebound average, 459 total points, and a game average of 19.1 points. Sophomore sensation Greg Jackson was right behind Scholz with 163 field goals, 200 rebounds for an 8.3 average, and 394 total points good for a 16.4 average. Junior Mike Price's rebounding earned him 163 while offensively he totaled 298 points for a 12.4 average. Senior Jodie Harrison had the best field goal percentage with .605.

The butterfly stroke, considered by many the most difficult is effortlessly handled by this Illinois swimmer.

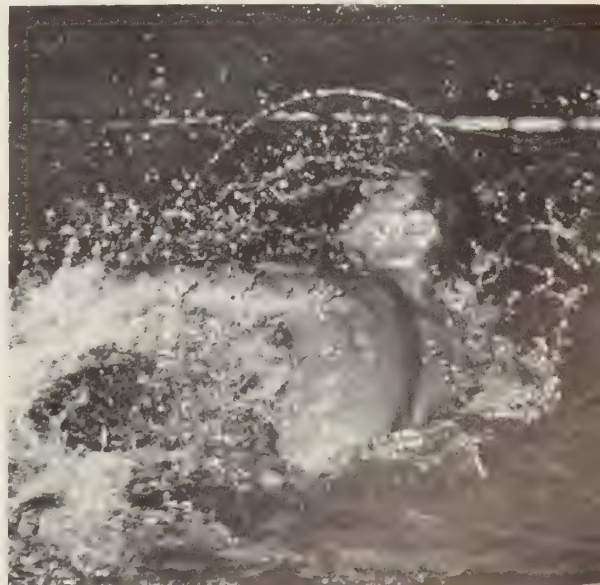

At the sound of the gun this Illini swimmer executes a perfect racing dive assuring himself of a fast start in the race.

The Illinois varsity swimming team took a terrible dunking in the 1968-69 season, emerging with a damp 3-6 record and only an eighth place finish in the Big Ten race. The only triumphs of the season were several new varsity records set by individual swimmers. Stroking against Michigan State, Captain Kip Pope set a new Huff Pool record of 2:18.4 in the 200 yard breaststroke. Junior Tom Munsch was equally successful in setting a new time of 5:08.2 in the 500 yard freestyle against a tough Wisconsin.

After the Big Ten Championships held at Wisconsin, Indiana went home with its ninth straight title while the Illini collected a string of new varsity records. Although the club finished in eighth place, Kip Pope successfully defended his titles in the 100 and 200 yard breaststroke with times of 1:00.5 and 2:12.5 respectively. Pope was the first Illini in over thirty years to win an individual championship. Tom Munsch set a time of 5:01.4 in the 500 yard freestyle preliminaries, although he finished only sixteenth in the finals. He earned a second record with 17:46.22 in the 1650 yard freestyle, good for an eighth place finish. Junior Curt Cramer was another record breaker with his 0:57.9 in the 100 yard backstroke.

The agony of physical exhaustion is sensed in the face of this Illini.

Robinson Leads Wrestlers to Improved Season

For the UI wrestling team, the 1968-69 season was one of rebuilding. Under the direction of new head coach Jack Robinson, the squad completed one of its most successful dual meet seasons in over a decade. Robinson molded a team with only one returning letterman from last year with a winning record into a team of potential champions. The Illini completed their dual meet season with an improved 9-10-1 record.

Despite their revival in the dual meet season, the grapplers took a disappointing seventh place in the Big Ten conference meet. The Illini were able to place only three wrestlers in the top four of their divisions. Sophomore Glenn Parke defeated unbeaten Tim Cech of Michigan in the consolation finals. Senior Denny Rott finished third in his weight category after being defeated in his opening match, while Captain Chuck Marshall finished fourth.

Coach Robinson looks ahead to a 1969-70 season with all but three varsity wrestlers returning. In addition, Robinson will have a group of sophomores who as freshmen consistently pressed the varsity.

Young Illinois Fencing Squad Has Fine Season

Although rated as a strong contender for the title, the UI fencing team was unseated as Big Ten champions by a powerful Ohio State team. Closing one of their best seasons, with a 13-4 record and relying on a history of either first or second place finishes in the last twenty-three Big Ten meets, the Illini were hopeful of repeating their previous year's performance. However, the bladesmen were forced to settle for second place as OSU outscored them 43-27 and ran away with what promised to be a very close battle. The Buckeyes entered six fencers in the final round as compared to three from Illinois which allowed for an easy victory.

In individual competition, the Illini had depth in all weapons. Defending Big Ten champion Harvey Harris took third in epee, while Peter Trobe placed fifth. In sabre competition, a fence-off was needed to decide a four way tie for the first place berth. Defending Big Ten champion Bill Abraham turned over his title to Glinton Bryon of Indiana in a 5-4 contest.

Gymnastics Team Rebuilds for Next Season

The long horse somersault proves to be routine for this Illinois gymnast.

Arnie Sepke carefully eyes his position on the parallel bars before continuing.

Coach Charlie Pond's Illini gymnasts ended this year with a disappointing 6-4 season's record, 4-3 in Big Ten dual meets. This represents the fourth worst record in Pond's nineteen year tenure as head gymnastics coach. Pond attributed the poor showing to a lack of overall depth when compared with the tough competition in the Big Ten. He did point out, however, that the squad had several strong individual performers, many of them being underclassmen.

Outstanding gymnasts included John McCarthy, Mark Kaplan, and Steve Chapple, all graduating seniors. Underclassmen who were equally outstanding included Ed Raymond, Larry Butts, Arnie Sepke, John Davis, and Dave Silverman.

Coach Pond plans to build around this solid nucleus of proven gymnasts next year with added support from an outstanding freshman squad. The implementation of the new freshman eligibility rules also promises an increase in intra-squad competition for high spots on the team. With strong optimism, Coach Pond promises a title contending team next year and a return to his familiar position as the head coach of an outstanding and winning Illinois gymnastics team.

Strong Hockey Club Finishes with Best Season

The referees move in during trying situations to cool flaring tempers and keep the game running smoothly.

Boasting the strongest team in the club's history, the U of I Hockey Club closed out a successful 1968-69 season with a much improved 13-6 record. The club's success rested on a strong nucleus of good skaters, a tough defense, and an increase in depth. Fans saw a rougher and more competitive game this year due to a major rule change which expanded the checking zone.

The season came to a climactic finish with a fantastic scoring display in the final two contests. In an 11-3 rout over visiting Purdue, senior Chris Holiday stole the lime-light in a third period assault, scoring a hat trick plus a fourth goal. The Indiana contest proved to be a grand finale to a winning season as, the Illini hit the nets fourteen times to earn a new team high. In individual season scoring, Holiday tallied 32 goals to capture first place, while sophomore Ed Lipinski finished a close second. With most of the team returning, Coach Hugh Inglis expresses optimism for the 1969-70 season.

A fighting Illini tries to steal the puck in order to set up a fast break.

Losing his balance and falling to the ice behind the goal, this Illini helplessly watches a play down the ice.

A hard check is not enough to keep an Illinois skater from getting the puck away.

Illini Field Young Team; Look to the Future

Pitcher Bill Murray delivers some of his breaking stuff against Purdue.

The Fighting Illini finished sixth in the 1968 Big Ten baseball race with a record of seven wins and ten losses. Fielding one of their youngest teams in recent years, they managed to compile an overall record of eighteen wins and nineteen losses.

The team was dominated by sophomores and juniors who played some outstanding ball. Sophomore Randy Crews showed much promise as his .339 batting average ranked him thirteenth among Big Ten hitters. Pushing behind him in fourteenth place was junior Mike Murawski who hit .327. Two more sophomores whose bats came through for the Illini were Augie Matejzel and Clyde Kuehn, who batted .277 and .268 respectively.

Illini pitching was led by sophomore lefty Tom Calza, whose earned run average of 1.30 ranked him fifth in the Big Ten, and junior southpaw Rich Binder whose 1.71 ranked ninth. Two righthanders, senior Bill Murray and junior Bill Foss, were the biggest winners on the team with four victories apiece. Barry Yurtis, another one of the talented sophomores, did a commendable job both as a starter and a reliever. His overall record was three victories and one loss.

At the close of the season, Mike Murawski was voted the team's most valuable player, and Charlie Schierer was elected captain for 1969. With a host of players returning, Coach Lee Eilbracht's Illini looked forward to the 1969 season.

Varsity Netmen Fold Under Big Ten Pressure

Team captain Steve Levenson charges the ball to surprise his opponent.

The varsity tennis squad, coached for the fourth successive year by Dan Olson, proved to be one of the most successful in recent U of I tennis history despite their poor Big Ten finish. The 1968 season began with disappointing tours to New Mexico and Michigan where the Illini posted an equal number of wins and losses. However, when the netters returned to Champaign, they really hit their stride. Led by top Illini singles players Ed Thompson and Captain Steve Levenson, the team scored identical clean sweeps over their first five opponents plus a win over Iowa to rack up six consecutive victories. The rest of the regular season went almost as well with the Illini dropping only two of the remaining seven meets. The climax came as the Illini slammed Southern Illinois University, one of the top rated teams in the country, in a 5-4 upset. The 1968 Dual meet season thus closed with the netters posting an admirable 15-6 record.

With a fine season behind them, the squad entered the Big Ten Championship held at Iowa with optimism of capturing at least a second place berth. However high hopes were shattered as the tables turned on the Illini, and the squad crumbled under unexpected pressure. Junior Mike Elbel, although out most of the regular season with a foot injury, won the consolation title of his division, to post the best showing for the Illini. With no one else qualifying for the finals, the Illini were forced to accept a disappointing eighth which wasn't indicative of their pre-tourney play.

Waiting for the ball to drop, Tom Dunlap rears back anticipating a slam.

Jed Hertz demonstrates his winning style in an important victory over SIU.

Hoping for a winning point, Steve Levenson returns his opponent's volley.

Young Illinois Linksmen Rebuild for a Promising

Senior standout Bob Wallace easily executes a difficult long drive.

For Illini golf coach Dick Youngberg, 1968 was a year of rebuilding. Taking over for Coach Ralph Fletcher, who passed away in January, 1968, Youngberg guided the varsity squad to an eighth place finish at the Big Ten Championships.

Captain John Mulliken was the most outstanding golfer on Coach Youngberg's squad as he stroked his way to a fifth place finish at the conference championships held at Indiana University. Mulliken pulled his teammates from ninth place at the end of 36 holes to eighth at the end of 54 holes, and the Illini held that position to the end of the meet. Mulliken's 72-hole total for the meet was 299. The team total for the Illini was 1583, while victorious Indiana tallied 1511.

In individual play, Captain Mulliken again led his teammates with an average of 75.7 strokes per eighteen holes. Junior Mike Kelly had the lowest score for eighteen holes with 69. Other standouts for the Illini were Pete Kirchner, Fred Lukasik, Jim Arendt, Dan Bishop and Bob Wallace.

With hopes of strengthening the squad for the 1969 season, Coach Youngberg initiated new changes in the varsity program by scheduling fall matches and forming a winter weight-training program. With this new training program and the addition of all-state freshmen Butch Pegoraro and Pat Keen and up-and-coming freshman Dennis Lucheon, Coach Youngberg is hopeful for a stronger 1969 Big Ten finish.

Illini Trackmen Establish New Varsity Records

Coach Bob Wright's thinclads ended the 1968 track season with a disappointing ninth in the Big Ten Indoor Track Meet and an improved fifth in the Big Ten Outdoor Meet. The Illini fared well in their own Illinois Invitational Meet and the Michigan State Relays, but were shut out in the NCAA Track Finals.

The indoor season was highlighted by the efforts of several individual trackmen. In an early season meet against Minnesota, Jeff McLellan broke his own record of 56'-2¼" in shot-put with a 56'-8" toss. Later at the Big Ten Indoor Track Meet he threw for 57'-2" setting a new varsity record, and his 58'-10½" toss in the 44th Annual Ohio Relays was the longest throw ever by a Big Ten athlete. Senior John Sandeen showed well in the hurdles by running the 70 yard highs in :08.5.

In a better outdoor season, sophomore Greg Dystera finished third in the 3,000 meter steeplechase with 9:13.3, breaking the old record by 16 seconds. Other records set during the season were: Ed Halik, 15'-6" in pole vaulting; John Sandeen, :53.4 in the 440 intermediate hurdles; Dick Hall, 14:36.1 in the three mile run; Jim Brubaker, 171'-1" in discus; Clarench Burch, 46'-11½" in triple jump.

George Walker's long strides earn his position as a record breaking runner.

Will Watson uses balance and good judgment to clear hurdles in the meet against Southern Illinois University.

IM Participation Surpasses Previous Years

This year the intramural department was confronted with a phenomenal increase in participation in IM activities. Due to the greater organization of independent housing units, new teams flooded all major intramural sports, especially football and basketball. Greater student enthusiasm made IM sports more competitive and exciting than in previous years.

IM football was greatly sparked by an increase from 219 to 270 teams participating. The DAILY ILLINI brought together teams in the MRHA, MIA, and fraternity leagues to battle for the title. After a series of close games, only two fraternity teams remained, and TEPS were named champs. In IM basketball, mighty ATO captured their third consecutive fraternity blue division championship in addition to the DAILY ILLINI All-University Basketball Tournament championship.

“Summertree” Opens University Theatre’s

The 1968-69 playbill at Lincoln Hall Theatre provided the campus with a variety of outstanding dramatic entertainment. The season opened with Ron Cowen’s “Summertree.” The University Theatre presentation was one of more than twenty-five productions to be staged throughout the United States during the 1968-69 season through the sponsorship of the American Playwright’s Theatre.

The smash Broadway musical, “Stop the World I Want to Get Off,” was the second play of the year. It was presented on Dad’s Day Weekend and during the following week. Directed by Mary Arbenz, “Stop the World” is the life story of Littlechap, a type of British everyman, told in song, pantomime, and dialogue against a circus type background.

During December, University Theatre produced William Shakespeare’s “Two Gentlemen of Verona,” a romantic comedy dealing with the plights of young lovers. The Children’s Theatre presented the musical “Androcles and the Lion,” adapted by Aurand Harris, which completed the playbill for first semester.

A change of tempo was offered with the presentation of “The Rimmers of Eldritch” by Lanford Wilson, directed by John Ahart. Mr. Wilson invented the small midwestern town of Eldritch to serve as the setting for his complex study of human patterns. This was the last production presented by the University Theatre to be given in Lincoln Hall.

The last show of the season was a special production for the dedication of the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

In “Summertree,” Young Man watches as Little Boy explores the world.

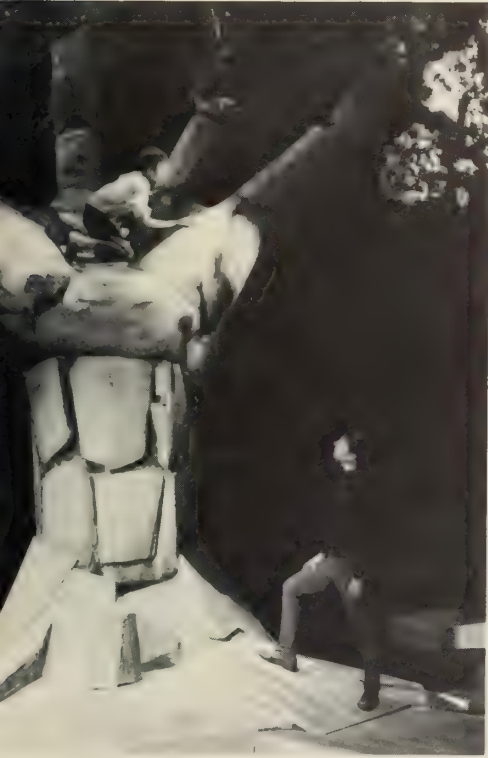

In “The Caretaker,” Mick challenges Davies over occupancy of his flat.

Young Man and Young Girl dream of their futures together in “Summertree.”

As one of its many projects the University Theatre operated a Workshop Theatre in the Armory for students interested in acting, directing, or playwriting. Directors were chosen from graduate students in Theatre. This year members of the workshop produced one-act plays as well as several cuttings from full-length plays. Depending on the director, the play may have been modern, avant garde, or traditional.

Star Course Offers Wide Range of Entertainment

Star Course is a student operated organization formed for the purpose of arranging entertainment for the campus and surrounding area. The type of engagements varied from Harry Belafonte to the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra to an annual French play.

As a member of Star Course, one worked with the music department and the French department and had close contact with the Assembly Hall and the physical plant. In the future Star Course will play a large part in planning performances for the new Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

Being a member of Star Course was not all arranging. It also offered unique opportunities and experiences. One of these unique opportunities was meeting Harry Belafonte at the airport and dining with him after his performance. Others worked with the technical people for Roger Williams. Later in the season, Star Course members gave the National Ballet Company of Canada a tour of the Assembly Hall. When the Bavarian Symphony Orchestra of Munich was here, the Star Course directors were introduced to its conductor, Rafael Kubelik.

By serving as office aids, committee members, and ushers, the freshmen and sophomore managers became acquainted with Star Course. In the spring, nine sophomores were chosen to head the major committees. Members working on publicity and advertising were responsible for informing the public and students of coming events. The ticket division supervised the ordering and selling of tickets for all concerts. To host entertainers while they were at the University was the responsibility of the arrangements and public relations divisions. The staff secretary managed office supplies while the personnel manager handled ushering. The seniors, the backbone of the staff, co-ordinated the student staff with the Concert and Entertainment Board.

University Chorus Prepares Underclassmen

Diligently practicing works such as Die Motette, freshmen advance quickly.

The University Chorus, under the direction of Vernon Opheim, consisted almost exclusively of University freshmen. Students in the Chorus perfected their basic choral techniques by studying many different types of works. The ultimate goal of the Chorus was a choral training with an emphasis on vocal training. After experience in the Chorus, many of the members were ready to move on to more advanced choral groups.

At pre-registration the entering freshmen was able to express a desire to join a choral group. Auditions were held early in the fall and approximately eighty-five persons were selected for the University Chorus. By practicing twice a week, the Chorus was able to present a program of concerts throughout the year.

Chorus members rehearse for a concert which will give them the valuable experience of an actual performance.

Concert Choir Receives Invitation to Europe

The Madrigal Singers create a Christmas mood at the Elizabethan Banquet.

The University of Illinois Concert Choir has established an increasing reputation for its precise and sensitive performances of its vast repertoire of choral music. The Choir has been invited to participate in August in the 1969 "Symposium on Music of the Viennese Classic Composers," sponsored jointly by the American Choral Directors Association and the Institute of European Studies in Vienna, Austria. While in Europe they will present a series of concerts in France, Switzerland, Germany, and Czechoslovakia. Before Christmas, a segment of the Concert Choir known as the Madrigal Singers celebrated the season by presenting an Elizabethan Banquet and program of Old English carols, in authentic costumes and the traditional Elizabethan style.

Choral singing is an integral part of campus activities. Each year over 600 students from all colleges on the Urbana campus participate in the Concert Choir, Men's Glee Club, Women's Glee Club, Oratorio Society, University Chorus, and various small vocal ensembles.

Oratorio Society Performs Concert in Hebrew

The Oratorio Society rehearses a selection from Block's "Sacred Service."

Since its creation in 1897, by the University's School of Music, Oratorio Society has provided local residents, University students, and faculty an opportunity to perform compositions normally too involved and to intricate for small choirs. The Society, directed by Professor Harold A. Decker, practiced once a week not only for the purpose of enjoyment but also to prepare for on-coming concerts. The Society presented one concert each semester. In December, the Oratorio Society's concert theme was a "Sacred Service" by Block which was sung completely in Hebrew.

The special event for the Oratorio Society this past year was the April concert which opened the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts. In this concert, "The Spring Symphony" by Britten, the Society was joined by the Symphony Orchestra.

The Oratorio Society offers an opportunity to practice voice performance.

The director, Robert Molison, directs his group through a warm-up exercise.

The School of Music Establishes Opera Chorus

The School of Music has long felt the need for a permanent chorus to accompany the Opera Laboratory when it appears in concert. The establishment of the Opera Chorus in September of 1968, satisfied this need as well as giving talented people an opportunity to perfect and display their voices. The Chorus, under the direction of Robert Molison, is composed mainly of graduate and undergraduate students with a few people from the local area. Originally a small group, the Chorus has grown to thirty-two members and has quite a list of performances to its credit. Last fall, the Chorus together with the Opera Lab, performed excerpts from "Carmen" and "Dido and Aeneas" theatrically besides singing for convocations. As a finale for its first year, the Chorus appeared in "Magic Flute" by Mozart.

Symphony Orchestra Plays at Krannert Opening

On April 19 and 20 the Symphony Orchestra participated in the dedication ceremonies for the Great Hall of the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts. Appearing with the Orchestra as a guest soloist was the violinist Tossy Spizakozsky. As part of the University's opening series for the Center the Symphony also performed on May 17 with guest soloists Jon Crain, a tenor, and Beverly Wolff, a contralto. During the year the Orchestra performed its annual campus concerts plus its tour of Northern Illinois high schools.

The orchestra was directed by Bernard Goodman who is an accomplished violinist with the renowned Walden String Quartet. The Walden String Quartet, which has been in existence for twenty-two years, is composed of music professors who are members of the University's Artists in Residence program.

Members of the Symphony are chosen from qualified students on campus.

Under the direction of their new conductor William Olson, the Women's Glee Club presented a variety of music for several campus and off-campus appearances. During the year, the Club was asked to perform for the Electrical Engineers' Convention at the Urbana Lincoln Hotel. In addition to their annual campus concerts, the Glee Club participated in joint concerts with the University Choral Ensemble and the Men's Glee Club, both held in conjunction with the spring opening of the Kranert Center for the Performing Arts. In the spring, the Club appeared at various high schools and at Lakeland Junior College in Mattoon during their concert tour in South-Central Illinois.

In addition to singing, the Club held various money earning projects to raise funds for future tours and new concert gowns.

U of I Concert Band Plays the Ceremonial Music

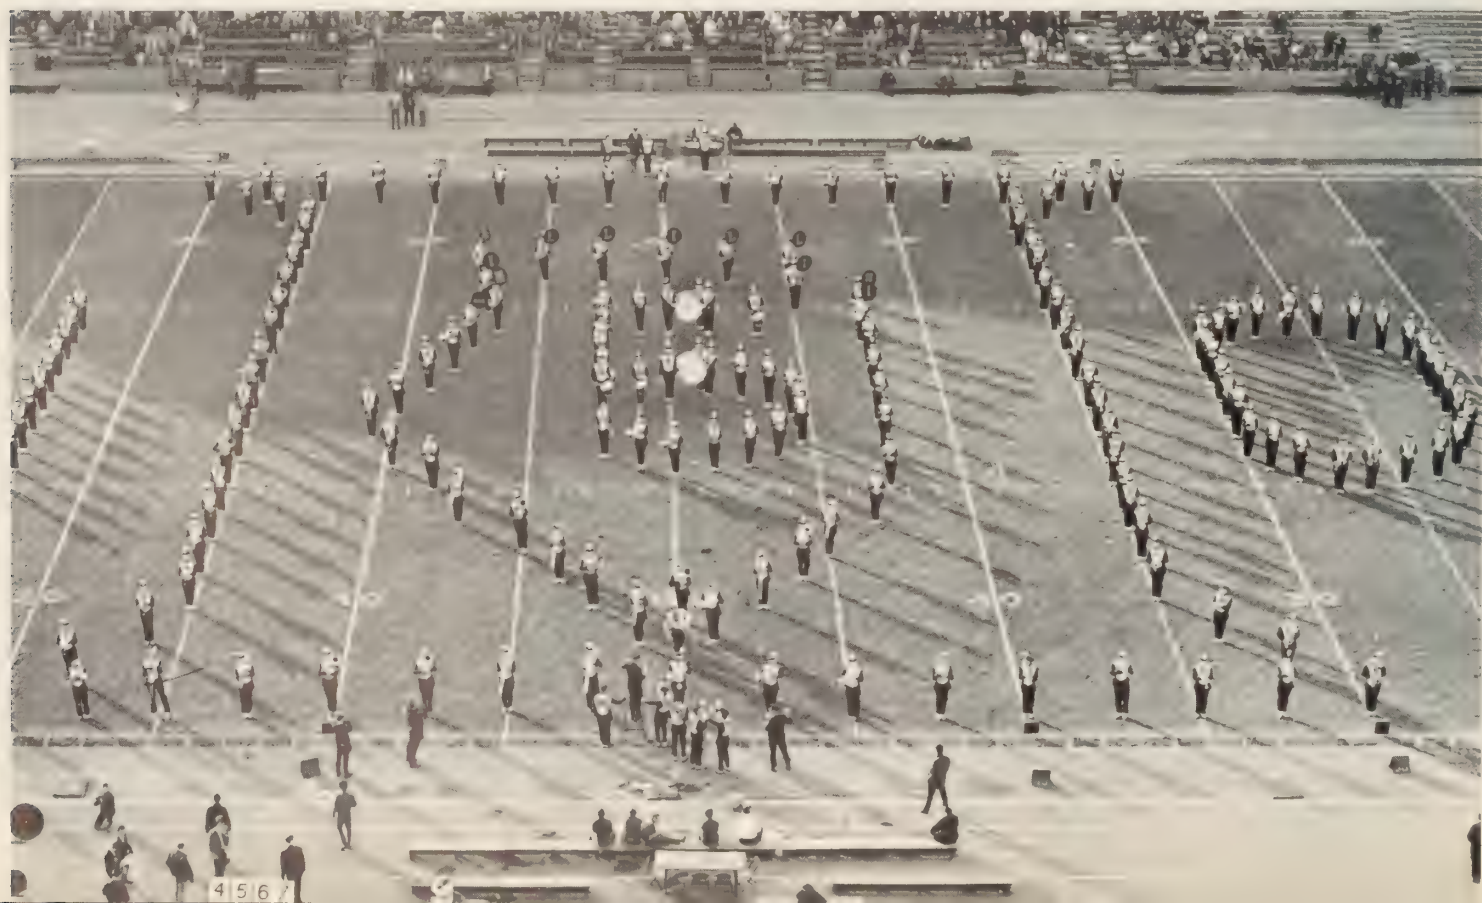

In addition to half-time, the Marching Illini play after each touchdown

This past year, the one-hundred eighteen members of Concert Band performed standard and contemporary band compositions and outstanding orchestra transcriptions under the baton of conductor Mark Hindsley. The band is composed of students who have attained an unusual degree of musical and technical proficiency on their instruments as proven through competitive auditions. This year, in addition to their annual concerts, the Concert Band also had the opportunity to play the ceremonial music for the inauguration of the Governor of Illinois.

During the fall, the Marching Illini continued its tradition of providing spectators of the home football games with unique and entertaining half-time shows. Many hours of practice went into perfecting each original performance, and the efforts of the band members were evident in the outstanding performances. Male students of the Concert and First Regimental Bands along with the most competent members of the Second Regimental Band comprised the Marching Illini.

Festival and Twilight Concerts Highlight the Year

With an instrumentation approaching that of the Concert Band, the First Regimental Band performed very high quality literature. Among its performances, conducted by Everett Kisinger, were the Festival of Concert Band Music, a Formal Concert, and a Twilight Concert. Members entertained on Honors Day and for a Forbes Hall Concert, and male members made up a large portion of the Marching Illini.

The A and B segments of the Second Regimental Band also performed in the Festival of Concert Band Music and the Twilight Concerts. In addition, all members of the Second Regimental Band not in the football band had the opportunity to play at pep rallies, and all members participated in the Mother's Day program. The various musical presentations in addition to weekly practices provided the members with the confidence and experience needed for auditions for positions in the First Regimental and Concert Bands.

The University is extremely proud of its award-winning University Jazz Band. The twenty-one member Jazz Band, led by John Garvey, toured Europe and received acclaim wherever it performed. The Jazz Band won the first prize in the 1968 Collegiate Jazz Festival, and along with Count Basie's, it was one of two bands to be invited to the New Orleans Jazz Festival. Students of the University were privileged to hear the Jazz Band perform at the Assembly Hall in a tribute to the Jazz Band's tour of Europe.

IUSA Activity Day Starts the Swing of Things

At the beginning of each semester, Activity Day happens in the Illini Union.

Activity Day provided activity oriented students an opportunity to browse through a wide variety of campus organizations. Activity Day operates under the principle that extra-curricula activities provide the student with many social and educational advantages. It provided the interested student a close look at such activities as Star Course, the ILLIO, the Folk-sing Club, The Ski Club, Young Republicans, Skydivers Club, and the various Union activities. Besides serving the students, Activity Day also provided the campus organizations an opportunity to present themselves to the student body with the hope of recruiting new members. Through Activity Day IUSA broadened its function as an activity coordinator at Illinois.

Activity Day, an Illini Union Student Activities event, is a time to find recruits for any campus activity.

IUSA Provides Variety of Entertainment for Illini

Illioskee, a carnival of rides and games, is sponsored by IUSA every spring.

Activities ranging from Friday Flicks in the vending machine room to the spring musical at the Assembly Hall were sponsored and directed by Illini Union Student Activities. This year, IUSA sponsored the widest range of activities of any group on campus.

Each fall, dads get a taste of college life on Dads Day Weekend. During this weekend, IUSA converted the Union into a gambling casino. Dad saw Block I, another IUSA activity at the football game. Block I, the 2,200 member twin card section, performs during half-time of home football games.

Through Music Hours, IUSA presented recorded, stereo, classical music in the Music Lounge of the Union. Programs Planning Committee was responsible for the Jazz Band concerts, bridge tournaments, and other entertainment.

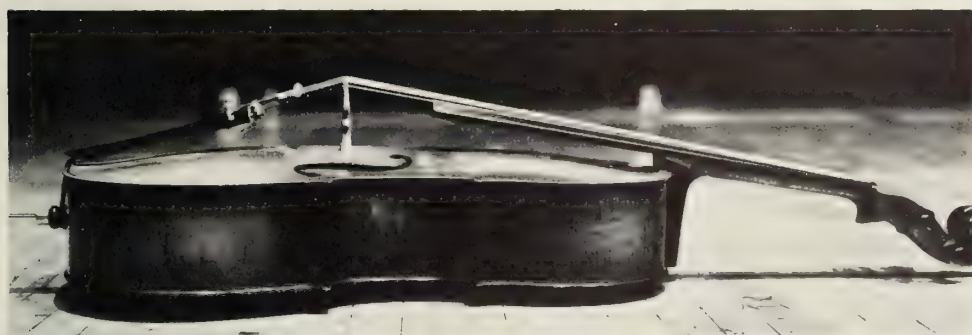

The Illini Union Board defines policy and controls the administration of IUSA. Each activity is headed by a major chairman who is responsible for co-ordinating the work of his committee.

Classical music is provided in the music lounge with a stereo phonograph.

Entertainment with "Dad's Really Out On a Limb"

Lacking an I.D. card, Alice in Illini-land asks Caterpillar for advice.

"DROOL"—Dad's Really Out On a Limb—the theme of this year's Dad's Day Revue, provided an excellent basis for imaginative developments in the hilariously entertaining show. Annually presented by WISA, MIA, and MRHA, Dad's Day Revue this year consisted of only four skits in contrast to last year's seven, allowing each cast additional time in which to develop its theme.

First place honors were captured by ISR's production "Hail to Thee, Our Mad Hatter," which portrayed a dismayed Alice wandering in Illini-land, searching for her I.D. number and her identity. "Best Actor" and "Best Actress" awards both went to performers in Indeco-Weston's "You Mustn't Be Discouraged," a spoof of Hollywood's naive musical golden years. The awards went to Debby Langarman as "Little Miss Curly Dimple" and Dave Johnson as a highly believable Mae West.

Illini Guides Show Freshmen Campus, Answer their Questions

During Orientation Week for freshmen, there were about 400 extra-friendly faces seen around campus. Along with providing a helpful smile for a lost new student, these Illini Guides did a little of everything. They gave directions to dorm rooms, passed out Illi Bus schedules to the less adventure-some, and even were hosts for the New Year Convocation.

As a part of their goal of getting everyone acquainted with the University, they sponsored library tours, beneficial to everyone, not just new students. One of their newest projects was conducting "teach-ins" on the quad, open to the public.

Illini Guides were chosen from undergraduate student volunteers by the respective housing groups. Their "job" began with attendance at the special workshop held last fall at Allerton Park. Besides becoming acquainted with their duties the next week, this workshop served to arouse enthusiasm for the next few days when their charges began arriving. Finally the great influx of students began and there was no peace for the Illini Guides.

PCSA Gets Wider Jurisdiction in Student Affairs

The Policy Committee on Student Affairs underwent a complete revision this year. The Urbana-Champaign Senate, by giving the Committee wider jurisdiction, has enabled it to deal with extracurricular concerns of students in the broadest terms possible.

The restructuring of the Committee's membership included the addition of graduate students and the deletion of administrators. Also, the ambiguity of the former Committee's relationship to the Dean of Students was clarified by making PCSA directly responsible to the Urbana-Champaign Senate and indirectly to the Dean of Students.

Included in PCSA's role of policy making to deal with the extracurricular concerns of students are the revisions of the undergraduate student code, the women's self-regulating hours, and use of University space by organizations.

VIP Works for a Socially Responsible Society

VIP volunteers aren't the only friends children make at neighborhood centers.

Since the early sixties, college students have become increasingly active in concerns of the community and the nation. The refusal to leave behind the real world of problems resulted in the creation of the tutorial movement, wherein students could use their background and knowledge to attack these problems. This movement led to the establishment of Illini House in 1962. As the students became more involved, they realized the urgent need for more than tutoring. As a result, the organization known today as Volunteer Illini Projects began.

Innovation and ingenuity extended work into the dark world of the mental hospital, the limited wards of homes for the aged, and recreation centers for needy children. VIP volunteers have as their goal a better, more socially responsible society oriented toward the future.

IPC Exists as Co-ordinator Of the Student Communications

Asst. Prof. Hildwein and Prof. Schacht discuss a major policy decision.

Founded in 1911, the Illini Publishing Company exists today as a nonprofit corporation functioning as co-ordinator for four branches of student communications: the DAILY ILLINI the ILLIO, the TECHNOGRAPH, and WPGU. Although the day-by-day operations are handled by a general manager, overall policy decisions are made by the Board of Directors. Consisting of four faculty members and four students, the board chose the editors and all managers for the DAILY ILLINI and the ILLIO, and approved the selection of those in charge of the TECHNOGRAPH and WPGU. In the spring, the board chose two sophomore students from the University to serve as members for a two year term.

The foremost concern of a journalistic organization is the quality of the finished product and IPC is proud that the student publications at Illinois are almost entirely student run. Not only does this policy permit a more true, more realistic picture of student opinion, but the experience gained by the students proves to be invaluable.

The staff was composed of about twenty students who volunteered services. Students, interested in photography but lacking experience, were trained to photograph, develop, and print pictures. This year, Photo Staff attempted to display a more complete understanding of the University as a community. It directed its efforts towards creativity to accomplish this.

Photo Staff, controlled by the Illini Publishing Company, worked in correlation with the IPC board to obtain equipment.

To interest prospective members, WPGU staff broadcasts at Activity Day.

Student announcers serve the community while learning valuable skills.

WPGU Joins ABC American Radio Network

Continuing the tradition of being a student activity with professional standards, WPGU this year joined the ABC American Entertainment Network, becoming this network's only outlet in Champaign-Urbana. Besides adding prestige to the station, this gave members of the staff an excellent opportunity to gain valuable experience by working directly with a national network.

This year, WPGU began its second year of statewide high school basketball broadcasts. Reporters were sent all over the state to cover semi-final tournament games. In addition to the actual games they often broadcasted pre-game, half-time, and post-game shows. These broadcasts were made available to other radio stations in the state so they could carry them in their broadcasts. WPGU is the only college radio station which is carried by other professional stations. This year, WPGU handled the state basketball tournament for WCFL radio in Chicago. As WPGU worked with other professional state radio stations and with network radio, it gained professionalism, quality, and experience.

Student Publication Directory Board Determines

Founded in 1871, the DAILY ILLINI has been in continuous publication since that year. The sixteen to thirty-two page daily paper has a circulation of 8,500. The "hot type-rotary press" newspaper, with its free editorial license, enables the student staff to publish a professional daily paper.

Appointed by the Illini Publishing Company, the Student Publication Directory Board, a team composed of five staffs and three senior editors, determined the editorial policy of the student-published DAILY ILLINI. The three senior editors handled the news reporting, editing, and feature writing.

The responsibility of the professional business manager was supervising circulation and advertising. Business staff members elicited advertising from the local merchants and handled the finances. Through the efforts of the business and editorial staffs, the DAILY ILLINI emerged as a paper reflecting student opinion and action.

A second floor backroom office in the Arcade Building was the setting for many late night work sessions for the ILLIO editorial staff. From this isolated place, the editors did page layouts, wrote copy, counted characters for headlines, and proof-read the pages. Organization of the book and editing of layouts and copy fell to the five senior editors—editor-in-chief, copy editor, photo editor, layout editor, and personnel manager. Each of the six staffs was headed by a copy and a layout editor. The editors attended the yearbook workshop at the University of Minnesota last summer and the Associated Collegiate Press convention in New York.

The ILLIO business office in the Illini Union provided a spot for sales meetings and balancing cash reports. Under the supervision of a senior business manager, the nine junior managers carried out the financial matters.

In this year of social unrest at the University of Illinois, the Interfraternity Council, an organization dedicated to the preservation and improvement of the world's largest fraternity system, found itself confronted with many critical questions. These difficulties were the major concerns during the 1968-69 school year.

Early in the school year, the IFC recognized the problem of racial discrimination within fraternities. Concerned leaders co-operated to achieve the needed structural modifications within the fraternities to resolve the problem.

The IFC undertook a full itinerary of programs this year to benefit the University community. Among them were a freshman orientation program, an articulation program in certain high schools throughout the state, and an expanded community service program.

Speakers Inform Junior Interfraternity Council

John Fleck of $\Lambda\Gamma\Omega$ and Michael Kraitsik of $\Delta\Phi$ brief an interested party on rush.

Working closely with the IFC, Junior Interfraternity Council is a training and activity recruiting organization for fraternity pledges. In JIF, members gained experience valuable to their futures in the IFC and other campus activities. During the start of first semester, highly competitive elections were held for major internal offices.

One of the main objectives of this year's program was to help the members become aware of campus and community problems. Speakers from the campus were invited to weekly meetings to discuss these issues. At Christmas time, a party was sponsored by JIF for chronic pediatric patients of Carle Clinic. This was part of an effort to improve community relations. The Pin and Paddle Ball, one of the main social events of spring semester, was sponsored by JIF.

Panhellenic Acts as Spokesman for Sororities

Thornley, Benita Blachman. BOTTOM ROW: Wendy Fink, Belinda Fruchtl, Barbara Ballew.

Panhellenic, composed of representatives from the sorority chapters on campus, is the governing and policy-making body for these houses. This past year, Panhellenic strove for deeper involvement of the sororities in campus life.

Panhellenic is composed of four branches. The Executive Council co-ordinated the departments of Panhellenic, evaluated past programs and policies, and planned future ones. As the main organizational body, the council represented Panhellenic to other campus activities, and its members also acted as advisors to Junior Panhellenic. By representing opinions of Panhellenic to the University, the Representatives Council acted as a liaison. It also represented opinions of the members of the chapters to Panhel since the members of the council are composed of a representative from each house. Cases pertaining to rushing and pledging practices were heard by the Judicial Board. Coordination of rush activities was by the Rush Committee.

Junior Panhel Holds Picnic for Underprivileged

Each girl feels anticipation, nervousness, and excitement as she waits.

Junior Panhellenic worked closely with other campus organizations to give sorority pledges the opportunity to gain valuable experience while at the University. Junior Panhellenic tried to give all phases of campus life an equal emphasis. With the help of IFC, a picnic was held for underprivileged children of Champaign. During the 1968 Greek Week, a doughnut sale netted Junior Panhellenic a sizeable sum for campus charities.

At the annual scholarship banquet, the sorority with the highest pledge class average was honored. Ten outstanding pledges were selected on the basis of grades and social activities. In this way, Junior Panhellenic hoped to encourage achievement among the girls.

MIA Serves as Liaison for Independent Men

Representing over two thousand men from almost fifty houses, Men's Independent Association served as a liaison between these men and the University. The executive board offered a wide range of activities for the affiliate houses. Monthly informal dances, intramural tournaments, and charity functions gave members a chance for an active campus life and simultaneously unified and strengthened MIA.

Men's Residence Hall Association is an organization of 5000 men that are residents of MRH, FAR, PAR, and ISR. MRHA is headed by the Executive Council and a Judicial Board. The Executive Council is composed of the presidents of the nine dorms. The Judicial Board has half its members elected each semester. John Zegers presided as president of the organization.

The main objective of MRHA was to represent its members to the administration and to issue policy statements in support of current problems. MRHA was in favor of abolishing the foreign language requirement, supported Project 500, and helped plan visitation. Its main project was the implementation of visitation, FAR being the first to obtain visitation second semester. MRHA provided a speaker's program and films for the dorms; it also helped sponsor Dad's Day Revue with WISA and MIA.

WISA Offers

WISA has served the independent women on the University of Illinois campus since 1914. The working body of the Women's Independent Student Association is Second Council, composed of all house presidents and dorm, floor chairmen. This body voted weekly on major internal and campus issues concerning its constituents. WISA's Executive Council and Program Board were responsible for initiating, coordinating, and communicating the programs and policies to the members.

In addition to its sponsorship of extensive scholarship programs and its coordination with MRHA in promoting social opportunities, WISA sponsored coffee hours for campus speakers, a high school articulation project, and a state speaker's program to inform its members of current events in Illinois.

Allen Hall residents had a chance to learn about and examine a variety of topics, such as study habits and Project 500, during discussion sessions in the main lounge. Faculty members including Dean Clarence Shelly, Dr. Boyd Johnson, and Dean Rebecca Welch, were invited to lead these informal sessions.

Special activities of the year included a slave dance and auction and a faculty dinner in the fall. With the Yuletide season came a sweetheart dinner, a party for Volunteer Illini Project children, a Christmas dance, and caroling. Little Sis Weekend and a formal were in the spring.

In the past few years, Allen has had a dinner language table. This offered an opportunity for the girls to practice using their foreign language in an informal setting.

"Pin the Star on the Tree" is the favorite game at the VIP Christmas party.

Dads Reign as Busey "Kings of Our Hearts"

Getting caught up in the Yuletide spirits, these ladies began to knit gifts.

Dad's Day 1968 saw a new event come to the oldest women's residence hall on campus. One wing of Busey Hall was vacated so dads could move in to reign as "Kings of Our Hearts."

Busey continued its usual tradition of high grade averages as it won the top WISA award for upper-classman scholarship in the spring of 1968.

A tradition of former years was revived at Halloween 1968. Gypsies, jack-o-lanterns, and candles took over the lounge as the 189 residents were invited to come as their secret desire. Bobbing for apples; fortune telling, and trick-or-treat goodies as well as prizes for the best costumes were on the agenda for the evening. These were only a few of the events held at Busey this year.

Europa is Unit of International Student Exchange

Europa House provided apartment living for seventy-two women on campus. These women were the residents of the eighteen apartments of Europa House. As a result of this type of setup, the atmosphere at the house is different from that of the sororities and other independent women's house at the U of I. Each of the girls in the living units cooks and eats together and shares not only responsibilities and activities but also personal interests. There are few organized activities; the emphasis is on individual rather than house activities.

Europa House is a special unit of the International Student Exchange, which is sponsored by the University of Vienna. Every summer a number of Europa residents elect to take a European tour offered by I.S.E.

The kitchen of an Europa apartment is also an excellent place to type a paper.

Evans pairs with Newman Hall for their Dad's Day Revue skit "Bye-Bye Daddy."

The spirit of scholastic achievement, campus and house activities, and fun prevailed in the smallest and one of the oldest dormitories on campus. The versatility of Evans Hall residents can be readily seen in their first place WISA activity trophies and their first place WISA scholarship trophies.

As well as being involved in campus activities, the women of Evans also showed a keen interest in dormitory functions. Dad's Day Review, Mom's Day weekend, and Little Sis weekend were just a few of the traditional events that Evans held this year.

The small size of Evans was conducive to group participation. An all out effort copped the girls first place in the WISA division for 2-D house decs.

4-H Employs Independent Pledge-Active System

"To make the best better" is the motto of the girls living at 4-H House, one of the unique independent women's houses on campus. Not only is 4-H House operated on a co-operative basis, but it also employs the only independent house pledge-active system for membership.

In spite of the fact that the girls living at 4-H do their own cooking and cleaning, they also have time for special events and service projects. Besides being hostesses to their moms, dads, and little sisters throughout the year, the girls entertained their little brothers during a special Little Brother's Weekend.

Thursday evening dinners were set aside as faculty guest night to give instructors a closer look at cooperative living.

The Dad's Day banquet is the highlight of the year for many 4-H fathers.

Indeco Pairs with Weston for Dad's Day Revue

Dinner conversations keep everyone informed of various campus happenings.

Fun reigned as the women of Indeco House paired with the men of Weston Hall for the 1968 Dad's Day Revue. The title of their skit was "You Mustn't Be Discouraged," a spoof on the movies of the 30's. Curly Dimple, a one-time child movie star of the 30's finds herself a "has been" at the tender age of forty-two. The rest of the skit vividly showed how Curly tried to make her comeback in show business as a stripper.

Two of the more popular traditions of Indeco House were the Waiters' Dinner and Senior Dinner. For the Waiters' Dinner, several girls donned white jackets and performed the duties of the waiters, while waiters had dinner served to them. The Senior Dinner is held in recognition of those girls who are either graduating or leaving the house at the end of the semester.

The new visitation rules made it possible for residents to entertain at "home."

The 1968-'69 school year found LAR involved in many campus activities. Over Homecoming weekend, LAR placed second in two-dimensional house decorations with a display depicting an Illini carving a canoe from a Buckeye tree and inviting everyone to help him celebrate at a victory powwow.

Dad's Day Weekend in November found LAR as one of the four finalists in the Dad's Day Revue. The LAR-Oglesby 10 skit was entitled, "Once Upon a Game." This satire on television game shows involved the meeting of two people on the Baby Game, their reunion on the Dating Game, their appearance on the Newlywed Game, and finally their breakup in the Divorce Court.

In December, LAR's lounge was transformed into a holiday wonderland for the winter dance featuring music by Eddie and the Sensations.

Mansion and Media Participate in Co-rec Softball

These girls settle down to a few cozy hours of watching television.

Four years ago the Mansion was converted to a girls residence house. Since that time, the forty-nine occupants have built a fine reputation with quality food and ideal study facilities.

Last year, the girls had their lounge and dining room redecorated and their front lawn landscaped. These improvements together with a newly painted trim on the outside of the house gave the Mansion a new appearance.

The Mansion is a private house which is approved by the University Housing Division. Although there are no organized house activities, some of the girls participated in co-rec softball with the men of Medea. In 1968, the two houses made it to the finals of the annual co-rec softball tournament for independent houses.

Each resident of Philea is given a chance to demonstrate her culinary skills.

Girls at Philea participated in several activities, traditional to their independent co-operative. A week before Valentine's Day each girl selected a "Sweetheart Sis" and remained anonymous to her during the week. Girls could be seen sneaking around the rooms, leaving poems or gifts until Valentine's Day when each girl revealed her hidden identity.

On May 29, graduating seniors threw a party for the remaining residents of the house. They chose typical traits of house members to mimic, after which the juniors were given the chance to retaliate.

One particular activity which the girls enjoyed was sponsoring an Easter party for mentally retarded children at the Happy Day School located in Champaign.

Presby Hall encourages Christian girls to engage in a variety of interests and activities. First in importance to the Presbyite is scholarship, an honorary dinner being presented each semester. Women with a 4.00 or better grade point average were served the traditional steak dinner while all others dined on spaghetti.

Among the distinguished guests for the Dean and Faculty Dinner were Dean Welch, dean of freshman women, and Dr. Johnson from the geology department. In honor of this fall occasion, each of the girls could invite a faculty member to dinner. Guest speaker John Sullivan spoke to the women concerning Project 500. Mr. Sullivan spoke about the program's repercussions and the possibilities of having a similar program in future years.

Sherwood president explains the much discussed issue of room visitation.

Under the direction of their new house mother Mrs. Davis, the sixty-seven girls of Sherwood began an active year. For the third time in a row, Sherwood took first place in the WISA 3-D Homecoming house decoration competition. The theme of their deck was entitled "Eat Orange and Blue, You Buckeyes." The women of Sherwood also merited the WISA Homecoming Sweepstake Trophy.

In addition to their annual spring and winter formals, the women of Sherwood held a special party before they left for Christmas vacation. The waiters, dishwashers, and cooks were the guests of honor at the special dinner and party while the girls waited on tables, washed dishes, and cooked supper.

Stratford Entertains Children at Christmas Party

Stratford House, founded in 1949, is an independent co-operative housing thirty girls. Co-operative living, in which the girls do all housework themselves, has proven to be not only a good lesson in compatibility, but a great homemaker course as well. This year, the house sponsored a Christmas party complete with toys and stockings for a fourth grade class from North Champaign. Prior to the Christmas dance, the girls hung greens on the banister, frosted the windows, made popcorn to string on the tree, and painted a nativity scene on the front door to make Stratford a warm, cheerful place for the holiday season. Dad's Day skit, Heart Sis Week, the spring formal, and the annual Scholarship Dinner also kept the girls busy.

Room parties can happen when a few girls get together to talk and eat.

Watching TV and doing homework are two ways to make closing go faster.

The many interests and backgrounds of the two hundred girls of Van Doren Hall are reflected in the wide range of activities in which the residents participate. During the spring, the program for Mom's Day weekend included a Hindu worship service which was moderated and presented by one of the Graduate Assistants who is from India.

When the Ringling Bros. Circus came to the University of Illinois, Van Doren girls escorted eighty children from Cunningham Home and Kenwood School. After the thrill of the sights and sounds under the "big top," a doughnut party was held in the hall's recreation center. Van Doren Dads and Moms were also treated to a reception in the recreation room on Dad's Day.

Taft Window Decs Cheer on "Fighting Illini"

Activity highlighted the fall semester for Taft Hall, a Fourth Street residence hall. A float, built by the 211 women in conjunction with Hopkins Hall, and colorful window decorations, backing the Fighting Illini, comprised the girls' contribution to the Homecoming festivities. The Taft girls also honored their fathers with a reception in the recreation room after the game.

Later in the fall, the women undertook their first philanthropic project of the school year. They hosted a Halloween party for twenty-five underprivileged children from the area. As a second service project, the women donated a television to the local Boys' Club.

Armory House Ranks Ninth in IM Football

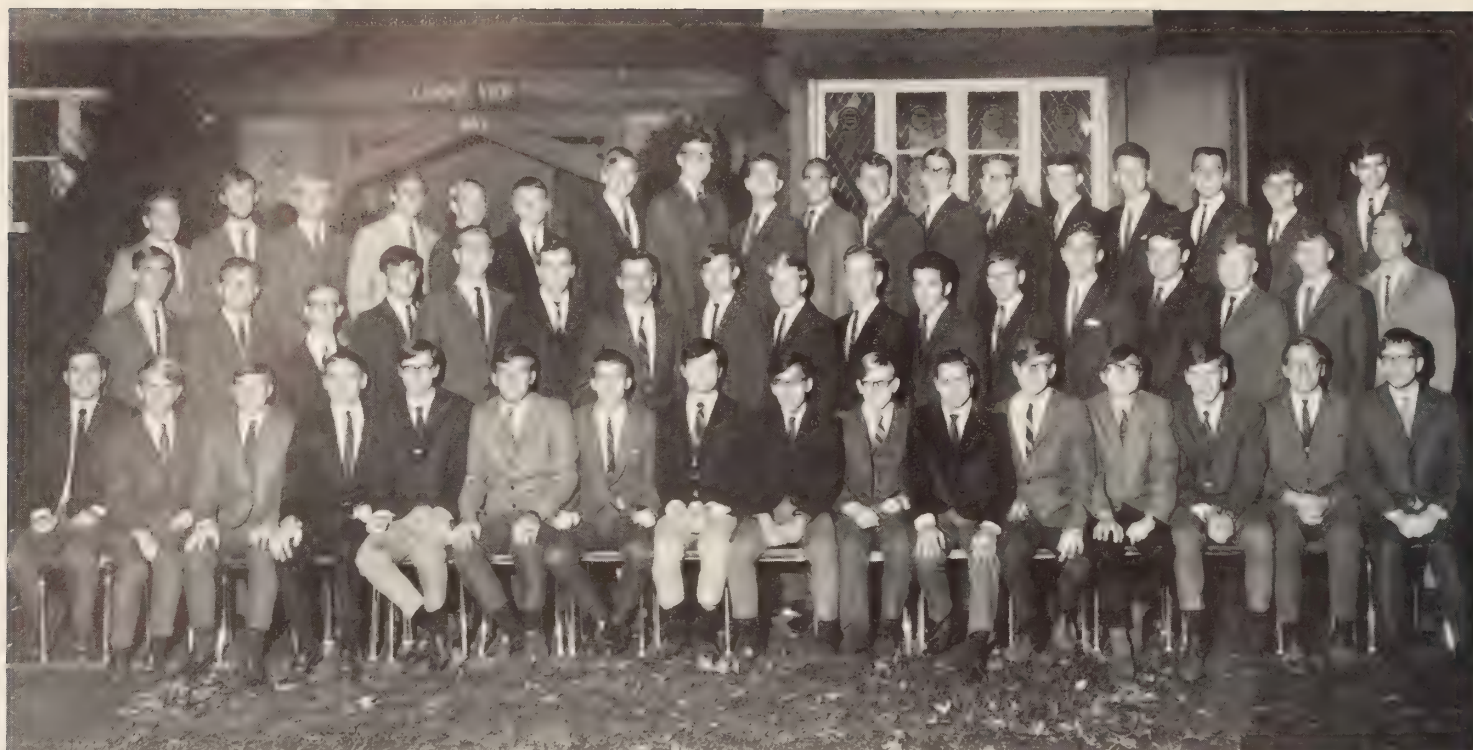

A quiet room can always be found when men get the urge to play poker.

The men of Armory House are proud of the recognition which they have received on the U of I campus. Armory House ranked ninth in IM football in '68 and participated in basketball, volleyball, softball, water polo, and a variety of other indoor sports activities.

The social schedule for the house was complete with house exchanges and dances. The residents also entertained their mothers and fathers on the annual Mom's Day and Dad's Day weekends.

The size of Armory House is small enough to promote friendly, communal living and yet large enough to ensure strong competition in athletic events. Its size together with its program offered a rounded college experience for the 96 male residents.

Campus View Lodge Continues Speaker Program

This year, the seventy-five men of Campus View Lodge continued their active participation in campus life. While they placed first in their division of the Men's Independent Association's scholastic competition, they still found time to keep Campus View one of the leaders in MIA activities. Their time and effort were rewarded as they won the 1968 MIA Activity Point Trophy. A trophy is awarded annually to the men's independent housing unit which accumulates the most points in all MIA activities.

To enlighten the men of Campus View, a speaker's program was initiated in the fall. This program brought forth information and personal opinions on a wide variety of current topics.

The Christian Campus Fellowship congregates for a Sunday worship service.

The objective of the Christian Campus House is to provide a Christian environment for the students at the University of Illinois. It is associated with the Christian Student Fellowship, a religious group that meets on Sunday evenings for dinner and worship services. The student fellowship also sends "out-reach teams" to area churches to publicize Christian work at the University of Illinois. This year, Prof. Gerald Gibson, who established the Ghana College for Ministers, made his office at Campus House. He came to the U of I just last summer and expressed the desire to serve the total campus.

Christian Campus House, itself, is a cooperative of twelve men who, in the past, have distinguished themselves through activities in MIA.

College Hall Provides Unique Study Facilities

College Hall is a residence of men of all types, of all majors, and from all parts of the country. Such a cross-section of people adds color, flavor, and a true learning experience to the men of College Hall.

Each unit at College Hall consists of one room used as a lounge and study area and another room which provides sleeping for two students. This arrangement is unique from all other housing units. Engineering and architecture students are provided with drawing tables with fluorescent lighting.

Two recent mixers linked the men of College Hall with women of similar independent houses. An exchange was held at the Ice Rink with Delta House, and a few weeks after, a pumpkin carving party was held with the women of The Mansion.

The men of College Hall and their dates enjoy a closed dance at the hall.

Granada Wins Blue Division Basketball Tourney

A freshman-sophomore soccer challenge is a pleasant diversion from studying.

Granada Club sponsored an open dance as the first social event of the fall. A capacity crowd turned out for the dance to be entertained by the Manhattan Project. After this first social event, the social calendar was comprised of dances, hootenannies, exchanges, and bonfires.

The men of Granada demonstrated their athletic prowess by coping first place in the 1968 MIA Blue Division Basketball Tournament and second place in the IM Softball Tournament. Through participation in sports, the men of Granada availed themselves of an opportunity to promote unity and group spirit.

The rose which appears on the crest of Granada is a part of its fascinating history which is bound in Spanish lore. Granada's flower, the rose, is Spain's traditional flower.

Residents of Illi-Dell are Agriculture Majors

"Brotherhood and cooperation" are promoted by the officers of Illi-Dell.

Equality, cooperation, and brotherhood are the key words in the lives of the men living at Illi-Dell. These characteristics have been standards since 1949, when the house was formed.

Members of Illi-Dell have many common bonds of interest, the main one being that all members are agriculture majors. They are active in various agriculture clubs and members on agriculture judging teams.

Illi-Dell residents also have a keen interest in sports, ranging from men's football and basketball, to both men's and co-recreational volleyball, softball, and bowling.

The purpose of Illi-Dell is to provide an economical home for its members by utilizing the cooperative system, while embodying a strong feeling of brotherhood among its members.

Men of Medea Participate in Variety of IM Sports

Heads Up! The Medea all-stars are on the warpath again, this time in volleyball.

The forty-eight men of Medea, an independent housing unit on Green Street, have in the past participated in Men's Independent Association and intramural athletic events, and this year was no exception. The men formed teams and participated in MIA Blue League competition in football, basketball, waterpolo, and volleyball. Paired with the Mansion, a member of WISA, the men also participated in the annual co-recreational volleyball games.

Two main events highlighted the social calendar of Medea. The first event was the annual Christmas party for the men and their dates held in the house's main lounge. "The Likes of Us" provided entertainment for the second event, the spring formal.

Newman Hall is Proud of Its Spirit, Enthusiasm

A silent corner and a guitar are all you need to get away from it all.

The 320 residents of Newman Hall are justly proud of their spirit and enthusiasm for their hall and school.

On October 24, during his visit to campus, Pierre Salinger, famed presidential press secretary, was the guest of the men of Newman at an informal coffee hour. His short visit gave them an opportunity to meet him personally and question him on public issues.

The men of Newman paired with the women of Allen Hall to construct a float for Homecoming and to participate in the Dad's Day Review.

In keeping with the traditional spirit of giving, the men held a Christmas party for seventy-five orphans, whom they treated to a Christmas dinner, a party, and of course, gifts from Santa Claus.

The men of Nabor House enjoy helping at the little sister meetings.

Through co-operation, the men of Nabor House blend the brotherhood and organization of a fraternity with the economics of a cooperative. Nabor House, an agriculture co-operative fraternity develops leadership through education and recreation as well as co-operation.

Participation in many house activities such as social exchanges and IM sports, provided interest and experience for the men. This year, the Nabor House football team received the first place trophy in their MIA division.

A new social highlight this year was the innovation of a "Big Sister" program. The "Big Sisters" helped orient the pledges to campus social life and aided house functions such as spring open house.

Scott Hall Presents Queen at Christmas Dance

Janice Albanese, Allen Hall freshman, reigns as queen of the Scott Hall Christmas dance December 14th.

Coed Dorms

Bromley Hall has developed rapidly in its two and one half years of existence. Its facilities for both study and pleasure are among the best on campus. The library is equipped with a full set of encyclopedias, dictionaries, and reference books. In Bromley's language laboratory, students can attend their language lab class. For social activities, Bromley has two music rooms equipped with stereo record players, a pool room with three pool tables and two ping pong tables, an olympic size indoor swimming pool, a weight lifting room, a game room, and a colonial style snack bar.

The Bromley student government is composed of four officers elected at large and the president of each floor. This group encouraged activities, including the Bromley college bowl team, which was a finalist in the 1968 competition, and the Dad's Day Review group.

While her friends have a tête-à-tête, this miss plays a short game of solitaire.

“Up With People” and Concert Perform at ISR

ISR is a self-sufficient unit which houses approximately 1200 students, most of whom are upper classmen. In addition to television rooms and lounges, the complex has a library and a snack bar leading to an inside court. An outdoor sunken court is an added popular feature during warm weather.

This year, the ISR Council, the new coed student government body for Wardall and Townsend, worked in coordination with the Office of Student Programs in an effort to bring more activities into the residence halls. In addition to the Ram Narayan Sarangi player concert, Maurice McKinley's drum demonstration, The Roving Theater, and Up With People, the ISR residents were entertained by special films and faculty speakers this year.

Wardall's skit cops first place trophy in the Dad's Day Revue performance.

ISR's snack bar overlooking the inside courtyard provides a pleasant place for residents to study.

Sororities

Alpha Chi defense has a rough time stopping the Pi Phi's in Powder Puff.

An all-out effort by the fifty-six girls of Alpha Chi Omega merited them the Panhellenic sweepstakes trophy. Paired with Zeta Beta Tau, the Alpha Chi's worked long and hard to make their skit "the best" in the annual stunt show competition. The skit entitled "The Roar of the Brimstone and the Smell of the Fire" depicted a green and pink ZBT devil who lost his bid for the number one position in the world to the Lord. A first place in badge sales was given to the AX's for their sale of 1400 homecoming badges. "Orange and Blue Crack 'em in Two," the Alpha Chi 2-D house deck entry came out a winner, being judged second in its division.

The women of Alpha Chi also earned a Panhellenic scholastic honor by placing in the first quartile for the seventh consecutive semester.

With a common bond of sisterhood, the girls of Alpha Delta Pi stressed the growth of the individual. Realizing that each girl must be true to herself, the girls of ADPi grew to know each other as individuals with individual needs. Thus, they strove to change the stereotype image of "sorority girls—carbon copies."

Individual pledge grades resulted in a first quartile ranking for the class. For the social touch, the old standards of room popcorn parties, dances, exchanges, serenades, and co-rec. sports gave the girls ample time to work together.

A search for variety resulted in sponsoring a monopoly tournament with Alpha Tau Omega. The girls also worked with Theta Xi to build their Homecoming float.

Gathering to talk before informal Friday dinners is an AEΦ favorite.

Alpha Epsilon Phi sponsored two philanthropic projects. Orphans and underprivileged students from Champaign were treated to Thanksgiving dinner. For the other project, the girls worked in close conjunction with the Urban League in renovating old homes in North Champaign. These houses, it is planned, will eventually be sold at a minimal cost to families in the area.

This year, the women of Alpha Epsilon Phi also demonstrated their talent by making finals in Stunt Show. Paired with Beta Theta Pi, the girls presented "A Play for Peace," depicting a chess game with people as the pieces. "The Young at Heart" dance was the social highlight. For this event, the house was transformed into a playground.

Traditions are an important part of Alpha Gamma Delta, and this year was an outstanding indication of this. Paired with Alpha Kappa Lambda, the Alpha Gams presented "Godiva Rides Again," which made their twelfth consecutive Stunt Show appearance.

Individual achievement is also stressed at AΓΔ. A "study-hard" pledge program, steak'n beans dinners, and monetary awards provided incentive for each girl.

The big event of the fall was the '71 pledge dance called Alphalfa Grubby Dance-a. The pledge dance along with a pool side formal, the traditional winter formal, trick or treating for UNICEF, and the annual Mrs. "K" Day, to honor their housemother, high-lighted an exciting year for the women of AΓΔ.

Alpha Phi Volunteers Work at Nursing Center

This year the women of Alpha Phi took part in many campus and chapter activities. They were paired with Farmhouse in the annual A-Ti-Us Sing, sponsored by the A-Ti-Us Sachem honorary organizations, which won them a first place trophy. This was the fifth first place trophy Alpha Phi has won in this contest. At Homecoming they earned another trophy when they paired with Pi Kappa Alpha and placed second in the Homecoming floats.

Besides being socially active, the girls of Alpha Phi also engaged in a philanthropic project. They volunteered to work at the Americana Nursing Center in Urbana. Their participation included visiting with many of the patients and aiding with the various recreational activities provided for the residents.

The ouija board provides diversion from studying at the Alpha Xi Delta house.

The Alpha Xi Delta house on Michigan and Busey Avenues has been bustling with activities this year. During the fall, activity centered around Stunt Show '68, preparations for initiation, and co-rec. volleyball games. The fall season culminated when the girls captured second place in their particular division for Homecoming house decorations.

Following midterm exams, the Alpha Xis directed their energies toward the annual Christmas dance. The girls made large Christmas stockings decorated with their dates' names, filled them with many surprises, hung them over the mantle, and presented them to their dates at the dance.

During the second semester two major projects consumed the girls' time. They included a pledge dance and the annual Rose Formal held at the Urbana-Lincoln Hotel.

Chi Omega Welcomes a New House Mother

As a kickoff to homecoming weekend, the women of $\chi\Omega$ brand their house deck.

Included in the many activities of Chi Omega in 1968 was participation in the Greek Week festivities. Climaxing the eventful week, Chi O captured the Greek Week Trophy given by Evans Scholars. The trophy was given for outstanding participation in the pledge service project, chariot parade, Illiolympics, and for attendance at other Greek Week functions. The enthusiastic class of '71 placed first in the pledge service project. One pledge was honored with the title of Greek Week Princess at the chariot parade and the pledges placed first in several Illiolympic events.

In the fall, Mrs. Andrews was welcomed as the new house mother.

△ △ △ Give Dads Special Showing of Stunt Show

For the sixth consecutive year, Delta Delta Delta has made Stunt Show finals. This year, Tri Delta paired with Theta Chi to present, "A Marvelous Mission," which won the second place trophy. Other events, which kept the Tri Delta's busy throughout the year, included the Dads Day Banquet and Sweetheart Christmas Party. The dads learned many of the house songs and were entertained with this year's Stunt Show skit following the Dads Day Banquet held at the chapter house. Tree trimming, caroling, exchanging stockings, and building snowmen were all part of the Sweetheart Christmas Party.

Delta Gamma Enlarges its Front Parking Lot

Iota Chapter of Delta Gamma presented a bright new sight to the campus this year with new landscaping and a larger parking lot.

DG's got a chance to display creativity in decorating their rooms this year at the Christmas stocking party when men were allowed upstairs. Afterwards, everyone gathered to open their stockings.

Social life is only one side of DG. Iota chapter aided its providence by capturing the award for greatest scholastic improvement from the national organization. They again paired with Tau Epsilon Phi to present Fall Flicks. The proceeds were sent to the foundation for Sight Conservation of the Blind.

In 1968, for the second consecutive year, Delta Gamma captured first place in the Greek Week Illiolympics.

Delta Zeta Supports Deaf at Gaudet College

The actives have fun introducing the pledges to weekly song practices.

The women of Delta Zeta began the fall semester with two new philanthropic programs. They consisted of contributing to the support of the Navajo Indians and the deaf at Gaudet College and collecting clothing and canned goods through a campus wide canvass.

In the fall, the sisters were excited with their Theta Delta Chi pairing for Stunt Show. Although they didn't make finals, they enjoyed practicing for the performance. The girls next pairing was with Sigma Pi for Turkey Run. This brought them the third place prize.

A stress on academic accomplishment brought results. In the fall of 1968, the DZ pledges placed in the first quartile for sororities.

Delta Sigma Theta Organizes a Girls' Club

Members of Delta Sigma Theta take time to socialize after a weekly meeting.

Delta Sigma Theta, a social-service sorority, was one of the two sororities on campus that did not have a chapter house. The actives (Deltas) and pledges (Pyramids) lived in dorms and met on Friday nights at the Union for meetings.

With Delta Sigma Theta the emphasis was on service projects. The Deltas and Pyramids set up a girls' club for area children at Douglas Recreational Center in Champaign. As a Christmas project, the sisters made goody baskets and sang songs for an old folks' home. They also adopted a child overseas to whom they sent money each month.

Social events were held by the Deltas in order to interest girls to be pledges. Highlighting the fall semester was the Punch-Out Party and informal dance during the first week of school. Proceeds were put onto a scholarship fund.

Gamma Phi Beta Names Pinmate "Moon Man"

At the Steak and Beans Dinner, girls with less than a 4.00 wear grubbies.

An atmosphere of excitement and fun prevailed over the Gamma Phi Beta house as Christmas approached. They proudly chose their "Moon Man" at an informal stocking party in December. "Moon Man" was honored by the chapter for being the worst pinmate of the year.

Before leaving for Christmas, the waiters were honored at a dinner by the senior girls. This gave the waiters a vacation from their daily duties at the house.

The dining room was also the scene of the annual steak and beans scholarship banquet. At this time, scholastic achievements of the pledge class were recognized, and half of the pledge class was honored for being initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta, the freshman scholastic honorary for women.

“The Great Circus” Cops Third in Student Show

Iota girls keep as busy as a three-ring-circus in practicing for Stunt Show.

Enthusiasm, interests, and tradition diffuse the activities of Iota Alpha Pi. In addition to supporting the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation, their national philanthropic project, the Iota's held their annual Christmas party with toys and Santa for locally underprivileged children. The workshops with their National and the annual birthday party celebration held on a different campus each year, foster unity and promote Iota's nonsectarian ideals.

Study facilities are provided to help maintain the membership's current 4.0 average and long standing goal of good scholarship.

This year the successful IAPi-AEPi Stunt Show pairing produced the third place winner, “The Great Circus.” Once Stunt Show was over, Iota's settled back into their routine.

Homecoming spirit enlivened the women of Kappa Alpha Theta as they put forth an all out effort to win the panhellenic trophy for homecoming decorations. The effort payed off with Theta placing first in both the two dimensional and three dimensional divisions. The colorful orange and blue decorations both followed the same theme, "We'll Orange and Blue Those Buckeyes." The 2-D deck was a graphic design problem featuring a checkerboard with the theme painted in the last space. A large eyeball with fire ascending from it made up the 3-D deck which was erected on the courtyard facing Wright Street.

Due to the lack of time and interest, Theta voted to abolish all compulsory formal exchanges and to hold informal exchanges instead.

The women of KAΘ are in the Homecoming spirit as they finish the house deck.

Annual Kappa Delta Spoof Promotes Frivolity

The Kappa Delta Spoof, celebrated on Dad's Day this year, was a pleasant break from the routine of studying. The dance featuring the R.E.O. Speedwagon, is held annually by the KD "Society for the Promotion of Outrageous Frivolity," and as always, attracted a capacity crowd. The event was topped off by an open house afterwards.

Other KD-dids were the "Hey Jude" charity dance held in the fall with Theta Delta Chi, the co-sponsorship of the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution Open House, and third place awards in the Greek Illiolympics and in Turkey Run. The women of Kappa Delta placed in the second quartile for Panhellenic Scholastic Achievement and second place in the 1968 Greek Week College Bowl.

Kappa Pairs with Pi Phi for Monmouth Duo

Reading the rush lists is a tedious but necessary part of formal rush.

Philanthropic projects in several forms were engaged in by Kappa Kappa Gamma. They started the fall in this vein by joining with Phi Mu, Pikes, and Tau Delta Phi to canvass Champaign-Urbana for the Danny Thomas March on Leukemia. The Kappas also adopted a foster child overseas, and with the coming of Christmas held a party for underprivileged children.

Kappas also helped themselves scholastically as they ranked in the first quartile for over-all active and pledge class grade point average, as announced in the fall.

Both founded at Monmouth College, Kappas and Pi Phi's once again paired for the annual Monmouth Duo spring formal.

Paired with Kappa Sigma, Phi Mu was co-winner of the Blue Division Homecoming float competition. The float, which took first place honors, proclaimed, "We can Hack the Buckeyes" and showed a huge Illini grinding Buckeye logs into dust and spewing them out a chimney. Their house deck, which was awarded fourth place, featured a U of I nut-cracker splitting a Buckeye.

The Phi Mu '71's, a class of thirty, spearheaded a march for leukemia in the Champaign-Urbana area. The pledges combined efforts with three other houses to net over $1200 for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital. Another pledge service project was the annual making of toy carts for orphans.

Before dinner, Phi Sigs take time to talk over the events of the day.

In August, women from Phi Sigma Sigma chapters throughout the United States gathered in Champaign for the National Phi Sig Leadership Training Conference. During the program a number of programs were conducted concerning such aspects as pledge training, ritual, and campus activities. Not only did the conference provide an opportunity for an exchange of successful ideas, but also for the girls to meet new sisters possessing the same goals and a common bond.

This year the Theta chapter of Phi Sig made a great achievement in the area of scholarship. The chapter was honored by Panhel for receiving the highest active average and for the highest combined average.

“Guess Who’s Coming to Dinner” Cops 2nd Place

Pi Phis and ADPhis sing their favorite “golden oldies” at a song fest.

Capitalizing on a movie title, the Pi Phis made their mark early this year by capturing second prize for their homecoming house decoration. An Illini was pictured butchering a Buckeye and saying, “Guess Who’s Coming for Dinner.” Later in the fall, they won first place in the Powder Puff Football Tournament sponsored by Phi Kappa Theta fraternity.

One of the Pi Beta Phis important social events was the Monmouth Duo held in the spring with Kappa Kappa Gamma, at a local country club. This is an annual co-sponsored event paying tribute to the fact that both sororities were founded in Monmouth, Illinois. The Monmouth Duo included dinner, insulting songs between the two sororities, and dancing.

SDT Sponsors Best Dancer on Campus Contest

A hypopotomus bank heads two Sigma Delta Tau's lengthy Christmas lists.

The Sigma Delta Tau calendar of events included the fourth annual BDOC contest to select the Best Dancers on Campus. The dance was held at Phi Gamma Delta together with Alpha Tau Omega and Alpha Chi Omega. The contest was opened to everyone on campus, and prizes were awarded to the three winning couples. Another special event was the SDT annual winter formal held at The Brass Rail.

In spring of 1968, the athletes of SDT placed first in the Delta Chi volleyball tournament. They were also active participants in co-rec bowling and baseball.

Aware that scholarship is an important part of sorority life, the women of Sigma Delta Tau have exceeded the all-sorority average for the last two years.

Zeta Tau Alpha Wins Third Atius-Sachem Sing

The women of Zeta Tau Alpha captured firsts in curricular as well as extra-curricular events.

The pledge class scholastic efforts resulted in first quartile ranking, according to Junior Panhellenic competition.

During spring 1968 competition, ZTA walked off, for the third consecutive year, with first place honors in the Atius-Sachem sing.

The house was transformed into a "Crystal Castle" for their Christmas formal, and the girls enjoyed dancing beneath the "Moonlight on Vermont," at their spring formal.

This year the ZTA's worked in conjunction with the alumnae in their second annual candle sale to raise funds for house projects.

Acacians Initiate Annual "Composite Scramble"

A shapely Chi-O-Tee saves X Ω's composite in Acacia's Composite Scramble.

For a Christmas philanthropic project, the Acacians paired with Kappa Alpha Theta to host a party for underprivileged children from the Champaign-Urbana area. These children would have ordinarily had a very limited Christmas. After a story and games, Santa Claus came in the back door to present gifts to the children. As a second philanthropic project, the men of Acacia again contributed to the National March of Dimes Fund.

At the beginning of the fall semester, three Acacians "borrowed" composites from eleven sororities resulting in the first Composite Scramble. Each sorority was asked to present a skit in order to redeem its composite. Tri Delt's skit "Watermelon Bust" was judged the number one performance. Acacia composites were well guarded during the evening.

Alpha Chi Rho Little Sisters Begin Second Year

A new little sister of AXP receives her initiation pin from her big brother.

This year marked Alpha Chi Rho's fifty-third year at the University of Illinois and the second year of its "Little Sister Under the Labrum" program. Traditions initiated this year by the little sisters included a Halloween party and a Christmas party.

Alpha Chi Rho was busy redecorating their entire house both inside and outside. It also remained one of the few fraternities to sponsor an annual alumni dinner at which undergraduates and alumni have an opportunity to meet.

To exemplify their willingness to serve, the Crows of Phi Kappa chapter gave their assistance to the world-wide service project for CARE. This activity took place during the spring semester.

An Alpha Delt prepares to throw a pass in an Orange Division football game.

Since 1913, when Alpha Delta Phi founded Dads Day nationally, it has been traditional for a prominent campus speaker to address the Alpha Delt father-son banquet. At this dinner, monetary alumni awards are presented to the four men who achieve the highest grade point in each class and to the four men who show the greatest scholastic improvement over the previous semester.

In intramural athletics, the Alpha Delt's have established an enviable reputation at the University of Illinois. For the second consecutive year, they won the over-all Orange Division point trophy. This trophy is awarded annually on the basis of each Orange Division fraternity's performance in all eight of the intramural sports.

This year was one of the most successful ever at Alpha Epsilon Pi. The fall semester was off to a great start when AEPi finished third in Stunt Show. Football was the next center of attraction as AEPi won their league championship. The pledges were also in the limelight as they changed the chapter house into an 18th century English warship for their pledge dance.

During semester break, construction began on the patio in back of the house as well as paneling of the basement. These improvements added to the modern appearance of the house, keeping with the tradition of the AEPi national movement for improving their chapter houses. With the coming of spring, the men dug out their baseball gear and participated in the rugged competition.

During an exchange, an AEPi scrapbook holds the interest of these students.

Alpha Gamma Rho, the only national social-professional fraternity for men in agriculture, sets one of its goals as making better men and through them a broader and better agricultural program.

This year, the new pledges and the actives were assisted by their little sister group, the Rho-Mates. The Mates were hostesses at teas, served dinner at the fraternity house, and helped their little brothers adjust to University and fraternity life during their first semester on campus. Pledge fathers and pledge sons returned favors to the girls by running errands and chauffeuring them around campus. For the first time, the Rho-Mates held a Little Sisters Conference for all little sister organizations to discuss their various purposes and problems.

AKL and AGD Present "Godiva Rides Again"

A rushee and an active engage in a serious conversation at an AKL rush smoker.

In 1921, seven years after the founding of the national fraternity of Alpha Kappa Lambda at the University of California, the University of Illinois became the home of the Gamma chapter of AKL.

Today, the men of Gamma chapter are proudly continuing their winning tradition. In eight of the last nine years they have made Stunt Show finals. Paired with Alpha Gamma Delta, Gamma chapter presented another successful performance, "Godiva Rides Again."

As the fraternity to rate first scholastically for a total of thirty-four semesters, the men of AKL continued their winning tradition of scholastic excellence by capturing third and fourth place for fraternity scholarship for the spring and fall semesters of 1968.

Sunday afternoons are often spent entertaining APX little sisters.

Members of Alpha Rho Chi designed and built a patio-garden complex behind their house and their newly acquired annex in the spring of 1968. Evergreen shrubs, hedges, and washed gravel surrounded the patio of red brick and wood benches. Adjacent to the patio is the garden and sunken pool which is fed by a small waterfall. The men of APX put the finishing touches on the patio by lining the pool with rock and multi-colored flowers. When the garden was at its peak in beauty, the chapter inaugurated it with a barbecue for its Little Sisters of Anthemios.

The co-operative effort in work, as displayed in the new patio-garden complex is typical of professional brotherhood at APX, which limits its membership to students in architecture and the applied arts.

Alpha Sigs Win Orange Division Wrestling Meet

After a show, Alpha Sigs like to go back to the chapter house with their dates.

December 6, 1968 was a big day for the Alpha Sigs. Not only was it the day of their traditional Black and White winter formal, but it was also their 123rd anniversary since their founding at Yale University in 1845.

Alpha Sigma Phi has been doing things in a big way all year. Its thirty-seven man pledge class was the largest on campus, and in sports, the Alpha Sigs won first place in the all-fraternity wrestling meet and placed second in the intramural Orange Division of football.

The brothers were proud of their little sisters organization, "The Sisters of the Sword and Saber." These twenty-six girls not only added the feminine touch to the house, but also spurred the Alpha Sigs on to greater heights.

“Outhouse Scramble” Highlights Spring Semester

Excellent passing helped the ATO's win the $\Phi\K\Theta$ Invitational Football Tourney.

The men of Alpha Tau Omega, following last year's record of sports dominance in IM sports, began the 1968-1969 school year with a victory in the Phi Kappa Theta Invitational Football Tournament. To celebrate the occasion, the ATO's threw a pledge dance entitled “Blue Moon Shine.” The Tea Garden Smoke provided music while the ATO's and their dates, dressed in hillbilly attire, enjoyed the hillbilly decor.

Exchanges, faculty dinners, and a full social calendar, including weekly parties, a winter formal, and a Christmas party with the Little Sisters of the Maltese Cross, rounded out the first semester.

Second semester ushered in more activities, the most important of these, the day long “Outhouse Scramble,” a pre-party followed by a trip through a tunnel into an “Outhouse.”

Beta Sigma Psi Plans New Chapter House

A Beta Sig works on the weekly clean up project at the Lutheran Chapel.

Beta Sigma Psi is the national social fraternity for Lutheran men, and with that common bond to unite them, they are continuing to grow in number. This year their house boasted fifty men, and they are now involved in the preliminary processes of building a new house.

The long summer months did not dampen the spirit of the Beta Sigs. After winning first place for softball in their Orange division league, in the spring of 1968, the Beta Sigs returned in the fall to become league champions in football. The social calendar included the annual Reformation Day football game, the Christmas dance—"Moonlight and Mistletoe," two pledge dances, and the Gold Rose Formal.

Beta and Alpha Chi Pair for '69 Stunt Show

Beta's skit, "A Play for Peace," wins a berth in the Stunt Show finals.

Even though the men of Beta Theta Pi recorded a 4.03 average for the fall semester, they managed to maintain a full social calendar. This included a Florida party, many informal parties (made possible by the new visitation policies), a Christmas formal, an annual spring formal, and pledge dances.

In addition, the brothers paired with Alpha Epsilon Phi for Stunt Show and made finals with their skit entitled "A Play for Peace." In the spring, the Betas paired with Alpha Chi Omega for Stunt Show '69.

Brothers of Orange and Blue Hold Roman Orgy

In keeping with tradition, the men of Sigma chapter of Chi Phi began their social year with an early fall Roman Toga Party. The chapter house was the site of the Roman festival which was highlighted by a banquet for the patrician Sons of the Blue and Scarlet and their dates. The costumes and banquet depicted the typical Roman style of leisure. "Anything goes" was the atmosphere as the cold of winter brought the Hell's Angels dinner party and dance.

First-place honors were captured by Sigma in the First Annual Midwest Chi Phi Basketball Tournament held at the University of Indiana. Two years ago, Chi Phi took the initiative to sponsor an invitational golf meet at the end of the spring semester. The tournament is continuing now as a tradition and is open to all fraternity houses on campus.

The big event at Alpha Zeta Delta chapter of Chi Psi in the spring of 1968 was making the feature article of Big Ten, a publication for the Universities in the Big Ten Conference. The article and pictorial layout covered the slingshot "wars" that are held every spring at fraternity park among the men of Chi Psi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Beta Theta Pi, and Kappa Sigma.

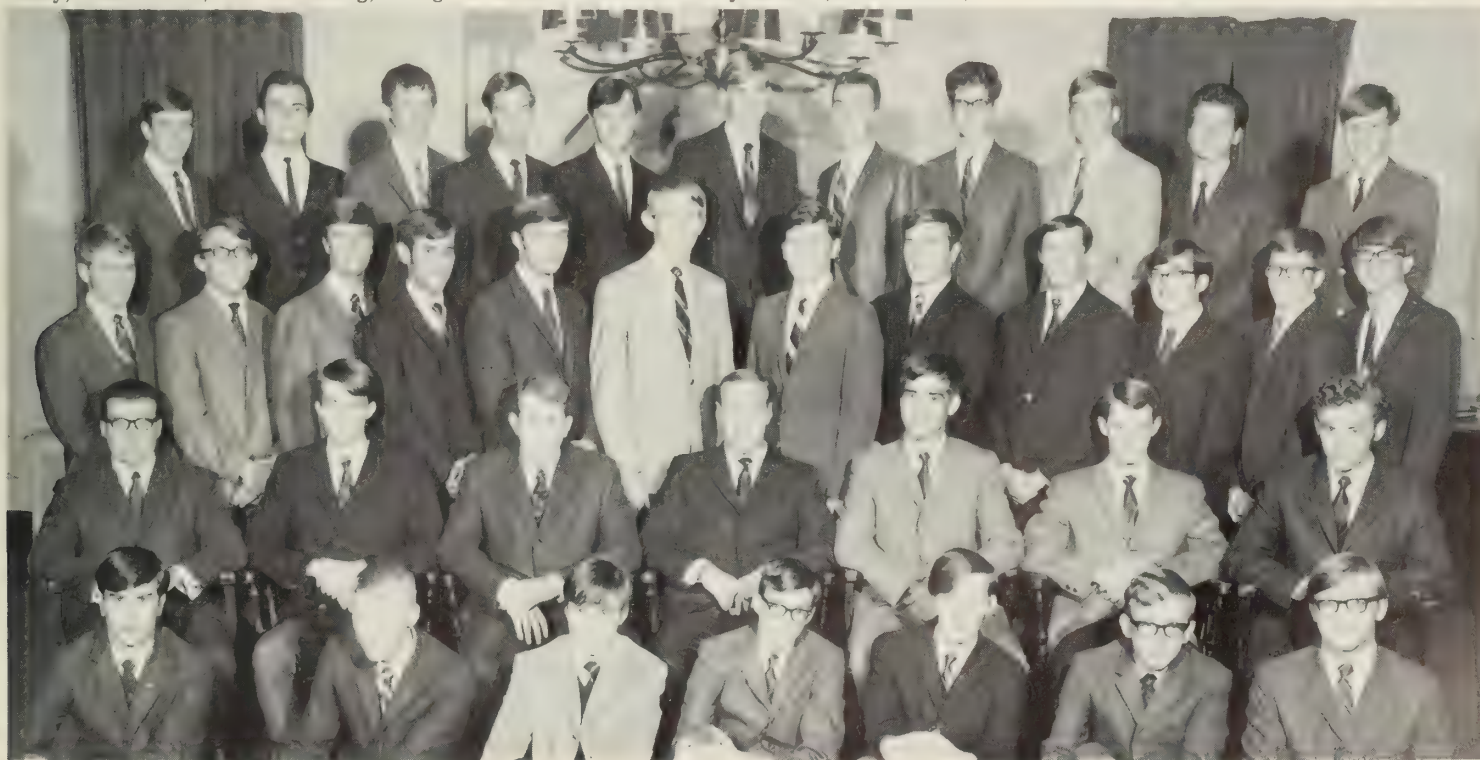

A first-place trophy in the Interfraternity Council's homecoming decoration competition earned the men of Chi Psi more recognition. Their house deck entitled "Orange, Blue, and Hugh," featured Hugh Hefner flanked by shapely, playboy bunnies set within the Big "U." Homecoming was just what the name implies as thirty alumni came home and they and their families and friends were treated to pre-game lunch and post-game refreshments.

At an early fall exchange, the brothers joined with the women of Kappa Kappa Gamma to collect over $100 for UNICEF. The service project is sponsored nationally by the United Nation's Halloween Trick or Treat for UNICEF program. After the joint project the girls were treated to refreshments.

Delta Phi has a tree decorating party on the evening before the winter formal.

As a diversified house, Delta Phi enjoyed a wide variety of social activities. Typifying these social events was the annual Iris Formal which takes its name from the fraternity flower, the iris. At this spring formal, the Delta Phi sweetheart was crowned. She was chosen from the pinmates of the fraternity brothers, the week before the dance.

Delta Phi, being the oldest continually active social fraternity in the United States, is understandably proud of its history of friendship and brotherhood. After ten years of testing and evaluating, Tau chapter was founded in 1920 from the local Iris Club, the original Delta Phi organization.

In May of 1919, the Chi Beta local fraternity was chartered the Alpha Alpha chapter of Delta Sigma Phi. Founded at City College of New York in 1899, the fraternity has continued to grow rapidly and now has 101 active chapters and 19 new colonies in the United States and Canada. This year's Homecoming brought scores of alumni and their families to the chapter house for their 50th anniversary.

The highlight of the brother's social calendar was the annual pledge dance. The pledges chose a hippie theme, an appropriate title—The Smoldering Roach. With decorations and colorful costumes, the men turned the chapter house into a Haight-Ashbury coffeehouse. Another important social event was the spring Carnation Ball.

Delta Tau Delta was the first fraternity organized on this campus (1872) and since then the Delts have continued to be leaders in fraternity affairs. In the past year, two outstanding achievements of theirs included taking first place in the three dimensional house decs for Homecoming and winning their third consecutive volleyball championship. The Delts also continued to have a top ranking in overall points for intramural sports.

In September, 1967, a fire destroyed the Delt's house, forcing the brothers to live in two rented houses. They kept their spirit alive even under adverse conditions, and this year they were fortunate to obtain a comfortable house in Urbana.

DU Relives Highschool Days at Hogan Hop

The highlight of Delta Upsilon's social calendar was the popular "Hogan High Hop" which followed a traditional high school theme. Brothers and their dates, donned in their high school garb, arrived at the dance in a school bus. Besides having a top popular band, the Hogan high schoolers danced to the tapes of their favorite "Golden Oldies." The high point of the spring semester was their annual sweetheart formal. The Formal was held the last month of the 1968 school year at the Paradise Inn with music provided by the Coachmen.

The recently founded Delta Upsilon Mothers of Pledges Society, better known as the DUMPS, function as a little sisters organization.

The DU Mothers of Pledges, better known as the D.U.M.P.S, enjoy a sing-in.

Members of Beta chapter of Evans Scholars, who are all former golf caddies and recipients of Western Golf Association Scholarships, topped off the spring semester by winning the overall fraternity golf championship. The Evans Scholars' social calendar includes a golf tournament for sorority women and a sweetheart dance at which the Evans Scholars Sweetheart is announced. The girl chosen competes in the annual interchapter competition at the Golf Ball held in Chicago.

KDR's Great Dane Mascot Menaces Campus

Kappa Delta Rho ended the spring semester of 1968 by taking first place honors in the annual IFC College Bowl. Following easy victories over Psi U, Evans Scholars, and ZBT, KDR defeated SAE to win the coveted trophy.

In the fall of this year, the annual KDR pledge dance, the "Bowery Brawl," highlighted the social calendar of the Eta chapter. A "Roaring Twenties" atmosphere was created as KDR's, in double-breasted suits, and their dates, in short, ruffled skirts, danced to the music of the "Mankind."

Tradition was kept as another Great Dane mascot was born to menace the campus. Caesar, sired by a national champion, soon became an integral part of the campus as he spent the normal day chasing girls on the Quad and being chased home by the Illi-Cops.

The table head leads an after-dinner prayer at Kappa Delta Rho.

The request of a Kappa Sig is answered by a smile from the band leader.

This year marked Kappa Sigma's seventy-seventh year at the University. The men of Kappa Sig began their year with the annual Kappa Cheetah Dance. Later they paired with Phi Mu sorority for Homecoming and captured the IFC-MIA Blue Grand Trophy for over-all Homecoming activities. On the road to the gaining of this trophy, Kappa Sig also won possession of the Queen's Trophy for first place in Homecoming floats as well as placing high in house decorations, Homecoming badge sales, and parade of clowns.

The men of Kappa Sig also participated in all of the intramural sports, as well as initiated participation in others. For example, they enlarged their annual invitational softball tournament to include even more teams.

Sororities Participate in Venus Beauty Contest

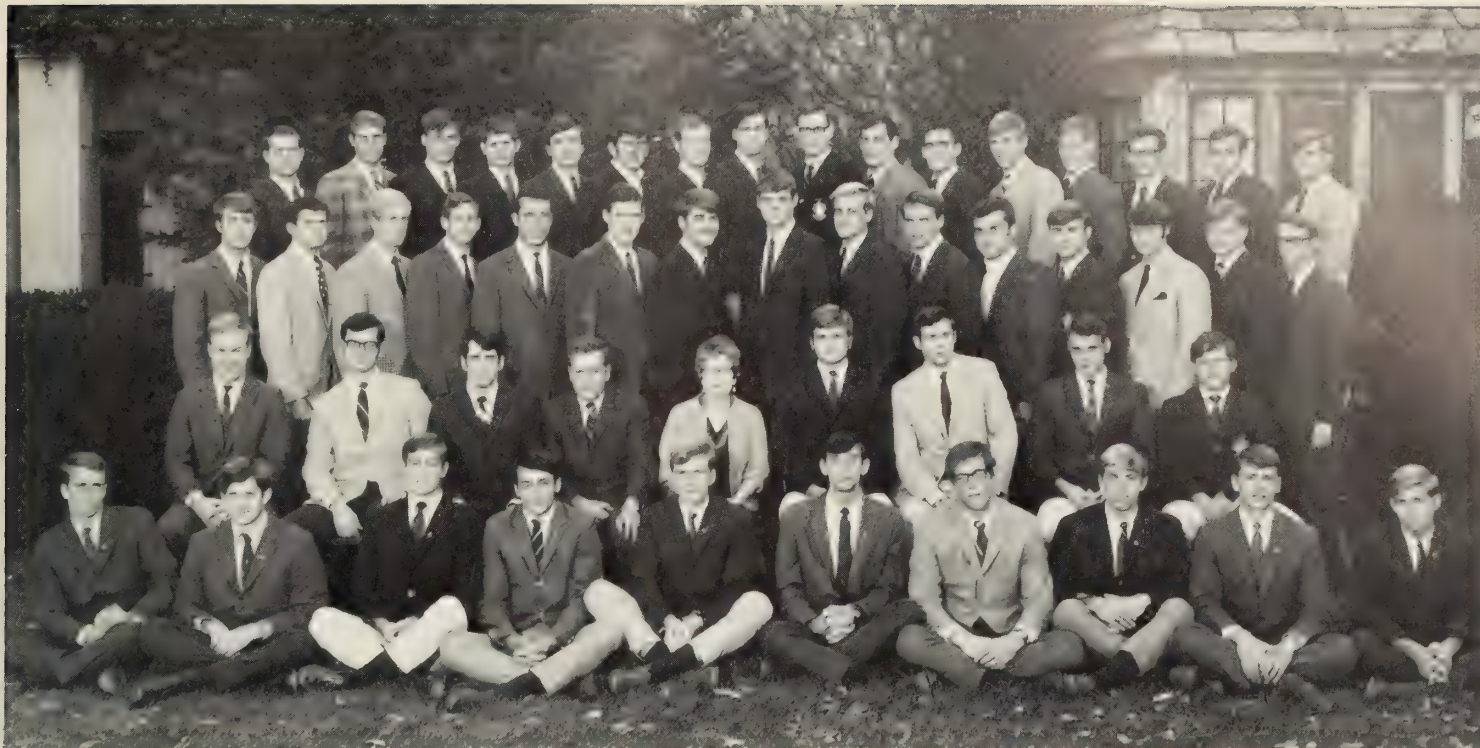

Chi Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity has been active at the University since 1915 when it became the 19th chapter to be installed into the national fraternity, now composed of 165 chapters.

The men of Chi Zeta concentrated on "originality" this year. The Miss Venus Grecian Beauty Contest and Dance, which featured contestants from all campus sororities, is fast becoming a traditional extravaganza.

Inscribed upon the coat-of-arms of Lambda Chi Alpha is an old Greek motto, which translated means "Naught Without Labor." Using this motto as their guideline, the men of Lambda Chi have established a set of goals to work toward. To fulfill these goals, the brothers strove for improvements in their scholastic and athletic capacities.

The card room is seldom found without bridge players at Lambda Chi Alpha.

Phi Delts Restore Fire Scarred Frat House

Thursday night finds the $\Phi\Delta$'s putting the finishing touches on their house deck.

Immediately after fire seared their house last semester break, the men of Phi Delta Theta made plans to redecorate and rejuvenate the house. This summer the plans were carried out, and when the Phi Delta returned for the school this fall, they were able to take up residence once again in their fraternity house.

On the social scene, the Phi Delt program included partying and dancing. In the fall, the Slave Drivers' Pledge Dance turned the house into a torture chamber. The annual She-Delt Dance was the next event on the agenda. At the party preceding the dance all dates were given a line-up and initiated into the house. After the initiation, they were given that one night to stay at the Phi Delta house as Phi Delta Thetas.

In the fall, Phi Gamma Delta together with Alpha Chi Omega, Sigma Delta Tau, and Alpha Tau Omega held the annual BDOC dance at the Fiji House. The object of the dance was to pick the best dancers on the university campus.

Portraying the giving spirit of the Christmas season, the brothers, along with their little sisters organization, the She-Gamms, took eighty underprivileged children Christmas shopping. In activities at the house, Santa visited a tree decorating party and couples in formal dress danced and dined.

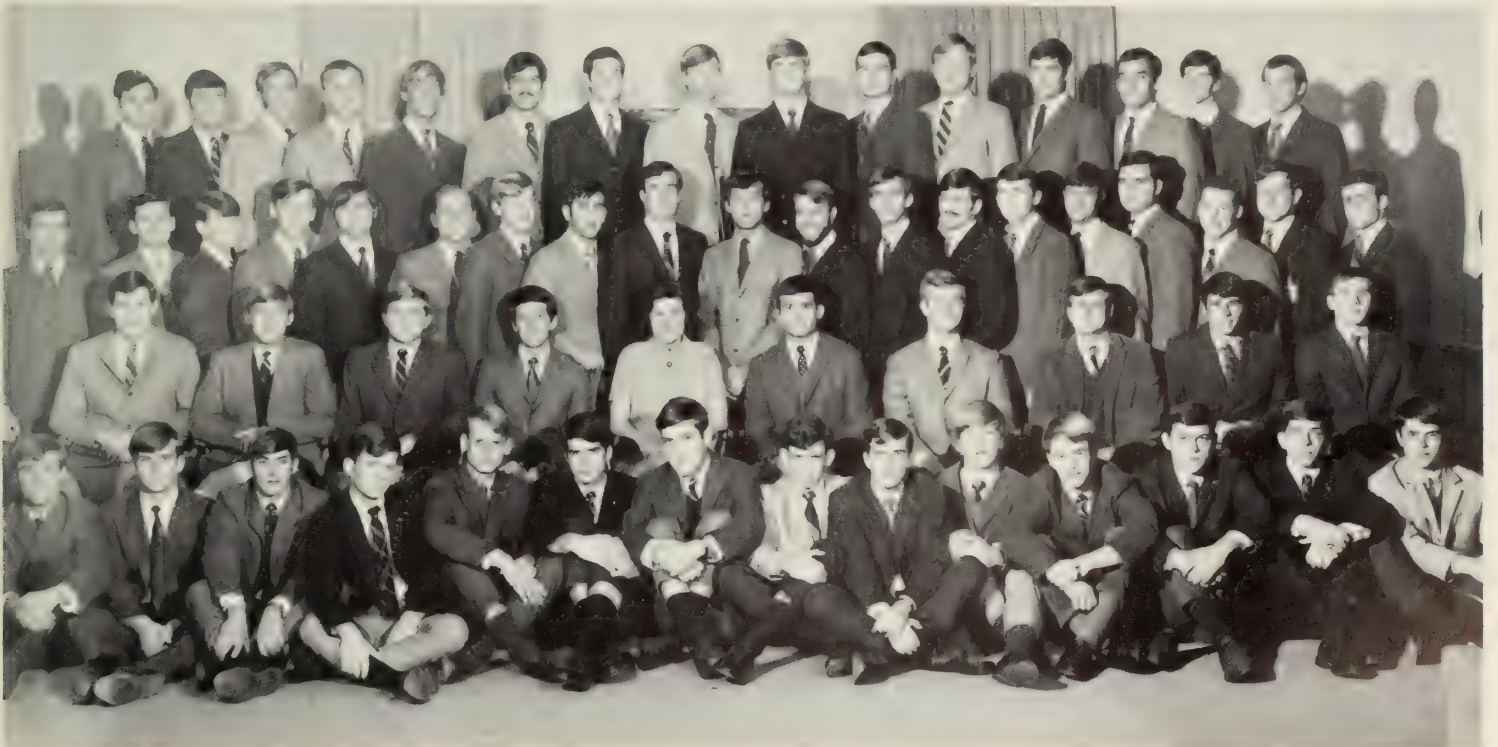

In the spring, Congressman Tom Railsback was initiated into Fiji at a special ceremony.

Phi Kappa Psi Cops IM Waterpolo Championship

Phi Kappa Psi demonstrates winning motions in one of their water polo games.

In the past year, the men of Phi Kappa Psi excelled in athletic events as they were second in total IM points in the Orange Division. Points were accumulated through league championships in football, volleyball, basketball, and softball. However, the top team house was the water polo team which won the Orange Division Championship.

The spring formal was highlighted by a Huntclub Party on a Friday night at the Lake of the Woods. The following evening, the brothers and their dates enjoyed dinner at the Urbana-Lincoln, followed by a formal dance at the fraternity house.

At the beginning of the fall semester, the thirty new pledges presented skits at their "Roaring Twenties" costume party. The gangsters and flappers were entertained by the music of the Nickel Bag.

Phi Kappa Sigma Barbecue Highlights Spring

The tip off is won as a member of $\Phi\kappa\Sigma$ outjumps his opponent in an IM game.

Phi Kappa Sigma was busy with social functions. In the spring of 1968, the formal was a weekend affair. A barbecue-picnic was held at Lake of the Woods Friday night, followed by a formal dinner and party at the house on Saturday night.

The pledge dance, "The Hot Rod" or "We're right up your alley," was held at the house in the fall. The eleven pledges presented a skit which was followed by a dance with music by "The Rain."

Another weekend affair was the winter formal. On Friday night, dinner was held at the Urbana-Lincoln, the sweetheart of Phi Kappa Sigma was announced. "The Zoe" provided entertainment later that evening at the fraternity house. This was followed by another party Saturday night.

Phi Kappa Tau has been an example of growing, moving ideas on the U of I campus since 1916. A typical example of the Phi Tau imagination is the annual Greek chug contest. Three years ago the Phi Tau's initiated a team and individual beer chug at Kams. Response and interest on the part of fraternities was so great that last year Zeta chapter decided to pair with Alpha Gamma Delta and add a sorority chug to the agenda. Phi Mu captured the honors in the first sorority chug bout. This year, the Phi Tau—Alpha Gam team paired with Anheuser-Busch in sponsoring the event.

As part of a Volunteer Illini Project, the men organized a football team to compete against various local teams at the Douglas Center in Champaign.

Members of Phi Kappa Theta work the ball to the center during an IM game.

Phi Kappa Theta, a contemporary fraternity, has been a campus innovator. The new fall semester marked the introduction of Powderpuff Football to the U of I campus. In conjunction with the annual Fraternity football tournament, Phi Kappa Theta pitted sixteen sororities in combat for the cherished title and trophy. Emerging victorious was Pi Beta Phi, who defeated Kappa Alpha Theta in the finals.

Also new to the campus was the Phi Kappa Theta pledge program. It differed from traditional programs in its division of the pledge period into two distinct periods, the pledge period and the neophyte period. During the neophyte stage concentration was placed solely on preparing the men for the responsibilities of being a full member.

Phi Sig Delts Win Zeta Psi Baseball Tourney

During the year, the men of Phi Sigma Delta excelled in scholarship and athletic events. Scholarship in the spring of 1968 stood as a high point in Phi Sig's history. Twenty-three of the twenty-six pledges received at least the 3.2 average necessary for activation. The same semester, the active chapter ranked fourth and the pledge class ranked ninth scholastically out of the fifty-seven fraternities on campus.

The Phi Sig Delt athletic teams proved to be successful also. They made the intermural baseball finals and won the Zeta Psi Golden Boar baseball tournament.

Two traditional dances, two pledge dances, and annual spring formal were also held at the fraternity house during the year. Exchanges with sororities and the little sister organization, the Little Sisters of the Sands, rounded off the social calendar.

The men of Phi Sigma Kappa improved their scholastic standing to third among fraternities on campus as the result of the spring, 1968 grade point averages. Their outstanding performance in accumulating 3.835 house average won recognition from their national office.

The undergraduate brothers were pleased to be represented on the Board of Fraternity Affairs by two fellow Phi Sigs, Prof. Francis Weeks and Dr. Frank Nasca. Both men also serve as national officers of Phi Sigma Kappa and have shown a devoted interest in the progress of the Alpha Deuteron chapter at Illinois.

The Shantytown Shuffle, the Hellzapoppin' pledge dance, a Christmas party for children, and the Moonlight Girls Formal are traditional events which again helped to round out the $\Phi \Sigma K$ social calendar.

“Sisters of Shield and Diamond” Began 1st Year

At a tea in the spring, 1968, the men of Pi Kappa Alpha selected twenty-one girls as members of their new formal little sisters organization, the Little Sister of the Shield and Diamond. During the school year, these girls assisted the brothers with dances, rush teas, and the pledge programs.

Paired with Alpha Phi, the Pikes put forth an all out effort which gained them the Chancellor's trophy for their Homecoming float.

The social highlight for the Pikes was the annual Old South Ball in celebration of their Virginia founding. For the dance, the men dressed in Confederate uniforms and delivered, on horseback, invitations to their dates.

The Little Sisters of the Shield and Diamond have song practice with Pikes.

With planned strategy in mind, Pi Kappa Phi enters the court to win the game.

Pi Kappa Phi combined talents with Alpha Xi Delta to be the only house in the fraternity Orange Division to make finals in Stunt Show. The skit, "A Dime for Two Nickels," introduced a sensitive theme as it parodied organized religion.

Major events at Pi Kappa Phi were a fall pledge dance, an annual spring formal, and, in May, the Rose Ball.

Dinner exchanges and parties were integrated with events centering around contemporary issues. A program of faculty-administration dinner seminars was initiated, and Professor Frank Nasca was welcomed as the new faculty associate.

House IM teams reached the playoffs in both football and basketball and missed first place in the Orange Division Bowling Championship by only nine pins.

Pi Lambda Phi Remodels its Chapter House

The long awaited remodeling of the Philam chapter house became a reality this year. Thirty-five thousand dollars worth of new walls, floors, furniture, and fixtures now provide the brothers with more spacious and modern living conditions than ever.

The annual Hawaiian Luau was expanded this year to include a hayride the night before the dance, and an all-sorority "Best Bikini on Campus" contest the next afternoon. The lovely winner received roses, a twenty dollar gift certificate, a large silver trophy, and admiring gazes from the crowd. Replica of Chief Illiniwek Adorns Psi U's Lawn

Each Psi U takes his assigned position in planned strategy to outwit the foe.

During Homecoming weekend, the men of Psi Upsilon put forth an all out effort and were rewarded with the Orange Division first place trophy for accumulating the most points in all Homecoming events. In addition to winning the badge sales competition, the Psi U's managed to build a float and place fourth in 3-D house decorations with a 25 foot replica of Chief Illiniwek. The alumni helped celebrate their success at a traditional dinner.

Highlighting the social scene was the annual overnight winter formal, for which the chapter house is adorned with greenery. Also, last fall Psi U successfully launched its Little Sisters of the Diamond program by initiating 14 girls. Earlier, a ghetto service project was held with AEPhi.

SAE Mourns Death of Brother Paddy Murphy

SAE tries to outreach Sigma Chi during the IM basketball tournament.

This year, Sigma Alpha Epsilon added excitement to Valentine's Day by holding a drawing for a free weekend trip to New York to see the musical "Hair." Those wishing to take their chances in the drawing added their five dollars to the kitty.

One of the traditional highlights of SAE's social calendar is the Paddy Murphy dance. This annual event honors a legendary SAE who was pinned to three girls at the same time. The story goes, that when the girls discovered this, they returned his pins, and then Paddy drank himself to death. The theme of the dance is Paddy's funeral. For the service, the SAE house was decorated like a funeral parlor with flowers and caskets, and the dates were picked up in a hearse.

Showing great improvement in sports, SAE copped the Delta Tau Delta nonpoint basketball tournament.

Spring of 1968 marked the fiftieth anniversary of Rho chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu. During the past ten of those fifty years, the Sammys have ranked in the top ten fraternities in over-all scholastic average.

During the spring of 1968, Sammys once again proved themselves athletically, by capturing first place in the University and intramural softball leagues. The men also captured a second place ranking in the Zeta Psi invitational softball tournament, and this is the second year they sponsored the One Hundred Sixty Pound and Under Football Tournament.

As a part of its tradition, Sigma Alpha Mu held the Shipwreck Party in the spring. An appropriate atmosphere was created by decorating the Sammy house like an island, complete with a waterfall.

Sigma Chi Boasts Largest Alumni Association

The brotherhood of ΣX displays teamwork by a block and run combination.

Sigma Chi fraternity was founded at the University of Miami, Oxford, Ohio, in 1855. Since then it has established 145 chapters throughout the United States and Canada and now has the largest alumni chapter in the world, consisting of over 99,000 living members.

Kappa Kappa chapter of the U of I is typical of Sigma Chi chapters all over the country. It features the only scholarship rebate program on the Illinois campus in which the brothers and pledges are awarded monetary gifts by the Sigma Chi corporation for good grades.

In IM's, the Sigma Chis took the Sammy 165 pounds and under football invitational. Paired with Kappa Kappa Gamma, the Sigma Chis also made Stunt Show finals.

Sigma Nu Revamps Rush and Pledge Programs

Sigma Nu and Kappa Alpha Theta turn the Stunt Show stage into an island.

January 1, 1969, marked the one hundred year anniversary for Sigma Nu. The centennial anniversary will be celebrated this summer in Lexington, Virginia, where Sigma Nu was founded. The men of Sigma Nu are proud of their participation in beneficial campus activities such as Star Course, Volunteer Illini Projects, and Campus Chest.

After formal fraternity rush in the spring of 1968, Sigma Nu developed a modern rush program that was used this year. Complementing the new rush program, liberalizing and progressive revisions were made in the pledge program.

Sigma Nu wound up the year with the White Rose formal in April and a Beachcomber get together by a stream, in May.

$\Sigma \Phi \Delta$ is Organization for Engineers on Campus

Sigma Phi Delta is the only all-engineering fraternity on the campus of the University of Illinois. Because of this unique situation, the men composing the brotherhood have the opportunity to become acquainted with some of the practical aspects associated with their future profession. The men of Sigma Phi Delta hold key positions in many of the professional engineering organizations and honor societies on campus and are active in all aspects of student engineering.

The brothers take part in almost every other activity on campus also, from politics to athletics. This participation in all aspects of campus life can be directly traced to the dedication of the brothers to science, friendship, and duty, which are the guiding principles of their fraternity.

Sig Ep Receives Distinguished Excelsior Award

Members of Sigma Phi Epsilon participate in a wide variety of IM sports.

The men of Sigma Phi Epsilon began their campus activities at the beginning of the football season with their annual car smash for the Heart Fund. Later in the season, the men of Sig Ep worked together to build their house Homecoming decoration. The result of their efforts was a tie for first place in the competition. In addition to the occasional outside decorations, Sigma Phi Epsilon began to redecorate the entire first floor of their house.

Improvements were also witnessed in scholastical achievement. Illinois Alpha chapter received the distinguished Excelsior Award for the most improved chapter for last year. The pledge classes of the past two semesters have achieved the highest grade point average which indicates the future potential and improvement of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Sigma Pi Solicits for Crippled Children Fund

Sigma Pi fraternity, in its sixty-first year at U of I, initiated an old fraternity tradition of roasting two suckling pigs, for an open house. This was not the only successful mark Sigma Pi made during Homecoming. The men also took first place honors for both 2-D and 3-D house decorations in the fraternity Orange division.

This year Sigma Pi added several innovations to the philanthropic calendar. Outstanding among these was a caravan from Champaign to Chicago. In the towns enroute, the men of Sigma Pi and the women of Delta Gamma solicited for the Crippled Children Fund of America. Due to the success of the drive, it is likely to become a yearly service project.

Sigma Tau Gamma Abolishes Pledge Program

A brother proudly displays the Sigma Tau Gamma Scholastic Improvement Trophy.

In 1957, Sigma Tau Gamma, a local fraternity, affiliated with the national organization. Since then, the Illinois chapter has supported the national Sigma Tau Gamma operated Rehabilitation Center in Webster Groves, Missouri.

In 1968, the house copped first place in the fraternity Orange Division Basketball Tournament and second place in the Orange Division Softball Tournament. However, the brothers most cherished honor was gained in the area of scholastic achievement as the brothers merited the 1968 Interfraternity Council's Scholastic Improvement trophy.

This fall, Sigma Tau Gamma voted to abolish all aspects of the pledge program except the traditional initiation ceremony.

It's quiz time for this shy gal at the annual TKE "little sister lineup."

Founded at Illinois Wesleyan University on January 10, 1899, Tau Kappa Epsilon has now expanded its number to 216, making them the largest fraternity by number of chapters in the world. Gamma chapter was founded at the U of I on February 2, 1912.

The men of TKE and their little sisters organization, The Order of Diana, worked in close conjunction throughout the year. The brothers and girls sponsored two philanthropic events, the first being a Halloween party held for area children at the chapter house. The second service project was a Christmas party also held for area children.

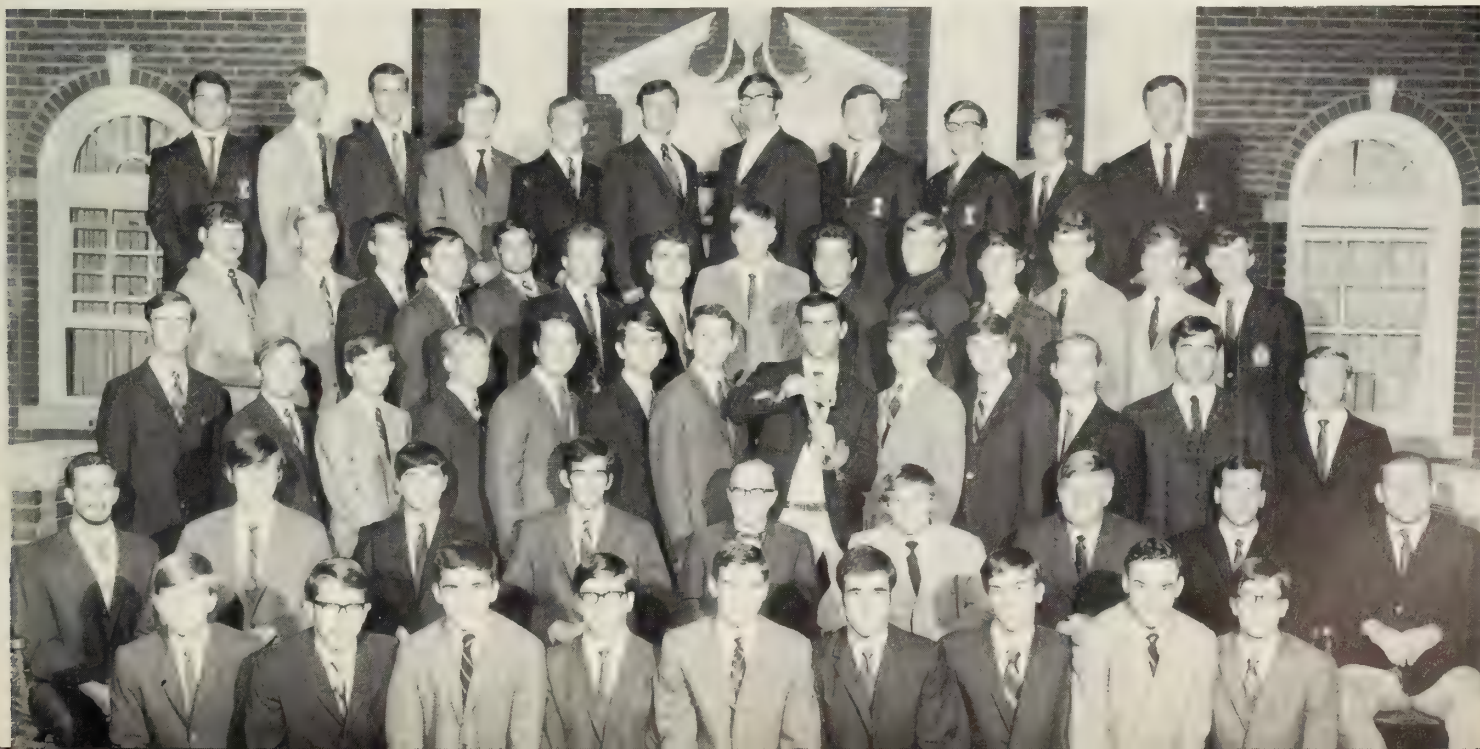

The little sisters also helped the TKE pledges decorate for their annual pledge dance and assisted the active chapter with the pledge program. Each girl guided her pledge son through his first semester of fraternity life.

Theta Chi's skit, "Marvelous Mission," is a satire of a detective story.

In the fall, the men of Theta Chi acquired a new Ox, a Saint Bernard, the noted mascot of the house. Ox is one of a family of ten Saint Bernards. Each chapter in the Big Ten has one of the dogs as its mascot.

Although "booking" is not a favorite practice at Theta Chi, scholarship is an important objective. Pledge son-pledge father scholastic contests and Bierdemann Memorial Scholastic Fund provided incentive for attaining high grades. The Little Sisters of the Crossed Sword, TC's carefully selected little sisters honorary, also aided the pledges with scholastic as well as social problems during their first semester of fraternity life.

In Homecoming Stunt Show, Theta Chi and Delta Delta Delta won the second place trophy in their skit "Marvelous Mission."

Farmhouse Promotes Public Relations at Banquet

Farmhouse, one of the few non-Greek names in the fraternity world, was established on the U of I campus in 1914. The name was chosen by its founders to recognize the common interest of its members. Farmhouse men are represented in all fields of study, but the majority of the members are in agriculture.

The Farmhouse little sister organization, Sisters of the Pearl, worked with the pledges and promoted spirit throughout the entire chapter. This spirit enabled the sisters to win the Little Sisters Softball Tournament in spring.

Farmhouse also promoted good public relations in its neighborhood by starting a Neighborhood Banquet to which all of the residents in the area were invited.

Members of Farmhouse serve sweets to their sweethearts on Valentine's Day.

Theta Xi prides itself on having created a balanced schedule of house activities, reflecting the variety of backgrounds, interests, and talents displayed by the house members.

Socially, Theta Xi featured four major dances, two open houses, and a number of informal parties. Academically, the men of Theta Xi ranked well above the all-men's average. Culturally, the house welcomed a number of well-known personalities as dinner speakers.

The Theta Xi—Tri-Delta pairing made the 1968 Atius-Sachem Sing finals, and the Theta Xi—AD Pi Homecoming float was awarded the Governor's Trophy. The house decorations won third prize in the Interfraternity Homecoming competition.

The cave man theme of the pledge dance allows for a "different" attire.

Last fall, Triangle, a fraternity composed mainly of engineers and architects, held an informal tea for women who were interested in becoming little sisters. From these girls, the men of Triangle selected the girls who would belong to their new little sister organization, "The Little Sisters of the Transit." Since then, the organization has been very active. Besides playing pranks on the brothers, the girls have helped decorate for dances and assisted the pledges during their first semester in the fraternity.

"A Night in the Bush" was the annual pledge dance held in the fall. The cave man theme was chosen by the twenty-nine pledges who ran and organized this year's dance.

In regards to scholarship, the ZBT's have received the Interfraternity Council's trophy for highest fraternity grade point for the last four semesters. The pledges also received this honor in the Junior Interfraternity division in 1967.

Soul was brought to the campus in the fall when Eddie and the Sensations were featured at a dance held by ZBT, ATO, KΑΘ, ΔΤΔ, ΣΔΤ, and DG in the courtyard behind the ZBT fraternity house.

The men of Zeta Psi have been active in intramural sports at the University. Last year, they finished second in the Orange Division of football, and overall, they finished fifth in total IM points accumulated through participation in all eight athletic events.

This year, Zeta Psi had one of the outstanding cultural programs among the fraternities. On the Sunday closest to Lincoln's birthday, an annual Lincoln's Day Program was held. Prominent authorities on Lincoln were invited to be guest speakers. The program was open to the general public and was held in the Ball Room of the Illini Union.

The Golden Boar Tournament, an annual softball tournament, was again held by Zeta Psi for the top sixteen fraternity softball teams.

Theatre Excellence Shown by Drama Groups

MASK AND BAUBLE recognizes members of casts and crews of University Theatre who have given outstanding performances in various areas of production. A week of pledging was culminated with special initiation ceremonies. At these ceremonies, pledges presented skits and poems which satirized the club's past activities. Road show productions at the Assembly Hall and a theatre newspaper were this year's object of satire. The last activity was a picnic in the spring.

Students and staff members displaying outstanding ability in such areas of production as writing, directing, and acting are honored by NATIONAL COLLEGIATE PLAYERS. High scholastic records have been maintained in accredited drama courses in which the members are enrolled. They also pride themselves in their chapter's forty years of existence on the Illinois campus. The first chapter was established here in 1928.

Orange scarves with the TORCH and University insignias worn over white dresses that identify the women in this junior women's activity honorary are worn to various meetings and activities. These distinguishing factors added a special dignity when they ushered at Convocation and Honors' Day. In addition to this service, they distributed Survival Kits during final week.

At 2:00 a.m., MORTAR BOARD members, dressed in caps and gowns and carrying candles, serenaded women who had shown outstanding service and leadership abilities while maintaining a 4.0 average. New members and their parents were honored at a tea in the garden of President Henry's home.

Each year at Illinois, Mortar Boards sponsor a flower sale for Mom's Day Weekend and proceeds go to scholarships for deserving undergraduate women. In addition to speaker-dinner meetings, they combined with the other women's honoraries to Christmas carol and visit the Children's and the County Nursing Homes.

Held during Mom's Day weekend, the Sing featured vocal competition among various student groups. On the night of their initiation banquet, the new initiates were allowed to begin their service project early by volunteering to work during the Sing. During finals week, Atius members distributed SOS kits.

Wearing white caps and gowns, active members of SHORTER BOARD invite senior women who have shown outstanding leadership abilities to become initiates of their organization. These women have maintained a 3.50 grade-point average while contributing to the Illini through their leadership. One of the outstanding contributions as a group was the annual boutonniere sale on Dad's Day weekend, the proceeds going into a scholarship fund. The members also caroled at area nursing homes during the Christmas holiday season to add to the festivities.

Alpha Lambda Delta Sponsors Tutoring Program For Freshmen and Hosts District Workshop

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA, the freshman women's honorary, was founded at the University of Illinois in 1924, and soon after became a national organization. Any freshman girl who earns a 4.5 her first semester or has a cumulative average of 4.5 after two semesters is eligible for membership. The members pledge to promote intelligent living and high scholastic attainment.

Alpha Lambda Delta paired with Phi Eta Sigma to sponsor a free tutoring service for freshmen and Project 500 students. Several other activities to promote their purpose included a Christmas Tea for freshmen women who had made a 4.0 or better average for midterm grades and a Senior Tea for senior women who had maintained a 4.5 average. On November 9, the members served as hostesses for the Alpha Lambda Delta District Workshop where many chapters from other schools met to discuss and compare their programs.

Freshmen who attain a scholastic average of 4.5 or better while carrying a normal academic load are eligible for membership in PHI ETA SIGMA, the freshmen men's scholastic honorary. Founded at U of I in 1923, Phi Eta Sigma soon became a nation-wide fraternity with the purpose of encouraging high academic achievement.

No regular meetings were held during the year, but two initiation ceremonies and a spring banquet honoring the new members brought the membership together. The main project of the honorary was a tutoring program, which was operated through the Dean of Men's office and corresponded with the program sponsored by Alpha Lambda Delta. The group also provided ushers for various University functions.

The president and advisor attended the national convention held at Purdue University in October.

Sweetheart Swirl Honors Campus Sweethearts

The two sophomore men selected from each of the forty-eight fraternities on campus to become members of the Helmet chapter of the SKULL AND CRESCENT fraternity honorary are chosen on the basis of leadership abilities, academic achievement, and participation in campus activities. The organization's purpose is the promotion of interfraternity unity and friendship through a year-round program of community service and friendship. Exchanges and projects with A-Ti-Us, an activity honorary for both Greek and Independent sophomore women, included the Sweetheart Swirl where all the campus sweethearts were honored.

TOMAHAWK is a national service fraternity of independent sophomore men who were outstanding in academics and activities during their freshman year. The organization promoted among independent students an interest in taking a part in student affairs. Tomahawk served other campus organizations by ushering at Science Fair, Dad's Day Revue, and Wayseka Sing. The year's activities were climaxed by the exchange of a 14-inch Victory cannon, a symbol of Big Ten competition and Tomahawk brotherhood, at halftime of the Purdue-Illinois game. SMOKE SIGNAL, the national publication, makes members more aware by reporting the activities of the chapters.

Chief Illiniwek Speaks to the Tribe of Illini

An enthusiastic crowd causes controversy during the Illinois-Michigan game.

The TRIBE OF ILLINI, established early in the 1900's, reflects the spirit of the Fighting Illini, past and present. Undergraduate athletes who have been awarded the Illini "I" for varsity athletic competition in Big Ten and who adhere to the code of honor and ethics established by the first Illinois lettermen are eligible for membership in the Tribe. The Tribe, established to organize the lettermen in order to promote athletics, serve as a group of representatives from U of I to other Big Ten schools.

The Tribesmen met once each month during the school year to hear such speakers as Chief Illiniwek, members of the various coaching staffs, and professional athletes. At these meetings the men selected an athlete of the month from their ranks. The organization held a dance for the members and their dates and sponsored a well-liked booth at the spring carnival.

Engineering Societies Participate In Annual Open House Plans

Initiates of CHI EPSILON were led blindfolded into a candle-lit room where they listened to readings on the character and ability of civil engineers. The initiation banquets, held in the fall and spring, featured a guest speaker and the presentation of awards to outstanding members. There was competition between students and instructors in a softball game at the group's annual picnic. The members also served on the Student-Faculty Liaison Committee and participated in Engineering Open House. For the undergraduate who needed help in his engineering courses, members participated in a tutoring program.

PI TAU SIGMA, a national honorary for mechanical engineering students, sponsored activities relevant to its members present educational endeavors and future careers. Prominent men spoke at the pledge initiation and banquet. Projects of the members included tutoring underclassmen in engineering and related subjects. Also included was maintaining a library of catalogs from a variety of graduate schools in the lounge of the Mechanical Engineering Building. Pledges assisted the department office in processing advanced enrollment cards.

At its fall and spring banquets, ALPHA EPSILON recognized students with high scholastic records, character, and professional attainment in agricultural engineering. The organization supported the activities of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and the Agricultural Mechanization Club. During Engineering Open House, students were invited to visit the department and to view projects displayed by these groups. Interesting lectures included professional topics "Research into Better Methods to Suit the Needs of a Changing Agriculture" and "Pollution of National Resources."

Professional Honoraries Serve During Active, Prosperous Year

Members of ALPHA ZETA, honorary agriculture fraternity, honored the outstanding instructor and outstanding freshman in their college. Not only did they honor the outstanding instructor in the Ag college, but also the instructors who contributed to the education of the members in subjects other than their majors and recognized leaders in Future Farmers of America and local 4-H clubs. This year a speakers program of "Great Men in Agriculture" was conducted to expose students to the ideas of superior men in their areas of study.

"New Dimensions for Home Economists," a speakers program corresponding to that of Alpha Zeta's, was sponsored by PHI UPSILON OMICRON. This honorary society also continued to encourage professional interest in home economics.

This year marked 50 years of service for the local chapter of BETA ALPHA PSI, which was the first national chapter of this honorary accounting fraternity. For one of their two field trips, members traveled to Chicago to visit Arthur Anderson & Co., the largest national accounting firm.

In October, pledges of PHI MU ALPHA SINFONIA, a male honorary music fraternity, presented their annual concert. Initiation was at a chapter banquet held in November. During Christmas, everyone caroled at local hospitals and organized the benefit recital, which presented the School of Music faculty members as guest performers.

Psi Chi Takes Trip to Lincoln State School

The professional society on campus which honors psychology majors is PSI CHI. It strove to increase human knowledge via the science of psychology. The 125 members of the honorary must have a 3.75 all-university average and be a psychology major. This year the club sponsored six speakers. Among these were Mrs. Irene F. Hughes, a psychic-mystic from Chicago; Dr. Charles Osgood, an expert on psycho linguistics; Dr. J. McV. Hunt, renowned child psychologist; and Dr. Raymond Cattell, testing specialist and professor of psychology. The group also took a field trip to Lincoln State School for the Mentally Retarded.

THETA SIGMA PHI, a professional journalism organization, was open to all junior and senior women in the College of Communications who had a 3.80 over-all average and a 4.00 average in journalism courses. Before initiated, the pledges had to complete such projects as giving teas, holding colloquiums, and helping sell the TUMOR during Homecoming weekend. Meetings were also held with the Champaign-Urbana professional chapter.

ROTC Cadets Given Flight Instruction at Willard

The AIR FORCE ROTC program is designed to provide students with leadership training and experience, necessary for the future Air Force officer. Two programs were offered to the prospective officers, a four-year and a two-year agenda.

The cadet in the four-year program studied basic principles and the role of air power in national defense and progressed to advanced studies in theory and leadership during his junior year. The cadet selecting the two-year course was required to complete a six-week Field Training Unit. All cadets were required to attend one of the four-week Field Training Units during the summer preceding their junior or senior year. These were held at several Air Force bases throughout the country.

The Air Force ROTC also provided its members with unlimited opportunities for gaining valuable field experiences. In addition to regular drill and classroom training, qualified cadets were allowed to receive flight instruction through the Institute of Aviation during their last year of study.

Arnold Air Society Co-Sponsors Annual Ball

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY is a national professional fraternity open to Air Force ROTC cadets with superior military ability.

After a semester of pledging, candidates who had a 4.00 or better average in Air Force courses, were in good standing with their respective colleges, and had met national requirements were activated. The purposes of the organization are to promote interest in the Air Force among ROTC members, to present information not available in the classroom, to promote understanding of what the Air Force has to offer, and to aid the development of an effective officer.

Meetings featured lectures, movies, and discussions about objectives and varying aspects of military life. With its sister affiliate, Angel Flight, the Air Society sponsored the annual Arnold Air Society Ball. In like manner the Air Society assisted the other campus ROTC units in presenting the annual Military Ball. Members also provided escorts for Veterans Day ceremonies and sponsored an exhibit at Engineering Open House.

ANGEL FLIGHT is a national organization of college women who have dedicated themselves to promote and support the Arnold Air Society and the Air Force ROTC program. In addition, they advanced and promoted interest in the Air Force, and served the University and the community thru projects and military functions. These included fund raising projects for the traveling hospital ship USS Hope, and for the USO organization. The girls served as hostesses at University affairs such as President Henry's reception and Honors Day. During the holidays they distributed food baskets to needy families in the community, and went caroling with the men of the Arnold Air Society. Besides these services, these women show their more military orientation thru their sponsorship of a voluntary drill team who have traveled to neighboring schools to compete in precision meets. The officers are also given military rank.

Army ROTC Hosts Largest Intercollegiate Drill Meet Here

The greatest number of today's Army officers are graduates from reserve training programs, which are conducted at over 200 colleges and universities throughout the country. The AROTC program at the University of Illinois has been in existence since the university opened its doors in 1868.

This program is open to any male college student who may wish to prepare for a temporary or permanent career as a U.S. Army officer while working toward his undergraduate degree. Upon graduation and successful completion of the reserve program, an individual faces a challenging two years in the Army as a second lieutenant.

The emphasis in the AROTC program is on the academic training of cadets in military science. Basic corps students spend two years studying such courses as the principles of military science, map reading, tactics, leadership, and military history. Advance corps cadets study military law, principles of military instruction, national security, and advanced operations. While attending U of I, an AROTC student takes 18 hours of military courses, of which 11 hours count toward graduation.

Cadets participate in a one hour a week drill period in which basic corps students are taught the fundamentals of marching and the manual of arms. Advanced corps cadets assume leadership roles during these periods of instruction.

Between their junior and senior years, advanced corps students attend a six-week summer camp at Fort Riley, Kansas. This camp is a leadership basic training session, where cadets are initiated into the military world. While in the advance corps, students receive monthly pay allowances.

A number of extra-curricular military organizations exist at Illinois. Drill Team is a precision marching unit which competes with representatives of other schools in drill meets. Each year, the largest intercollegiate meet is held in the Armory. Special Forces is a field training organization which engages in a number of week-end bivouacs to carry out operational exercises. Pershing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade, and Phalanx are Army collegiate fraternal organizations. Chevrons is a coed auxiliary which assists at social and ceremonial events during the year.

Army ROTC is a beneficial program for those who realize their military obligation after graduation and wish to fulfill this commitment in a meaningful and appealing way.

Redcoats Win Exhibition Drill Team Trophy

CHEVRON, a women's honorary service society to the U. S. Army and each of its ROTC units, has many service projects including ushering at the president's reception, Freshman Orientation, Veteran's Day ceremonies, and the Officers Wives Tea.

Chevron extended its aid to the community as well, by sponsoring a Christmas program for the Danville Veteran Administration Hospital, a drive for the Heart Fund, a party for orphans and a visitation program to residents of the Alder Zone Center.

Military Courtesies and customs, navy and submarine warfare, the female's place in the Armed Forces, and fashions and grooming for the female of 1969 were discussed at the bimonthly meetings. Chevron continued the sponsorship of a drill team, the Redcoats, which has been in existence for three years. The Redcoats have received trophies for their exhibitions each year in meets at Purdue, Bradley, and here at Illinois. In addition to these excursions, the entire company took field trips to Chanute Air Force Base and to Fort Knox.

Special Forces Company Sponsors Counter-Guerilla Forum

The SPECIAL FORCES COMPANY devoted time to both classroom instruction and skill practice. Areas covered included such training as hand to hand combat, leadership reaction, first aid, and communications. Three field training exercises were included in each semester's instruction so that each cadet had to make use of what he had learned in the classroom. An air evacuation and amphibious assault assisted in making the field exercises as realistic as possible. In this way, the company fulfilled its major purpose, to enable the superior cadet to practice what he had learned in the classroom and to provide him with additional knowledge and skills not available in standard courses.

A Counter-Guerrilla Forum was held concurrently with the annual Pershing Rifle Drill Meet. All schools within the Fifth Army area were invited to send representatives to the forum. Topics of discussion at the forum were the problems and solutions of forming and maintaining a counter-guerrilla group at the colleges and universities.

During lab instruction cadets learned the proper use of the PRC-10 radio.

Naval ROTC offers Submarine, Nuclear Training

The NAVAL RESERVE OFFICER TRAINING CORPS was established at the University of Illinois to prepare qualified college students for responsible positions as officers in the United States Navy and Marine Corps. Opportunities for the Naval ROTC graduate are numerous. His thorough training in university and naval subjects allows the newly-commissioned Ensign or Second Lieutenant to enter such diverse fields as naval aviation, submarine duty, nuclear power training, naval research, sea duty as a line officer, or as a Marine platoon leader.

Midshipmen study courses in naval history, weapons systems, navigation and shiphandling, leadership, naval engineering and military justice in addition to those in their chosen fields of major.

Midshipmen also participate in various unit activities such as the Exhibition Drill Team, Rifle Team, professional honoraries, and intramural athletics.

TRIDENT NAVAL HONORARY SOCIETY is an all Navy-Marine Corps organization composed of highly motivated junior and senior midshipmen wishing to increase their professional knowledge and to gain a better understanding of military leadership and service life.

Trident's program centers around the theme of the Navy as a profession and each officer's responsibility to it. Guests, both military and civilian, as were invited, spoke on a variety of topics. Social events ranged from the formal Trident Ball held in the spring to informal get-togethers at Daniel Street establishments.

SEXTANT, an organization open to all freshman and sophomore Naval ROTC midshipmen, provides its members with a thorough knowledge of naval courtesy, traditions, and customs. Through a series of films, lectures, and discussions, members were familiarized with their responsibilities as midshipmen in the Navy ROTC battalion and as officers in the United States Navy.

Army Heads Veteran's Day Commemoration

Activities of the Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC units on the University of Illinois campus have been planned and co-ordinated by the ARMED FORCES COUNCIL. In addition, the Council made up of student executive and commanding officers from each service branch, strives to promote better mutual understanding among the members in the three different service branches.

For campus events such as commemoration of Veteran's Day and Honors Day ceremonies, the Council appointed one service branch to supervise the activities. This year the Army was in charge, and the other branches acted under their direction. The annual Military Ball, held in April, was the major concern of the Council.

Members of SCABBARD AND BLADE, National Military Honorary, are junior and senior cadets and midshipmen who display high scholastic records and outstanding leadership characteristics.

To accentuate the importance and elegance of the Military Ball, Scabbard and Blade held their annual "Dining-in" Banquet for all its members and their dates before the ball. These men also honored this year's Homecoming Queen, Jennifer Haight, with a military escort as one of their traditional services to the University of Illinois.

Military Honoraries Program Lectures, Films

CHI GAMMA IOTA is a scholastic honorary which honors men and women who demonstrate military ability and scholastic excellence. Faculty, graduate students, and undergraduates who are veterans or presently in the military or advanced ROTC are eligible. The group, which was founded at Illinois in 1947, attempted to promote the understanding and use of veterans' rights and privileges this year through a program of lectures, discussions, and films. Alpha chapter delegates attended the national convention at the University of Wyoming. This convention is held every odd-numbered year, with its location rotating each time to a different chapter.

PHALANX held its regular bi-weekly meetings on Thursday nights at 1900 hours this year. The business was followed by a speech from an officer who was stationed at the University of Illinois. Speakers such as Chief Cooper, Gunnery Sergeant Kelly, and an Air Force specialist on NASA contributed to this program. The speeches usually covered the problems and experiences that a newly commissioned officer can expect to encounter.

Ag Students Keep Together Through Activities

AGRICULTURE COUNCIL coordinates the action of all projects within the college and sponsors several activities of its own.

Ag Council again opened their traditional "Plowboy Prom" to all students. "Dos-a-dos your partner" was a common call as students promenaded in hoedown garb.

During the year, officers attended a leadership forum retreat to discuss council business. A freshman activity night was held so the new agriculture majors had a chance to get a first hand view of opportunities that agriculture offered.

The major project of the AGRICULTURE EDUCATION CLUB is the formation of a national association of agricultural education clubs, a project for which the Illinois chapter has always been a forerunner. The outstanding senior in the department and other worthy members were recognized with writings, speeches, and poster-making proficiency awards. Home Ec Club Volunteers for Urbana Project

The theme of the Isabel Bevier HOME ECONOMICS CLUB, "To-day's challenges for tomorrow's world," was exemplified in the major service project of the club, the Urbana Project. To understand its challenges, the girls volunteered to tutor the children of the Champaign School District. This was also a way to further student-faculty social relations, another goal.

HOME ECONOMICS STUDENT COUNCIL balanced a schedule of exciting social events with worthwhile service projects. Faculty-student relations were furthered with the event—"Christmas Capers." A public relations project sent members throughout the state to talk to high school students about home economics, the U of I, and college life in general.

In conjunction with Ag Council, members planned Agriculture Guest Day when over 1800 high schools visitors learned about careers in Home Economics and Agriculture.

Ag Clubs Provide Opportunities for Learning

Ag Open House is held in conjunction with Engineering Open House in spring.

ALPHA TAU ALPHA strives to develop a true professional spirit among those who plan to become agriculture teachers and rural leaders in their communities. Membership is open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

In conjunction with the Agricultural Education Club, Alpha Tau Alpha sponsored its annual spring barbecue. An award honoring the outstanding instructor and the outstanding senior in the curriculum of agricultural education is also presented by the organization.

The AMERICAN SOCIETY of AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS provides the opportunity for personal contact with other students, faculty, and professional leaders in agriculture. Membership is open to students enrolled in the agricultural engineering curriculum.

This year's activities included recognition as the Number 1 student branch of ASAE, a spring banquet and picnic, and a field trip to a grain complex.

The DAIRY TECHNOLOGY SOCIETY strives to promote interest in dairy technology and appreciation in the dairy industry. All undergraduate students who are interested in this field are eligible for membership.

Highlights of the year's activities were the annual Alumni Homecoming Banquet, and the annual Dairy Products Judging Contest held for local students.

The DAIRY PRODUCTION CLUB is an organization of students who are interested in the field of Dairy Science. Monthly meetings feature outstanding speakers, panel discussions, and speech contests, all of which aid in giving members up-to-date information about the dairy industry. A major highlight of this year's activities was the Dairy Cattle Judging Contest, which was held in May.

Little International Entertains Dads This Year

HOOF AND HORN's annual "Little International" was held again this year on Dad's Day weekend. Participants and spectators enjoyed a chicken-plucking contest and a tug of war between the group and anyone who wanted to challenge them. During the weekend was a livestock exhibition open to everyone. The grand finale came when the Little International Queen was crowned.

The club also sponsored Livestock Feeder Days when breeders from all over the state came to the University to participate. Alumni who made an outstanding contribution to the livestock industry were chosen as the Honorary Member and Honored Alumnus.

The organization's membership was composed primarily of students in animal sciences, but all students in the related fields were invited to pledge. Two of the club's main goals were to promote better relations between faculty and students and to provide information about various vocational opportunities.

Foresters Host Annual Midwest Gathering at Allerton Park

The ILLINI FORESTERS CLUB, organized in the fall of 1958, is open to all students in the forestry curriculum who are interested in professional development and fellowship. The first of their monthly meetings featured a get acquainted session for the members, especially the freshmen, and a bonfire with cider and doughnuts at Illini Plantations. During their monthly meetings, members made plans for the conclave at Allerton Park at which eight forestry schools from the Midwest competed. The events included those derived from the old logging days such as chopping, sawing, and bolt throwing as well as those involving modern technical skills. Another event from the old logging days was the Railsplitter's Ball complete with hayride and square dance. In the spring, the members published a yearbook called the RAILSPLITTER. One of the highlights of the spring banquet was the presentation of the Toothless Saw Award to the faculty member committing the "greatest blunder" during this academic year.

1500 Attend Engineering Open House in March

SIGMA TAU, the honorary engineering fraternity, gives recognition to outstanding junior engineering students with an academic average of 4.30 or better and who are of worthy character. The fraternity has carried on a tutor program and an advising program for students in all of the engineering curricula. This year the fraternity started a collection of graduate catalogs which were made available to all interested students. Sigma Tau has been nationally recognized for both the integrity and the technical competence of its members.

The SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS, open to all women enrolled in the engineering curriculum, encourages these women to attain high levels of educational and professional achievement. The society started off their meetings with a panel discussion on campus life. The meetings, sometimes held jointly with other engineering organizations, usually consisted of speakers from the college faculty. This year for the first time they helped sell TECHNOGRAPHS to the faculty as a fund raising project.

The ENGINEERING COUNCIL'S purpose is to represent the engineering student body at the University and to stimulate interest in campus activities and better feelings between students and faculty. The council recognized twelve outstanding engineering students at the annual St. Pat's Ball by initiating them as knights of St. Pat. The council also aided in the giving of the Dean Everett Teaching Excellence Award which honored three professional instructors and one teaching assistant this year.

The CENTRAL COMMITTEE for ENGINEERING OPEN HOUSE organizes the annual Open House, held to help the over 1500 high school students and visitors answer three basic questions: how is an engineer educated; what does he do; and what must he know? The challenges and opportunities of the engineering profession were glimpsed by visiting laboratories and research areas, examining equipment, and attending speeches and films on the various branches of engineering.

The main area of engineering curriculum reform centered around the physics sequences

Engineering Students Meet Business Leaders

The engineering complex expansion includes a materials testing lab.

The student chapter of the AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS served as the students' first step in professional development. This was through the informal meeting of fellow classmates, the civil engineering faculty, and outstanding men in civil engineering. Members were undergraduates in civil or general engineering, or in the structures option of architecture.

Monthly meetings included a business meeting and featured speakers from industry. A field trip to the greater Chicago area, Engineering Open House, and Honors' Day ceremonies were added attractions to the regular meetings.

The SOCIETY OF AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEERS held to their purposes of presenting programs dealing with the automotive industry. Instead of regular monthly meetings, movies concerning aspects of the industry were shown and monthly technical speakers added words of practical experience. Special events were the gimmick car rally which was open to all University students and the field trip to the International Harvester Company.

Membership in the ILLINOIS SOCIETY OF GENERAL ENGI-

NEERS, professional engineering fraternity, almost doubled in the past year. The society, which included both students and faculty, made an attempt to acquaint its members with the opportunities open to them after graduation. For the student interested in what opportunities are available upon graduation, speakers from industry were a welcome source of information. Past members were among those to address the group.

The student chapter of the AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS provided the opportunity for students interested in the field of industrial engineering to meet with persons actively engaged in the business world through speakers programs and informal social gatherings. The student also had the opportunity to gain experience in the workings of a professional society through numerous office and committee activities in the chapter. Each year a regional conference is held for student chapters. This year the conference was held at the U of I, and it provided an opportunity for students from several schools to compare their chapter activities and hear the reading of technical papers.

Special Guest Program Adds to Open House

The INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONICS ENGINEERS is open to electrical engineers seeking technical and professional development. Besides serving as student-faculty forums, the student branch meetings, held once a month, featured technical and nontechnical speakers from both the department and industry. A bimonthly newsletter was sent to students to inform them of the department's various activities. The institute sponsored a fall student-faculty picnic, a field trip to the National Electronics Conference, and an annual Senior-Faculty Banquet.

The AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS, open to any student in good standing enrolled in any engineering curriculum, advances the theory and practice of mechanical engineering and promotes professional awareness and fellowship. The society operated an exhibit and special guest program at the Engineering Open House. In addition to monthly speakers' programs, the society conducted trips to companies of interest to the members.

The ILLINI AGRICULTURAL

MECHANIZATION CLUB, one of the youngest actively functioning clubs on campus, strove to gain recognition for the growing field of agricultural mechanization, to promote interest in the field, and to inform members of the opportunities that are open to them. The annual activities of the organization included a Lawn Mower Winterization Project and an Agricultural Mechanization Skills Contest. This year's activities also included a student-staff stag, tours of various farms and companies of special interest, and a spring banquet at which the Outstanding Senior Award was presented.

The members of the STUDENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS FOUNDATION are recommended by the executive boards of various student organizations represented. The committee, organized in the spring of 1968, developed programs designed to make the student population more aware of the Foundation's purposes and programs. The Foundation sponsored "The Shadow," a series presented on radio station WPGU.

Ground Gives Boost to Flowers; Ceramists do Their Own Thing

Field and Furrow gets first place in national soil judging contest.

To encourage interest in ceramic engineering is the main purpose of the STUDENT BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN CERAMIC SOCIETY. Some aspect of engineering was always the topic of the monthly speakers.

The publication of ILLINI CERAMIST, a department yearbook which has been published for the last twenty-five years and manning of the ceramic engineering booth at the engineering open house were attended to by club members. Students and staff met together for a banquet.

Ornamental horticulture was the common bond of interest of members of the HORTICULTURE CLUB. The presence of horticulturalists at monthly meetings gave insight and an experienced overview to the members.

Mom's Day weekend was once again the setting for the club's main money making project, the annual flower show. The setting was Chicago for the club's annual field trip of horticulture industries. In autumn, the club members sponsored a banquet for senior members and in the spring gathered for a picnic.

FIELD AND FURROW, a professional agronomy club, is dedicated to advancing knowledge concerning soils and crops. Open to any undergraduate student interested in agronomy, Field and Furrow has been selected the Outstanding Student Agronomy Club in the nation for six of the past thirteen years.

The activities of Field and Furrow ranged from educational to profit making to social. The club was represented at contests and meetings on the local, regional, and national level. The social scene was marked by spring and fall activities.

PEM Majors Host Powder-Puff Football Game

Members of the MEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION MAJORS CLUB work to maintain a sound, up-to-date curriculum in their department. In accordance with this philosophy, outstanding leaders were invited to speak at the meetings. Education was given a social slant when members participated in a quiz show fashioned after "College Bowl."

Of both social and athletic nature were the "Powder Puff" football game and inter-class basketball tournament. The basketball climax was the clash between the student champions and a team composed of a variety of faculty members.

A Christmas exchange with the PEW majors helped promote one of the PEM majors primary goals, cooperation among the PE majors.

PEW Majors Dedicate Louise Freer Gymnasium

In addition to the annual programs for Mom's and Dad's Days, the student-faculty volleyball tournament, and the publication of the Majournal, the WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION MAJORS CLUB held a "Huff-erama" with the PEM majors. This consisted of relays and other games in which the female gender proved its prowess. During Homecoming weekend these women held a commemorative naming of the Louise Freer Gymnasium, which was formerly called the Women's Gymnasium. They also started a "Hall of Fame" this year to honor outstanding alumni in their field, and offered a handbook to all freshmen in the areas of health, physical education, and recreation.

The STUDENT CHAPTER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF RECREA-

TION AND PARK ADMINISTRATION highlighted the year with the annual Brightball Banquet, named for a former head of the department. A special award was presented to the outstanding senior in the field. Students took it upon themselves to volunteer their services to aid at local youth centers. Swimming parties and hayrack rides provided relaxation.

Campus Business Professionals Enjoy Candy, Beer, Field Trip

Delta Sigma Pi actives speak to a potential rushee about the club.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI is the oldest professional business fraternity in the United States. The Epsilon chapter at Illinois began the year by making Dean Joseph McGuire, the new Dean of Commerce, an honorary member at a banquet.

Among the fraternity's activities this year were the trip through the Anheuser Busch brewery in St. Louis, student-faculty luncheons held once a month in the Spice Box in Bevier Hall, and regular meetings with guest speakers.

DELTA SIGMA PI, professional honorary commerce fraternity, led an active year. Members took a field trip to the Heath Candy Company in Robinson, Illinois, where they met Vernon Heath, president of the company, who spoke to them about administration problems; Donald Roads, computer supervisor; and Robert Heath, vice-president in charge of sales.

Social events were highlighted by the Rose Formal, held in December. At the Rose Formal, Linda Hazel was selected by the members as the Rose of Delta Sigma Pi.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION SO-

CIETY began their year with a faculty-student picnic at Kickapoo State Park. They held another picnic at the end of the year because the first one was so successful. It gave the students a chance to meet the instructors.

Industrial Education Society, a member of the Illinois Intercollegiate Industrial Education Association, helps sponsor IIEA student recruitment programs in the Chicago area high schools. The Illinois society was also represented at the Illinois Vocational Convention in Peoria in February. Members sent an exhibition and sponsored a forum at which Dr. Jacob Stern, professor in the University Industrial Education Department, was a speaker.

Two years ago, the Professional Advertising Fraternity and Sorority merged into the ADVERTISING CLUB. Since that time, it has brought speakers to campus to help gain a deeper insight into the copy, layout, and research areas of communications. Among these speakers were a Proctor & Gamble representative and such controversial speakers as Vance Packard.

Music, Speech Fraternities Hold Open Houses

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA is an international fraternity for women in the field of music. The local chapter strives to promote and dignify the musical profession, to establish and maintain friendly relations between musicians and music schools, and to encourage and further the development of music in America. To be eligible for membership, a student must be enrolled in courses qualifying for a music degree, have a faculty recommendation, and show excellence in scholarship and music.

MU PHI EPSILON, an international professional music sorority open to undergraduate and graduate students, was founded to recognize the scholarship and artistic, musical ability of music students. The Epsilon Xi chapter, participated in music therapy programs on WILL, ushered at concerts, and held the Mom's Day Luncheon. The chapter supported the Gads Hill Center in Chicago, sponsored the Sterling Staff Concerts, co-sponsored the New Students Reception in the fall, and rewarded the outstanding senior member.

Membership in ZETA PHI ETA, a professional fraternity for outstanding women in the speech arts and sciences, requires a 3.5 all university average, a 4.0 average in speech courses, and recommendation from a faculty member. This year the alumnae furnished supper at the monthly meetings. Besides sponsoring the Continental Cafe at International Fair and the Foreign Wive's Tea, the members made tapes for the blind in connection with the University Rehabilitation Center.

SIGMA ALPHA ETA, a national fraternity for students interested in speech and in the clinical and research aspects of speech and hearing science, unites those of similar interests into a program of community service. Delta Delta chapter maintains close contact with the American Speech and Hearing Association to give its members professional experience. Each year the organization holds a Christmas party for the children participating in the speech clinic and an open house on Mom's Day Weekend.

The Oratorio choir practices many hours before performing a concert.

A member of Zeta Phi Eta works at recording tapes for "Books for the Blind."

Sigma Delta Chi Sponsors Journ Rebellions

Interest in promoting journalism and an affiliation with the communication field are the qualifications for SIGMA DELTA CHI membership.

The ILLINI TUMOR is one of the contributions of this organization. The satirical newspaper is published annually at Homecoming and is the main source of income.

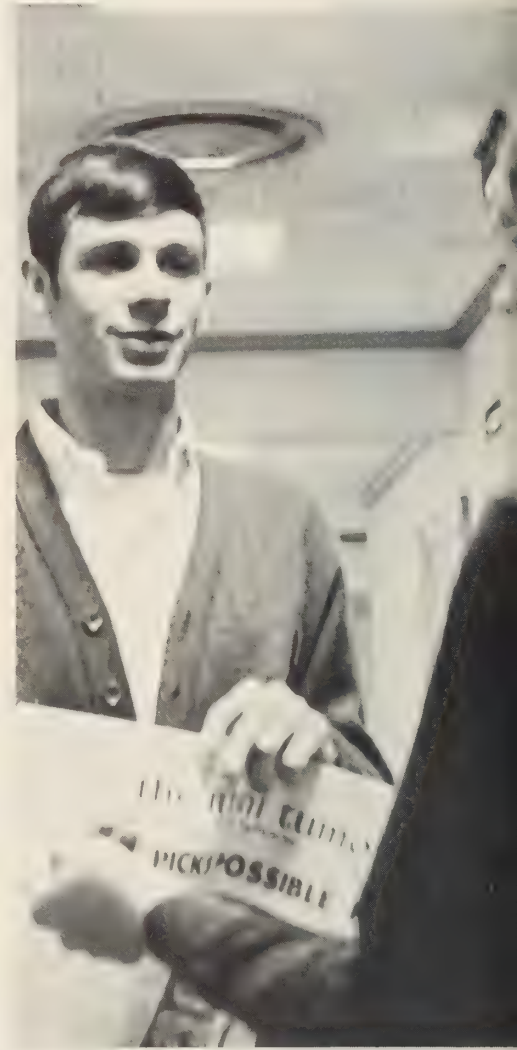

Sigma Delta Chi also sponsors

Journ Rebellions each semester. The rebellions are parties for everyone in the College of Communications.

On the more serious side, representatives are sent to the national convention and Region V conference. Initiation ceremonies occur whenever a sizeable number of pledges are qualified for membership.

It's time for rebellion in communications, and everyone joins in the party.

Purchasing a 1968 Homecoming TUMOR, this Illini carries on the tradition.

BYMAC Tries to Organize Itself Nationally

The first and only club of its kind, BYMAC was officially recognized in 1965. The club members are agriculture communications majors in journalism, advertising, and radio-television. The club worked closely with the Agriculture Communications Department and met with outstanding people in the field.

This year BYMAC tried to organize majors in the field on other campuses into a national organization. The main events of the club were the fall picnic and the "Most Coveted Dubious Awards" presentations at the spring study-break.

Since its organization in 1961, the UKRAINIAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION has provided an opportunity for all interested students and faculty members to become acquainted with Ukrainian history, culture, and customs. The association presented its annual "Ukrainian Evening" and participated in the festivities and education of the International Fair. In addition to these activities, the members strove to promote greater understanding among the members of the University and the local community.

All students enrolled in the pre-veterinary medicine curriculum and any other interested students may become members of the PRE-VET CLUB. The club enables students to continue their interest in and better their understanding of veterinary medicine. The group is associated with the Junior Chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The future veterinarians met once a month for such demonstrations as an animal autopsy and small animal surgery. Tours of the large and small animal clinics and research laboratories on campus were also conducted for the members.

The ILLINI STUDENT OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY ASSOCIATION, Illi-Sota, open to all students in the occupational therapy curriculum, gives its members an opportunity to prepare for their career. The members sold doughnuts to raise money to send delegates to the national conference held in Portland, Oregon. They also sponsored speakers in connection with Delta Sigma Omicron and assisted at wheelchair track and field events. The first chapter of Illi-Sota was founded on this campus in 1944. A farewell party was given for transferring juniors.

LAS Council Attempts to Add Languages to Pass-Fail Option

CIRCLE-K is a service organization for college men which attempts to develop future leaders and citizens. The club's annual convention was held in April at Eastern Illinois University. The organization's projects included Operation Christmas Card in which cards were sent to members of the armed forces. A trick-or-treat party was sponsored for the Cunningham Children's Home on Halloween night.

The ILLINI FORENSIC ASSOCIATION conducts debates, discussions, and general analysis sessions concerning debate related activities. This year members attended debate tournaments at colleges and universities throughout the nation. In the Champaign-Urbana area, the association presented audience debates for various civic clubs and organizations.

During the January semester break, members sponsored the fourth annual invitational high school debate tournament. The "Debator of the Year" was honored at the annual Spring Banquet.

The COOPERATIVE EXTENSION CLUB strives to develop a philosophy and effective means of communicating with people while building leadership skills. University students and former 4-H club members interested in working with people are encouraged to join the organization.

The main aim is for international understanding through the International Farm Youth Exchange and Teen-Caravan. During the past year, members worked in 4-H clubs with children from low income families, providing them with an opportunity for laying the framework for becoming more useful citizens.

The LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL serves as a liaison between faculty and students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Members served on several standing faculty committees. Students are selected through petitioning and interviews conducted by members of the council. A special committee worked on the foreign language requirement in an attempt to allow students to take those courses on the pass-fail option. Another concern was the proposed experimental college. The LAS Council conducted an all day conference with faculty members and sponsored the annual Teacher Excellence Awards Program and Banquet.

Alpha Phi Omega Hosts Career Conference

ALPHA PHI OMEGA, a service fraternity founded in 1925, is presently the largest fraternal organization in the world with over 500 chapters. Alpha Alpha chapter at the U of I was founded in 1932 and has continually participated in campus activities since that time.

Intra-chapter activities included regular chapter meetings held bi-weekly and pledge training which consisted of a ten week training period and a pledge project. There were intramural athletics, a winter dance, and a spring formal.

Among the service projects of the chapter was the Explorer College Career Conference held for the first time in March. The purpose of this conference was to introduce high school Explorers to the values of universities. Another new project was aiding the local Boy's Club. Members helped with such things as woodcrafts and hikes. Alpha Alpha chapter possesses the longest known fraternity paddle in the world—10'1".

Parachutist Compete in Florida, Terrepin Presents Water Show

The UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB was started in 1964 by five members. Now in its fourth year, it has about 40 members. Jumping is held every weekend that weather permits.

In November the club made its third trip to United States Parachute Association's National Collegiate Parachutist Competition held in Zephyrhills, Florida. This year the competition was attended by over 200 collegiate parachutists from all over the United States; it's one of the biggest annual sport parachuting meets in the country.

Jumper David Boyd placed second in both the Greater St. Louis Parachute Meet and the Midwest Collegiate Meet, which was held here at Illinois, and third at the Indianapolis Skyhawks Second Annual Meet.

Freedom was the atmosphere as girls of TERREPIN SWIM CLUB practiced for the annual water show, held Mom's Day Weekend. The theme, "Space, Tempo, Color" left the club completely open for ideas for group and solo numbers. Preliminary tryouts for the show were held both in October and February. Girls were tested on stroking, stunts, and skills. Each girl who meets the requirements is formally initiated in a candlelight ceremony. The girls create the numbers, scenery and costumes themselves.

Religious Foundations Combine Worship, Study, Social Activities

The BAPTIST STUDENT UNION sponsored vesper services, exchange activities with other foundations, and speakers, including Chancellor Peltason. As a regular activity, members visited the Champaign County Nursing Home.

Participation in "Good News," a Christian folk musical, and in choir added musical activity. The group also traveled to attend state conventions and a mission conference. Summer missions to Los Angeles, Vietnam, and Israel were given financial aid by the group.

Two banquets were held. One was for international students, and in the spring, the other was held for initiation of officers.

Sunday night supper forums at the LUTHERAN STUDENT FOUNDATION included speakers, films and discussions of contemporary life. Study groups explored such areas as theology, marriage, ethics, and science. Group therapy was offered to those interested in personal growth and sharing with others. A special speakers service brought outstanding church leaders to campus. Seminars, lectures, and social activities were planned for graduate.

The LUTHERAN CHAPEL COUNCIL planned and supervised programs which emphasized Christian living in a modern world. The Council organized study groups, seminars, and service projects as well as working with the Lutheran Student Foundation to sponsor eight speaker programs geared to the interests of the student. Informal gatherings were encouraged and coffee was always available.

Members of the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION held testimony meetings each Tuesday night and sponsored two public lectures. Each semester began with an open house, with buildings being opened to visitors and tours being conducted by attendants.

Coffee Houses Encourage Student Expression

B'NAI B'RITH HILLEL FOUNDATION is a student synagogue, a community service agency, and a Jewish educational center. It is an area of free expression to encourage students of the Jewish faith to voice openly their opinions and exhibit their talents thru organized receptions, brunches, supper forums, and coffee hours. Forum lectures followed Friday evening services and courses in Hebrew, religion, and the Bible were taught by the foundation.

CANTERBURY ASSOCIATION, which is affiliated with the Episcopal Church sponsored "Post-crypt," an informal coffee house where discussions and musical programs were held. Regular Sunday evening meetings were expanded when the group moved into the new Canterbury House.

The association held a book sale, dividing the proceeds between two projects. Half was designated to help the children in Biafra, wholesale victims of starvation. The other half went to support the Anglican Church in Lesotho.

Republicans Bring Dirksen, Ogilvie to Campus

Sen. Everett Dirksen recognizes ovation after speaking here "Marigold Day."

1968, being an election year, the YOUNG REPUBLICANS worked diligently. Canvassing for Richard Nixon in the surrounding counties began on October 23. Then, Homecoming weekend, YR members distributed car stickers, sun visors, buttons, and other campaign material for state and local candidates. On the following Monday, the Republican Victory Train, carrying Senator Everett Dirksen, Senator Charles Percy, gubernatorial candidate Richard Ogilvie and the rest of the state ticket, was greeted by a rally of student and local supporters. YR's also conducted the largest student rally for Ogilvie in the state.

As the election drew near, work increased and the Saturday preceding the election, 75 students travelled to Chicago to distribute campaign literature in the Loop. That evening they were honored at a party sponsored by Youth for Nixon. Then, November 3 was proclaimed campus "Marigold Day" in honor of the presence of Senator Dirksen, who delivered a speech in the auditorium. The candidate for lieutenant governor of Illinois spoke to end the YR campaign.

President Henry Leads Illinois Toward Educational Progress

Always quiet, competent, efficient and busy, Dr. David Dodds Henry, President of the University of Illinois for fourteen years, has successfully fulfilled the tasks of diplomat, administrator, and coordinator of University affairs both in Champaign and at the Chicago Circle and Medical campuses.

Assuming the demanding roles of diplomat and administrator, President Henry has, of necessity, found himself separated from the three campuses. Washington conferences, state-wide meetings, and the maintenance of four offices in Chicago and Champaign effectively limited his contact with students.

President Henry, however, with his ambitious daily schedule, did not forget the students, their needs and their association with the University. He concerned himself not only with those physical things that are meaningful to students today, but also with education. "Good education," Henry said, "must give the student a mission beyond immediate interests, a cause bigger than himself, a meaning in life and pride in his identity." He strove to maintain that good education.

DAVID DODDS HENRY
University of Illinois President

Even President Henry takes time out from his busy schedule to celebrate the holidays.

To know the facts, Dr. Henry must consult with George H. Bargh, Executive Assistant, and his office aides.

A constant traveler, Dr. Henry admits the dictaphone is his best friend.

President Henry sought to improve University education by maintaining the orderly operation of the University and providing for its future growth and existence. He emphasized the areas of intellectual opportunity, research and preparation of people for professions.

This year 30 per cent more high school graduates entered colleges than 30 years ago. "In human terms this means more lives than ever before have been changed by college experience," Henry said.

The year marked the institution of Project 500—equal opportunity education—and the opening of the new Kranert Center of the Performing Arts, another phase in the expansion program.

"When I arrived there were not enough beds," Henry said. "Today we have dorms, improved facilities and plans for a big future."

The Chancellor is Administrative C-U President

The Chancellor conducts public news conferences in addition to his duties as administrator and coordinator.

LUCIUS BARKER, Assistant Chancellor; JOHN BRISCOE, Vice Chancellor of Administrative Affairs; HERBERT CARTER, Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs.

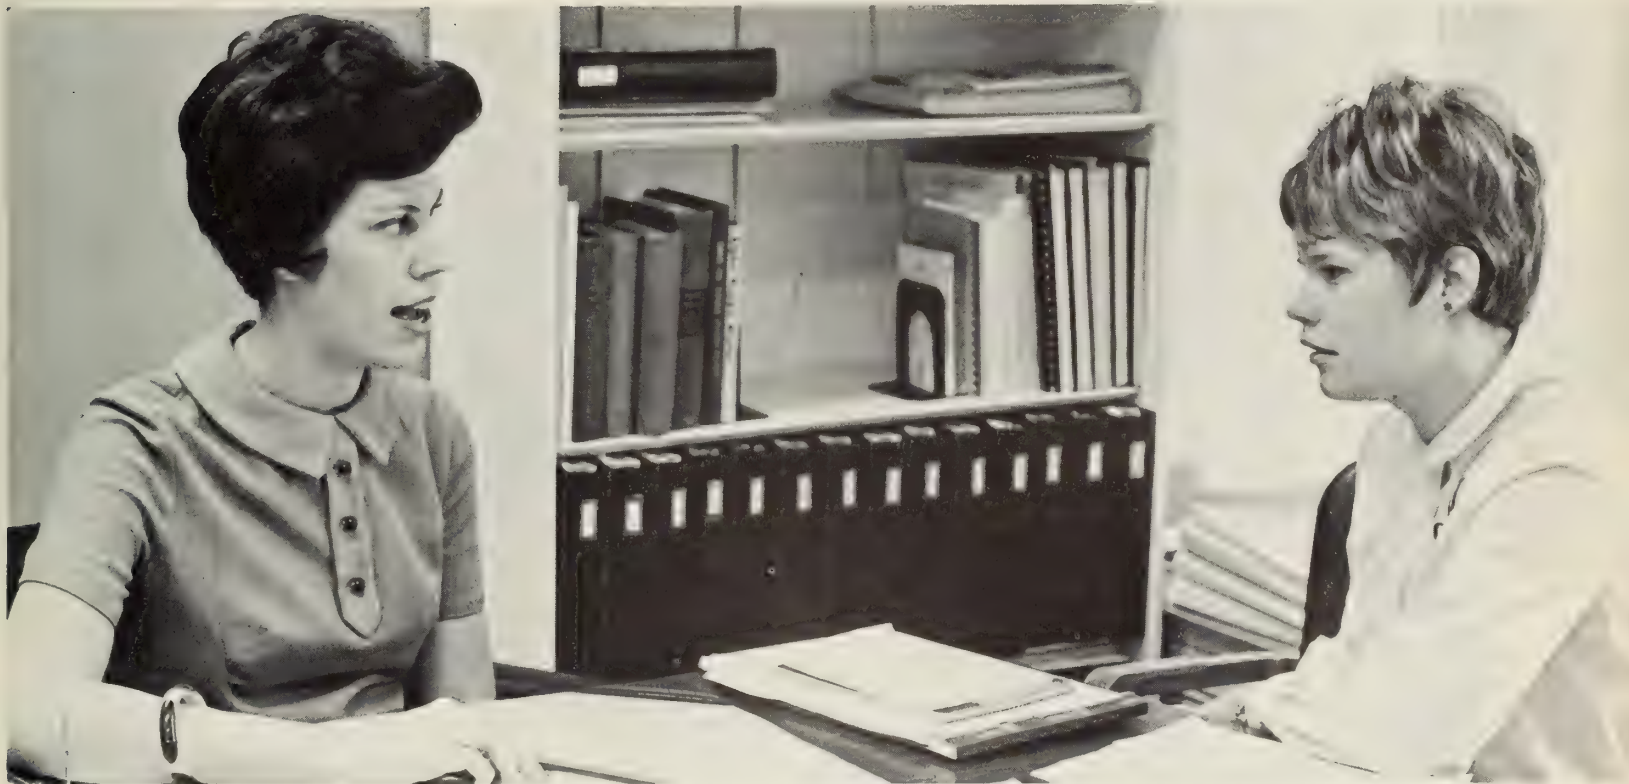

Operating now for a third year, Chancellor Peltason's office handled all major administrative matters concerning only the Champaign branch of the University of Illinois. The newly instituted system of three Chancellors offices—one at each campus—replaced the old President-Provost-Vice-Provost system. In this way, the office functioned to help the President of the University by assuming a major portion of his administrative duties so that he might concentrate his attention on larger problems which concerned the whole three-campus complex.

This placed Chancellor Jack Peltason in the position of chief executive of the Champaign-Urbana campus. Peltason likened his job to that of "President of the Champaign-Urbana campus."

To best fulfill his role as Chancellor, Peltason knew he must maintain open contact with students and provide an atmosphere conducive to the free discussion of student problems. For this reason he instituted Chancellor's Chats and dinner discussions in his home with students this year. He also met formally with students in his office and informally at dorm dinners.

Institute of Aviation Expands Horizons with New United DC-6

This year the Institute of Aviation took an important step forward with the reception of a United DC-6 into its flight line at the University of Illinois-Willard Airport. This aircraft, a gift to the Institute from the United Air Lines Corporation, was consolidated into the Institute's class curriculum giving students the training which correlates more closely with that desired by the major aviation industries. The Institute believed that the new dimension in aviation experience with this class of aircraft would be likely to enhance the career opportunities of the students.

In addition, the Institute offered the students activities serving as contacts between the aviation industry and educational institutions for the purpose of studying problems of everyday living which are influenced by the Aerospace Age. The Institute tried to develop the student.

Many Student Organizations Unify Ag College

Although the College of Agriculture's basis of learning was secured in the basic biological and physical sciences, much stress was placed on establishing in students a sense of identity with their particular industry. Most students were involved in at least one of the 18 clubs organized. These clubs were primarily technical and closely associated with the student's special career interests. SNIB/BITS, the official Ag College newspaper, was published by an Ag student College staff to keep students informed of Ag, Home Ec and club activities.

In addition to the clubs and the newspaper, a non-credit orientation meeting was held weekly to tie the college together.

Just as college unity was stressed, so, too, was individual attention emphasized by a good advisory service. This counseling service followed an open door policy, and each student chose his own advisor.

A notable characteristic of the College of Agriculture was its students were generally more certain of their ultimate occupational goals. Approximately 92% of the 10,000 Ag graduates remained in Agricultural pursuits, while about 40% of those graduating with a B.S. degree continued to pursue their Ag studies in graduate school.

Weekly orientation meetings enabled students to become familiar with all available curriculums in Agriculture.

Subject Changes Concern College of Commerce

JOSEPH W. McGUIRE, Dean of the College of Commerce

With a new dean, the College of Commerce saw new direction in the curriculum and the initiation of practical training. Liberalizing the curriculum and serving the community were the goals of 1968.

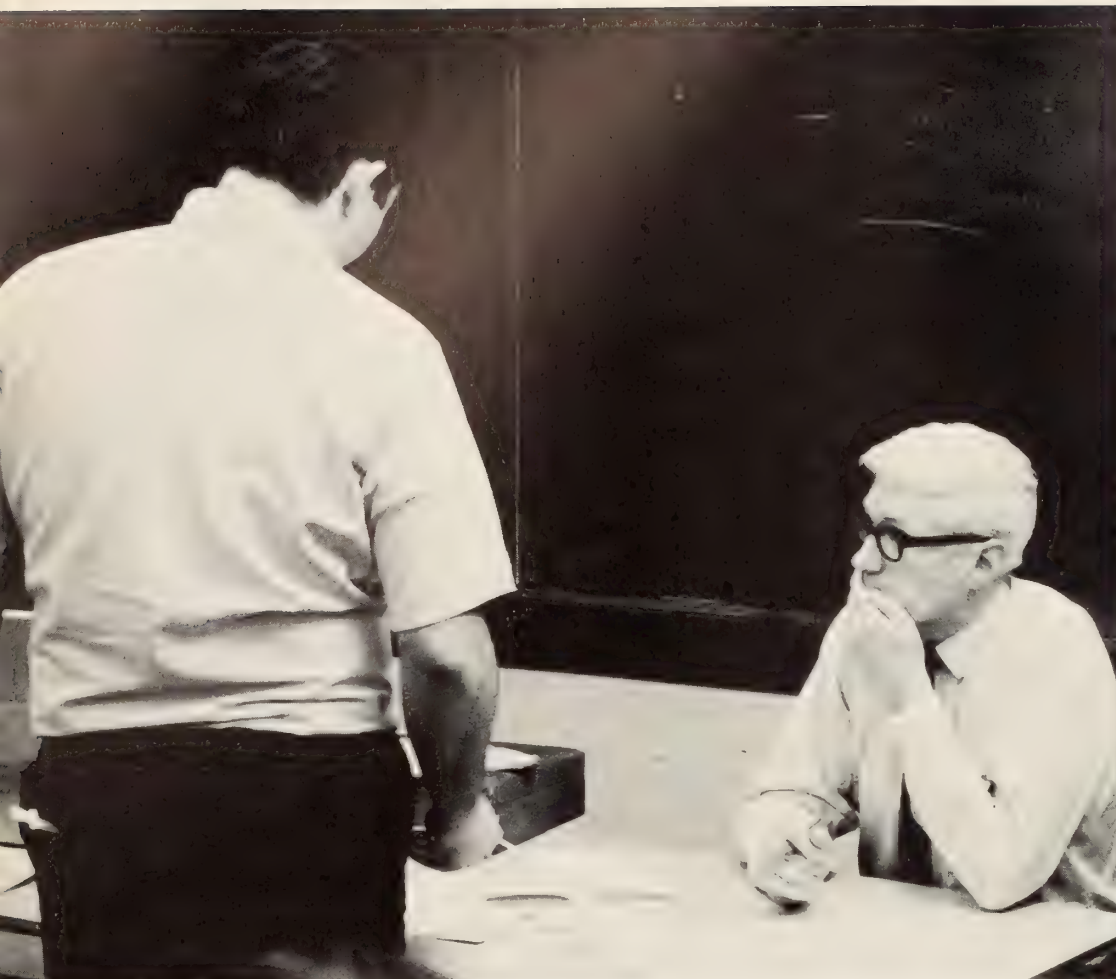

Fulfilling the core courses required for the undergraduates in Commerce used to take more than the desired eight semesters. A few of the core courses were eliminated; this change made it possible for undergrads in Commerce to take more electives and still receive their degree in four years.

As a service to the community, interested Commerce students helped systematize the accounting registers at some of the local small businesses. They also helped by instructing young people in junior achievement programs in this area.

These new ideas became manifest following a series of coffee hours attended by both students and faculty. A committee was formed from this group, and the changes made.

Undergraduate students in the College of Commerce and Business both give and receive practical instruction.

Newswriting course 211 is a requirement for undergrads of this college.

Communications Approaches College with a Personal Touch

Comparatively small, the college of Journalism and Communications, with an enrollment of only 374 undergraduate students, succeeded in giving its students a more personal Big U education.

Juniors and Seniors entering the two-year undergraduate college from other disciplines discovered a less formal curriculum in which classes were smaller and out-of-class instruction was closer than in most colleges. Instructors were alive, energetic and interested and maintained a good easy-going rapport with their students to give each student the impression "I know that I belong here."

Students, although required to follow certain basic courses in one of the broad departments of advertising, journalism, and radio-television were free to mix-and-match their major courses and required general electives in such a way as to achieve a personalized program of study especially designed to meet each student's needs and desires for the future.

The Division of University Broadcasting is also included under the college's administration. Through their experience working on WILL Radio, AM and FM, and the Motion Picture Production Unit, which produces instructional programs, the students gained valuable practical knowledge of the mass media system from the inside track. Other students found part-time newspaper experience made profitable leads to full-time jobs.

THEODORE PETERSON
Dean of the College of Communications

Radio-television gives communications students valuable practical experience.

Education students often find the comfortably furnished modern lounges conducive to between-class chats.

Glass enclosed lounges can bring the outside in to students or vice versa.

Ed Majors Discover a World Of Modern Teaching Methods

Upon first glance at the College of Education building the thought that comes to mind is "progress." Indeed, the students were presented with the newest and the most modern Teaching Methods Program.

Two aspects of this program in which students were most involved were the Micro-Teaching Laboratory and the Student-Teaching Plan. In the Lab, "Ed" Students prepared lessons and presented them to Freshmen Student-Teacher Evaluators. The practice instruction periods were then video-taped and replayed for the benefit of the Student-Teachers. This Lab work was a stepping stone to the Student-Teaching Plan. By this plan students were placed, along the lines of their individual curriculums, into a variety of real-life teaching situations.

The College of Education building offered Undergraduates study rooms in the lower level of the building, commonly called "study carols"—well sound-proofed and quite conducive to cramming for "that mid-term that just happens to be tomorrow." Also available to the students was a well-stocked reference room. Finally for just "taking a break" many Education students retreated to one of the main lounges at the north and south ends of the College of Education building.

The Education Building's distinctive style inspires budding teachers.

Engineering Students Maintain High Standards

Under the new leadership of Dean Daniel C. Drucker, 3,500 undergraduate students set engineering as their goal. Small classes, individual contact with instructors, and an effective system of faculty advisors enabled students to find answers to unanswered questions. Student participation in research programs, continuous appraisal of teaching and counseling methods, and the job placement services helped fulfill personal needs.

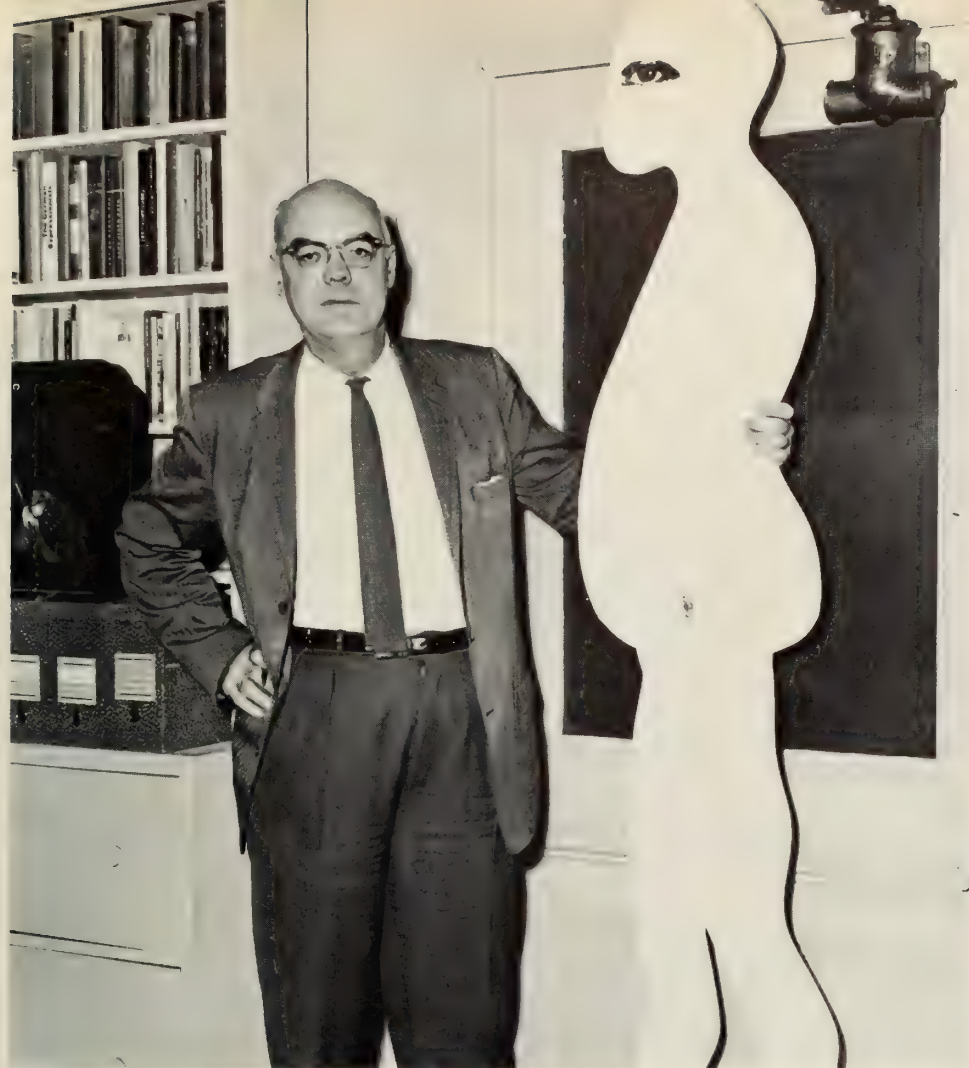

Although not always successful, students slaved over physics, mathematics and computer science problems in order to find more meaning in life through a socially useful career in engineering. In addition, out-of-college elective courses were found trying. Equally hard were exams and scheduling time for extracurricular activities. Despite difficulties, students found they did more in a year than they imagined. The college taught them to think clearly and accurately, gave them the fundamentals of sound engineering, and extended opportunities to contribute to effective practical action and application.

DANIEL DRUCKER, Dean of the College of Engineering

Students devote long hours of studying to Physics, Math and Computer Science in the College of Engineering.

ALLEN WELLER, Dean of Fine and Applied Arts

The College of Fine and Applied Arts was probably the most diversified on the campus. It boasted of seven teaching departments and five non-teaching departments. All curricula were professional curricula. The students strove to be professionals—the best in the field, and the college had a large staff to direct them through individual instruction and criticism.

This year the dance department was added to the list of the college's many departments: art, music, theatre, architecture and community planning. This addition was a result of the construction of the $20 million Krannert Center for Performing Arts which was built to provide adequate facilities to work with opera, orchestra, choral, theatre, and dance groups.

The opening of this center was expected to help provide the highest quality of education for professional careers while also providing excellent facilities for outstanding public entertainment.

This exhibition, Century of Design, was designed by graduate students in Architecture and Graphic Design.

Grad Students Represent all Academic Areas

The Graduate College is the only academic unit that encompasses all of the colleges on campus. Of the eight-thousand students enrolled in the school this year, most continued directly from their undergraduate studies. However, a large percentage came to the U of I from all across the country.

Many graduate students worked on individual studies and research in labs. Each student usually did work significantly different from that of undergraduates and even other graduates. Teaching assistants were also unique to the Graduate College since they found themselves both students and faculty.

The Graduate College instituted a program in which graduate students had the opportunity to meet with many University guest speakers in order to discuss each speaker's lecture. The Center for Advanced Study was also established by the College. It provided for many conferences, colloquia, and lectures to actively promote an interchange of ideas among the students, faculty members, and guests.

IGPA Aides Government and Graduate-Level Research Work

The Institute of Government and Public Affairs, a new organization, began operations in 1951 at the suggestion of the state legislature. The Institute bridges the gap between the political and academic worlds by working with state officials and political leaders to help research and solve government problems. It then publishes its research findings and brings them back to the University making them available to graduate students and professors, especially those in political science.

Beside guiding graduate research students, the Institute also sponsors an Illinois Legislative Staff Internship Program each year for fourteen students. This program offers them professional staff assignments with state legislative offices and agencies which relate to their graduate studies.

State and local government people discuss problems of government finance at a special Allerton assembly.

Senate; Priscilla Herbison; Bruce Zumstein; Barry Marcus.

The Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations was established to bring the work of the various social sciences to bear on the problems of industrial science. The Institute, which was established at the University in the late 1940's, relied heavily on research. The staff came from the fields of sociology, psychology, economics, political science, history, law, business administration, and engineering.

Within three chosen fields of study, the students have a freedom of curricula. These graduate students came from a variety of backgrounds and entered the Institute with professional goals in mind. Their goals were to obtain all the tools necessary to get a proper view of the problems they will encounter in dealing with unions, industry, and government. After obtaining their degree, most students have worked in industry. Some have worked on the National Labor Relations Board, the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, and Urban Leagues. Graduating students were becoming more interested in coordinating manpower and civil rights.

The Institute had a current, large exchange program with Japan. Members of the Institute were studying the effect of culture on organization and standardized technologies in plants here and Japan.

JOHN CRIBBET
Dean of College of Law

Law students learn through experience by participating in a mock trial.

Diligent Students in Law Today: Tomorrow Lawyers, Judges, . . .

The Law Library in the Law Building facilitates the aspiring grad student.

Only 29 women out of 604 students from more than 140 colleges and universities were represented in the College of Law. The law students could be found studying in the new 200,000 volume law library or relaxing in the law lounge where coffee and rolls could be purchased during the day. Walking through the law building, one could encounter many students standing around discussing politics, public statutes, and case studies.

Case studies rather than textbook readings occupied most of the law students' time. There was a heavy emphasis on procedure in a courtroom, and the law students had practical experience with mock trials at both the trial and appellate level. Seminars provided a place for discussions of controversial topics.

Law is a fascinating and demanding profession which requires patient research, reasoning ability, and interest in laws and statutes. Decisions were usually based on precedents, but often a novel case arose where the decision was based on logical reasoning. Thus, the College of Law provided the student with practical experience to prepare him to meet the challenge he would find in the practice of law.

LAS Initiates New Programs for Undergraduate Learning

The largest college on campus, LAS, this year enrolled 10,812 students. To meet the demands of so many students, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences initiated many new programs and altered still other programs to maintain the University's traditional level of academic excellence.

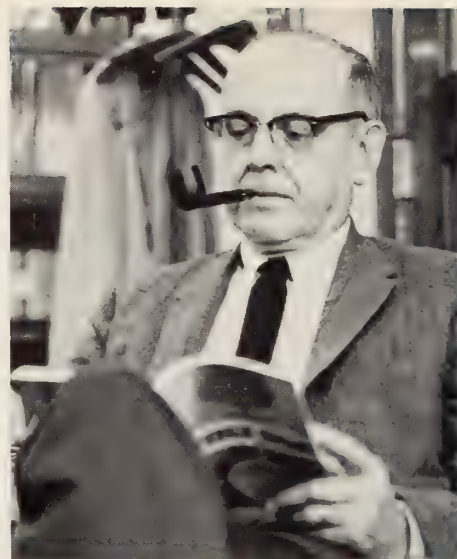

One of the major changes in 1968 was the elimination of the English Qualifying Test for all students who did not receive a "B" or better in DGS 112 or Rhetoric 102. In place of this test the University organized a Writing Lab that was equipped with typewriters, video tape machines, tape recorders, and drills for reading. Although the Writing Lab was only an experimental program this year, it is expected to become an important part of the rhetoric program in time.

Another change affecting LAS administration was the elimination of the Division of General Studies programs. The former DGS courses moved under the standard department headings. To accommodate this major change, special advising was given to freshmen and sophomores with undeclared majors.

The Special Educational Opportunities Program, better known as SEOP or Project 500, has also been helped by the College of LAS. Three new courses: Mathematics 101, Psychology 105, and Rhetoric 103 were initiated to supplement SEOP students' backgrounds.

Foreign language idioms and pronunciation are studied in the language lab.

DIRECTOR HERBERT GOLDHOR
Graduate School of Library Science

The Library Science Students Have Many Facilities Available

The Graduate School of Library Science has many unique aspects in its students and programs. One of these is that it is open only to those working on the graduate level, toward masters and doctorate degrees as well as special Sixth Year certificates. The enrollment in the school was small, yet the students represented twenty-eight states and seven foreign countries. Of those students enrolled in the graduate program, most did their undergrad work in education. It was also found half of them would go on to work in academic libraries. The other half would be in special, school, or public libraries.

The student's laboratory was the library itself, since it offered facilities for research and study. A lounge for library science students was available, too.

The school also provided special programs for its students. Colloquia met most Thursday mornings throughout the semester and featured guest speaker discussions about library topics. The Windsor Lectures offered a series of spring lectures.

After preparation of a culture, it is observed under a laboratory microscope.

Test tubes containing various dilutions are employed in a Phenol test.

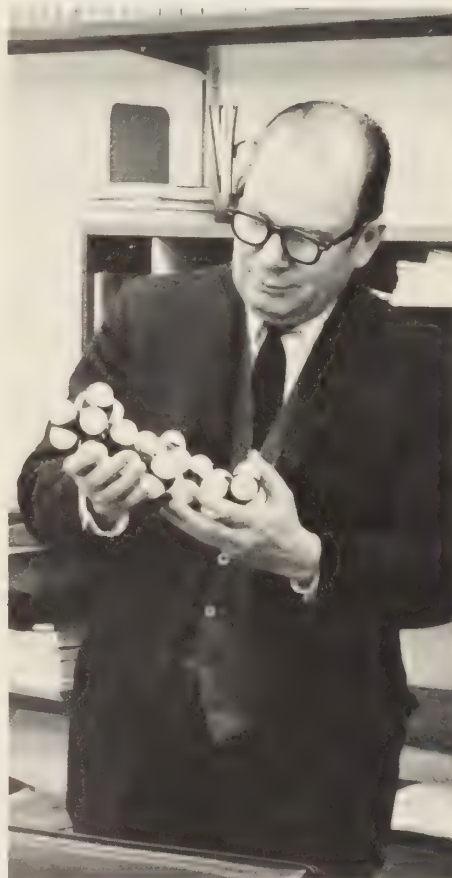

Life Sciences Coordinates Learning and Training

This year 800 students were enrolled in one of the College of Life Sciences fields of Biophysics, Entomology, Physiology, Microbiology, Botany, and Zoology. Their only prerequisites were an interest in the biological fields, a degree of dexterity, a basic knowledge of quantum functions, and the ability to discern three-dimensional objects.

A unique division of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the School of Life Sciences divided its departments into separate administrative units which worked together in joint programs in order to maintain the highest possible level of student instructional methods.

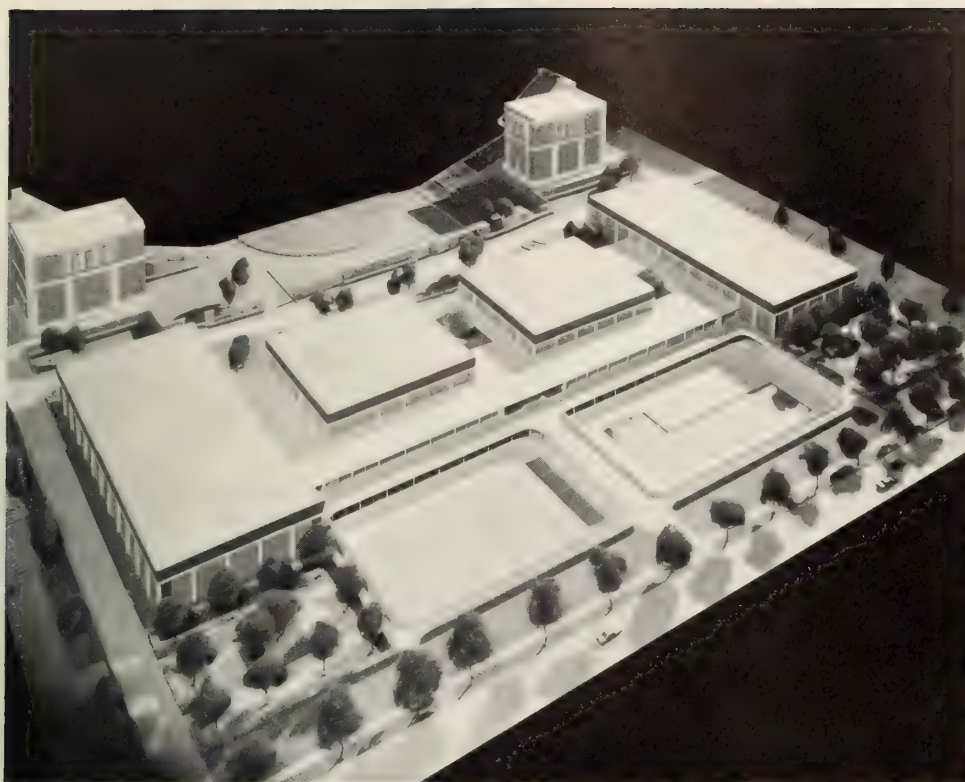

The laboratory phase of study was emphasized. Labs provided students with an opportunity to observe both experimental and researched phenomena, and they encouraged frequent student-faculty interaction and discussion. Lab training encouraged the students to be responsible and to find their own solutions to problems—to discover their own identities.

KING McCRISTAL
Dean of the College of Physical Education

People who were outgoing, activity-minded, and interested in athletics, children and the out-of-doors were found in the College of Physical Education.

The PE Library located in the main library building had the largest book, microcard, and periodical collection in the U.S. A new intramural PE Building was under construction.

All University students were required to take two years of PE, but few realized the many areas of research and study available in this college. The Department of Health and Safety Education researched the relationship between health and exercise, studied anti-smoking education for the U.S. Public Health Service, and researched the relationship of alcohol and driving. Illinois drivers tests were prepared in a lab in this department.

The Department of PEM researched the fitness and character of both middle-aged men, and boys between 8 and 12. An experimental sport fitness school for boys was run during the summer.

The Department of PEW included a human movement research laboratory. A field laboratory experience was included in the program of the Department of Recreation and Park Administration which set up a recreation community program that provided recreation students with practical experience.

Accredited in 1946 by the Council on Social Work Education, the Jane Addams School of Social Work is a two-year professional curriculum leading to the Master of Social Work degree. It is the only college that has two campuses under the direction of one faculty. The school has its headquarters in Urbana, and there is also a branch on the Circle Campus.

The school's focus this year was a "generic education" for professional practice in Social Work. The program offered a choice of concentration in either casework or group work with an opportunity for more specialized learning through in-the-field instruction.

In addition to the graduate program, the school offered a limited number of undergraduate courses, extension courses in Chicago and throughout the state, besides summer institutes at Allerton House. It also contributed to the social welfare of Illinois through research, special training for agency staff members, consultation with agencies, and other services helpful to the tax-supported institutions.

In the field instruction was beneficial to graduate students of social work.

Scholarships, Grants, and Loans Characterize Foundation Office

Working with the Alumni Association, the Foundation aided students with scholarships and grants.

Financial arm of the University, the University of Illinois Foundation this year served three broad major functions. It was the University's financial agent, invention-licensing office, and special gifts and bequests administrator.

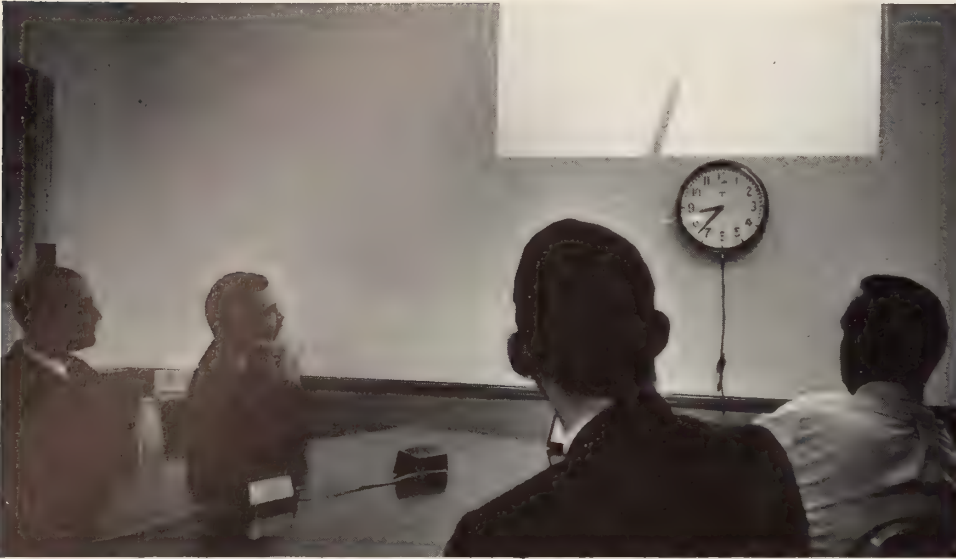

As such, the University Foundation worked in close conjunction with its near neighbor in the Illini Union, the Alumni Association, in its task of keeping the University a going concern with adequate assets.

Students familiar with the Foundation Office know it best for its scholarships, grants, loans, and aid funds. This year over 500 students received scholarship aids through this office.

Its other activities for the year included student scholarships and loans, library collections, the Law Alumni Fund, the College of Agriculture Fund, art acquisitions, Chicago Circle scholarships and loans, graduate fellowships, grants-in-aid, the General Unrestricted Fund, medical research, and engineering funds.

Multimedia Expands Extension Service Potential

Many working engineers attend off-campus courses through the multimedia.

The "arm" of the University, the University of Illinois Division of University Extension extends all University resources and services—except Agriculture—to adults across the state. This last year the University Extension reached a total of 55,290 people enrolled in formal programs of instruction carried on through Extension.

Alumni Association Creates a New Student-Alumni Dialogue

The Alumni Association, the link between past and present students, tried this year to do more than present Alumni Achievement Awards; publish the Alumni newspaper; maintain alumni addresses and biographical data; sponsor group tours, class reunions, Illini Club meetings and departmental constituent groups; answer special alumni requests; perform special projects for the University; help raise funds for University projects; augment Illini Club Scholarships; honor senior campus leaders with a recognition banquet; handle graduation details; coordinate alumni and student Homecoming plans; and maintain the U of I Placement Center.

The Association this year also sought to start a dialogue between alumni and students. Alumni gatherings were held for a first time this year with student panels to enable old and new alumni to meet today's students, understand them, and better understand the confusing sweeping changes of attitude taking place on this campus today and on all campuses all across the nation—to narrow the generation gap. The Association also sponsored student groups which toured the state and informed Illinois residents about students, University issues, and the young people of today—where they are going, what they are doing, and what they are thinking.

Rehab Center Helps Rehabs Lead Full Lives

The University of Illinois Rehabilitation—Education Program and Rehabilitation—Education Center enables properly qualified students with permanent disabilities to pursue a higher education and benefit from the same experiences common to all students.

This year the Rehabilitation Center offered many services to the physically handicapped student. Medical services, physical therapy, functional therapy, occupational therapy, special services, prosthetics and adaptive devices counseling, and services for the blind and deaf student were available. Four special buses carried rehabs to campus classes.

To supplement its formal therapy program the Center sponsored wheelchair baseball, football, basketball, bowling, archery, track and field, table tennis, fencing, cheerleading, square dancing, adaptive swimming, and bowling for the blind rehab students.

University of Illinois GIZZ KIDS, world famous for their wheelchair athletic teams, were members of the Midwest conference of the National Wheelchair Basketball Association which has six other conferences all across the nation. Beside games, the team went on its annual tour, this year to Hawaii.

Delta Sigma Omicron, a co-educational service fraternity organized to promote academic, physical and social welfare of handicapped persons on and off campus, sponsored picnics, banquets, and other social activities and administered the Center's intramural sports program. Delta Sigma Omicron has contributed over $5,000 to benevolent purposes in rehabilitation and education. The motto of the fraternity best described the objectives of the disabled student at the University of Illinois: "To exercise our abilities to the maximum so as to minimize our disabilities, that we may live and serve best."

Dean of College of Veterinary Medicine

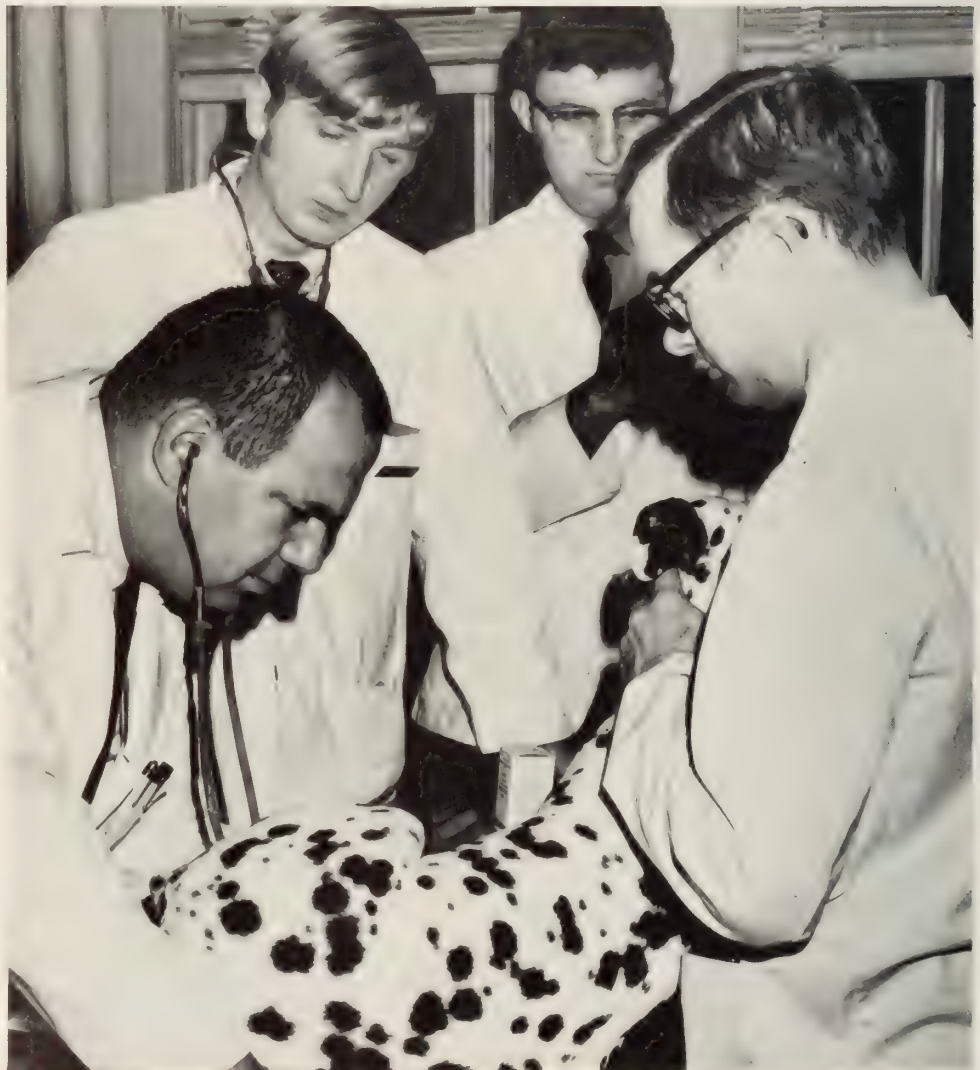

Two vet-med students check movements of a animal's heart on a cardiograph.

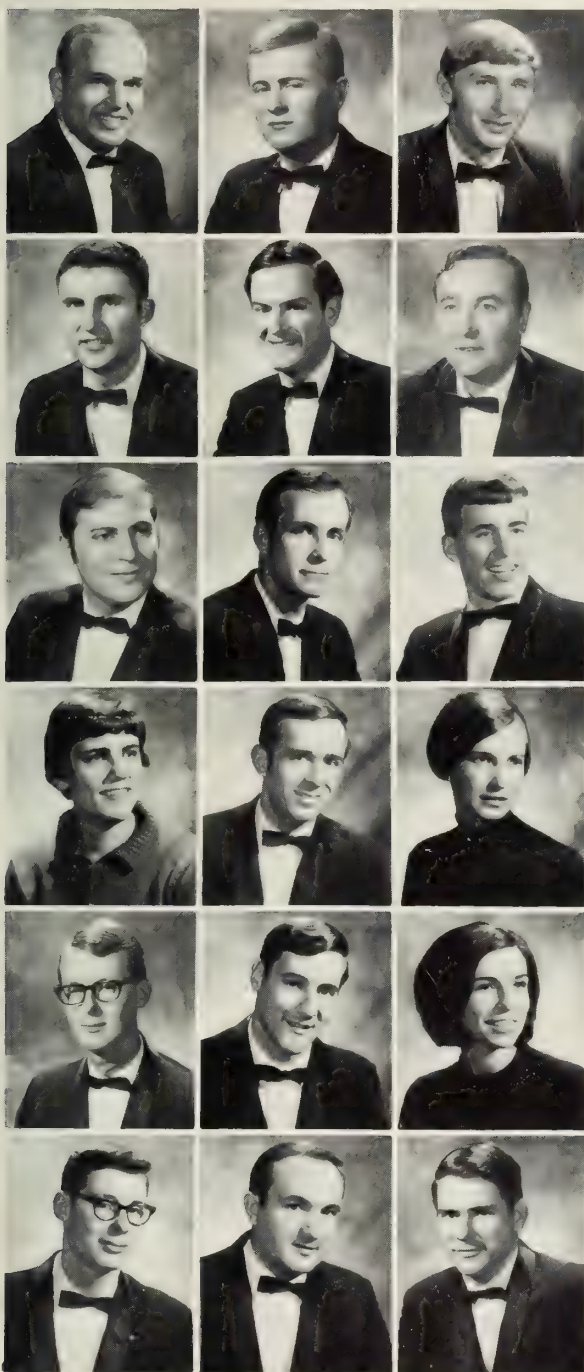

College of Veterinary Medicine Enlarges Campus

The start of construction on the first phase of a new veterinary medicine campus, and the arrival of a new dean highlighted the year for the College of Veterinary Medicine. Construction of a new small animal clinic and obstetrics complex began during the Spring of 1968 on a 23-acre relocation site at the junction of Lincoln Avenue and Saint Mary's Road. Building progressed ahead of schedule this year, and the new facilities should be finished by February, 1970. Plans for a new large animal clinic are already well underway.

Dr. L. Meyer Jones, former Dean of the University of Georgia School of Veterinary Medicine, took the reins of the College September 1, replacing Dr. C. A. Brandly who retired after 12 years in the deanship. Seventy-four new first-year students brought enrollment in the College's four-year professional program to a record 270. The prospective veterinarians studies basic biomedical sciences such as anatomy, chemistry, biology, and pathology. In addition, they received professional instruction and practical experience in treatment, surgery, and clinical practice techniques.

What a Year

Many things have happened this past year to make my job as editor of the 1969 ILLIO a memorable experience. I attended the yearbook workshop at the University of Minnesota during June and the Associated Collegiate Press convention in New York during November. I also had the opportunity to work with a really great staff.

This year we changed to a three column basic page plan to provide a wider variety of page layouts. Who's Who at Illinois, the honoraries, and the Queens were incorporated into a new section—Distinguished Illini. There are twenty-nine color pictures in the ILLIO allowing the Homecoming pages to be presented in color.

The best times were spent working with the staff—whether it be working late at night or idle moments in the office. With conflicting deadlines and hourlies, we learned to get along with little sleep and even less time for studying. I want to thank my junior editors for compiling their sections: Chris Habecost and Kathy Depke on Student Life, Bill Thonn and Barb Szot on Sports, Pam Eichman and Sheila Parish on Activities, JoAnne Fredrikson and Connie Bartoli on Residences, Bill Tarney and Marilyn Elliott on Organizations, and Margie Pinc and Polly Brubaker on Learning. Their diligence kept us on schedule.

I want to thank Bill Broom, business manager, and the business staff for the sales, billing, and indexing of the ILLIO.

I want to thank my associate editors—Jane Baer, Sophie Hall, Jim McGrath, and Sharon Scheibel—who gave their advice and kept staff spirits high.

I want to thank Kathie Scott, 1968 ILLIO editor, for the experience the staff gained from working with her on the 1968 ILLIO, which received a First Class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press. I also want to thank—the IPC Photo Staff who provided all the Who's Who, Queens, Sports, and candid pictures; Patricia O'Connor for designing the cover and division pages; Prof. Perlman for organizing the cover competition; and Mr. Paul McMichael for answering my questions.

The 1969 ILLIO was a group effort. We tried to give an accurate account of the 1968-69 school year. I hope you appreciate our efforts.
